HARNEY COUNTY HAS KICK COMING

Residents in Eastern Part of the State Enumerate List of Grievances.

Numerous residents of Burns, Oregon, address a letter to The Journal in which they voice apparently some of the grievances which that section of Oregon holds against the Willamette valley, the Portland papers and the business men's excursion into eastern Oregon.

In speaking of the recent trip which representatives of Portland's business houses made over the O. R. & N., the letter states: "When the junketing commercial bodies of the metropolis visit the towns that contribute to their wealth they can hardly be induced to leave their Pullmans, and then only for the purpose of jollying the inhabitants into supporting a monopoly of through freight rates to the end of the road to be paid again by the swindled retailer by the unfair and unjust tariff discrimination."

"In a recent issue of the Oregonian, containing an elaborate and highly illustrated special tourists and home-seekers' edition, every article was devoted to the country west of the Cascades and Blue mountain range. The great inland empire was not given a line."

"Harney county today has more acres of meadow land, more good building stone, more horses, cattle, sheep, more money per capita, and pays more per capita into the state treasury, and gets less credit than any other county in the state."

"We have more land for the landless man, progressive towns, good schools, more church organizations, according to population, and last, but not least, the best people on earth have done more to clear away false impressions regarding this country than all of the commercial bodies in the state."

The letter is signed by the following: J. T. Garrett, Theodore Miller, W. C. Brown, George S. Sizemore, F. T. Randall, H. E. Mace, J. C. Turner, H. M. Horton, R. D. Burrow, F. O. Jackson, I. S. Geer, G. A. Rembold, I. Schwartz, V. J. Hopkins, J. H. Culp, J. Gemberling, James Smith, H. J. Hansen, H. E. Fallon, W. E. Huxton, William Hanley, J. C. Welcome, A. F. B. George, M. A.
