Game Good Exhibition

The game itself was a great exhibi-tion from the viewpoint of the spectacylar. It was full of long flys. There were several close plays and numerous errors. Then there were times when the fans expected Portland to send a whole regiment of players across the whole regiment of players across the pan and at once everlastingly swamp. Frisco's four little tallies; but when Pogland didn't. The game started with three rattling good innings in which there was no score. Then the Frisco sluggers fell onto Groom's curves and landed three safe hits almost in succession. To make matters worse Groom went into the air and gave two passes, the result being that Moriarity, Wheeler, Williams and Murphy all made the circuit around the diamond.

The Thrilling Sixth.

That put Portland away behind, but in the sixth the fans yelled themselves hearse, for things looked mighty good. Jones soaked Shinn in the back. Lovett hit safe and both he and Shinn went two bags because Wheeler lost the ball between his legs. Jones soaked Casey and the bases were full with nobody out. Didn't it look good? But no; three gentle files of the plum pudding sort were put into the air by the next three batters and the inning was over. In the eighth the fans went wild again when Portland made her three runs. The thing was done by safe swats on the part of Lovett, Casey and Basey and on a couple of errors by Moriarity at short. In the ninth, with two out, hit safe and both he and Shinn wen ning catch, which saved a greater ca-tastrophe in the fourth. He made a at short. In the ninth, with two out, there was a chance for a tied score, for Lovett pounded out a two-bagger, but Casey followed with an easy fly, and the first game of the season was over. Here's what the official scorer has to say about it: fine throw in, which, however, Murphy ran into as he was scoring. cult feat of picking a fly off the out-field fence, but he had to bump into it himself with enough force to make him
