PARSON RAINES JOINS TONGUERS

Tangled Conversationalists Convert Latah Preacher to Their Faith.

SKY PILOT THROWS FIT IN HEAT OF EXCITEMENT

Boys, Who Are Not Possessed of Due Reverence, Throw Stones Through Windows of the Meeting House of Cult at Spokane.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Spokane, Wash., May 15.—The gospel of tongues has secured another big convert, from pastor D. W. Raines of Latah being the victim. He has become converted and is now allowing the speakers of the strange religion to hold meetings in his house. Mr. Lawler and wife came out from Spokane and started the local mission and then left. Wood and Miss Riley in charge. Rev. Raines attended a meeting held at E. R. Gilbert's and came so under the influence of the mysterious power that he fell prostrate upon his back and laid there for some time, seemingly unconscious, while at the same time one of the women heeled was kneeling near his head and keeping up a continuous fluttering and waving of her hands near his face. Other women knelt near his feet. There is much excitement here about the matter. Great crowds of children gather around the houses and look in, last night some boys threw stones through the window.

LANE IS TO BE

Mayor Lane was adopted unanimously and Dr. Alan Welch Smith, the secretary of the association, was delegated as a committee to present the resolutions to the mayor.

Doctors Support Lane.
The resolutions as adopted are as follows: "Whereas, Our brother physician and fellow member, Dr. Harry Lane, has about completed his first term as mayor of Portland; "Whereas, His administration has been characterized by honesty and fearlessness and a high sense of duty unusual in city government; "Resolved, That the City and County Medical society hereby express our commendation of his course and pledge him our hearty well wishes for his reelection."

NINE YEARS' SENTENCE

18 months at McNeill's island. Wayne looked at Carter and smiled, as much as to say, "You are lucky." Wayne's speech showed his previous experience in courtrooms, for, to those who listened, it varied little from the usual plea made by lawyers appearing for their clients. He said: "Wayne's Ardent Speech. "May it please your honor, the city officers and newspapers of this city have made me appear as a criminal of the worst type. There is nothing which could give them that opportunity save the fact that I served a sentence in the Colorado penitentiary for a crime which was committed under circumstances over which I had no control. "It is true that I did commit the crime, but I served part of my sentence and was paroled. When I was allowed to go free the authorities refused me money with which to get away from the prison. I borrowed $7 from my fellow-inmates and returned to Denver. "When I arrived there the authorities refused to allow me the privilege of making a living at honest work and ordered me to leave the city. I went to Salina and endeavored to secure work. I was refused for one cause or the other and was forced to leave the state to make a living. "I wanted to be better; I wanted to lead an honest life. I stand here because of the ignorance of others which controlled me. I stand here the victim of blighted hopes and ambitions and ask your honor to deal with me as leniently as the mercy of the court will allow."

Fervent Record Recalled.
Judge Wolverton then asked Assistant United States Attorney James Cole if he had anything to say in regard to Wayne's crime. Mr. Cole stated that it had been agreed not to bring Wayne's previous record against him in the case, but stated that it was not due to Wayne that Officer Sorenson, who was wounded in the battle with the robbers, was still living. "Wayne and his confederates went to the Sellwood station to rob the office and determined to let no one nor nothing to deter them from their efforts to loot the office," said Mr. Cole. "That Sorenson is still living is not due to anything Wayne did. Besides that I have nothing to say and will let the charges in the indictment be the evidence against Wayne, who has confessed his guilt."

Judge Wolverton then said: "Your plea of guilty is a plea of guilty to five counts. It is not necessary to enumerate them at this time. It is a heinous offense to break into a post-office or a government building used for a postoffice. You went to Sellwood determined to rob the postoffice at that place of its contents."

Judge Pronounces Sentence.
"It was your intention to accomplish that object and to let nothing prevent you. Sorenson being at hand attempted to prevent you and either you or one of your co-conspirators shot him with intent to kill him, and did cripple him. The sentence of the court shall be that you serve three years on the first count, two years each on the second and third counts, and one year each on the fourth counts. Nine years in all at hard labor at McNeill's island."

At this point Attorney MacMahon, appearing for Charles Anderson, another of the bandits, asked for an order detaining Wayne in Portland under the marshal's care that he might appear as a witness in the case of Anderson. Mr. Cole objected to this and asked

DIES FROM PECULIAR DISEASE CONTRACTED BY MILKING COWS

The recent death of Ray Condon at Cloverdale, Tillamook county, who died of septicæmia, is puzzling the fraternal medical fraternity of the state. The disease resulted from cow-pox which Condon contracted while milking cows. Dr. Brown of Cloverdale has made a thorough report of the case to Dr. R. C. Tenney of this city, secretary of the state board of health. According to Dr. Brown the symptoms were those of genuine cow-pox as it affects cows and not of the usual form of septicæmia. The disease is contracted through the hands from a cow when the udders are affected by the same disease. A person cannot be inoculated, however, unless the flesh of the hand be exposed by scratches or cracks. The disease is most contagious in late winter or early spring. The veterinarians and dairymen say that at this time of the year cows wade in the swamps and bogs, where the udders become covered with mud. This dries in the sunshine and cracks the skin. The infection is supposed to reach the exposed places on the udders from about the barn or sheds.

WOMAN OUSTED FROM HOME SHE HAS OCCUPIED FOR 37 YEARS

Judge Sears in the circuit court this morning gave judgment of ouster against Mrs. Martha Dalton, holding that she must leave the premises at 451 Alder street, which she has occupied for 37 years, in order that the trustees of the Cardwell estate may erect a $40,000 building on the property. The suit was instituted by Mrs. Helen R. Cardwell, trustee of the estate, because Mrs. Dalton refused to move, alleging that she had been given a life interest in the property by her deceased brother, Byron P. Cardwell. The question determined by Judge Sears was whether a life interest could be acquired by adverse possession. The property was purchased in 1870 for $1,000. Mrs. Cardwell testified at the trial that she can lease the property with the building which she proposes to erect, for $500 a month.

the court to grant time that notice might be properly sent her before granting the order. Judge Wolverton accordingly set the time for tomorrow morning when he will listen to arguments.

Carter Given Eighteen Months.
Carter then appeared and, through his attorney, R. Citron, pleaded guilty to the fourth count of his indictment charging him with having received stolen stamps from the St. Johns office. The remaining counts in the indictment charged Carter with robbing the postoffice. He denied this and by an agreement with Mr. Cole it was decided that if Carter pleaded to the fourth count the remaining four would not be pressed. Carter acknowledged that he was given the stamps, valued at $318, and disposed of them for $100, for which he received a commission of $30. It was not disclosed this morning who gave the stamps to Carter nor to whom he sold them. Judge Wolverton allowed the agreement of the attorneys to stand and sentenced Carter to 18 months at hard labor at McNeill's island.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MAY MAKE HARRIMAN TALK

Disclosure of Magnate's Methods Will Move Commerce Commission to Action.

(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, May 15.—The disclosure of Harriman's practices and recommendations of Kellogg and Severance in the matter, may hasten action by the interstate commerce commission in a suit to force Harriman to answer the questions he refused to answer during the recent inquiry. The papers will all be turned over to the attorney general to take such action as he sees fit.

JOHN A. DAVIS DIES AT HIS COUNTRY HOME

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, Wash., May 15.—John A. Davis, president of the Davis-Kaser company and one of the most prominent pioneers of Walla Walla county, died at his country home south of the city yesterday of heart trouble. Mr. Davis was 67 years of age, and leaves, besides Mrs. Davis, a family of 10 children. He was a native of Indiana and crossed the plains in the early '60s. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning.

MINER KILLED BY GAS AT BOTTOM OF SHAFT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Helena, Mont., May 15.—John Kecht, a well-known mining man, aged 50, and a resident of this city, was instantly killed last evening at Silver. He had a contract to sink a shaft and while at the bottom struck gas. He started to climb out, but when 30 feet from the bottom fell back overboard and was killed. He leaves a wife and family.

BARONESS DE MASSEY TO SERVE SEVEN YEARS

New York, May 15.—Baroness de Massey, convicted of manslaughter for killing Gustav Simon, was sentenced today to seven years in prison.

THE OLD TIME GAMES.

I want to go back to the old home nest, And swing on the sycamore tree; I want to go home again, and rest And let my heart go free; And play the games with the old time zest.

With the boy that I used to be: "Chica-ma-chica-ma-cra-nee-crow, Went to the well to wash her toe, When she got there her chickens were gone! What time, old witch? I want to play hide and seek again, And climb in the old hay loft. Oh, the world is empty and all in vain Its riches, and oft and oft I turn aside from the path of pain To list to a whisperer's wit: "One mail, two mail, nickerball, man, Bobtail vinegar, tickler, tan, Harum, scarum, Irish harum Swingerum, Swangerum, Washumbonek."

WHEAT BOOSTED

Today's market made a more wonderful showing in price making than Monday, because the advance then was all made at the opening. In all options except December, today's opening was at a loss from yesterday's close. July opened at 1 1/4 cents down, and in the September option the initial decline amounted to 3/4c. Soon after the opening it became evident that the bears were caught in a strong trap by the Wall street clique. In vain did the bears spread reports of much better weather in the middle west and in Canada. They were sided temporarily by the lower range at Liverpool and the market sagged as in a dead calm. But Broomhall's report of the Russian drought soon turned the tide, and from that moment the bears knew they were in a hole and their one effort was to get out with as little damage to themselves as possible. This carried the market to new high figures for the year, with the exception of December. May went to 96 1/2c, July to 88 1/2c, September to 81 1/2c and December to 81.02 a bushel. Monday's high prices were: July 97 1/2c, September 81.02 1/2c and December 81.03. The market today closed very close to the high mark, the advances being 1/4c, 1/2c, 1/4c and 1/2c for May, July, September and December options respectively. At the close of today's market the tone was very firm, with the shorts crying for money and the bull clique again stating that it will make the bears pay 2 cents a bushel for every cent they forced the price of wheat under the dollar mark.

A letter from a miller of Anthony, Kansas, to a local firm says: "I sent you by mail today a sample small box of parasitic green bugs. If you will examine them closely you will see that fully 90 per cent of them have been stung, and if you will take care of this sample you will notice that in two or three days the parasites will hatch out. I have examined several fields in Sumner county, and find the green bugs nearly all killed, so the green bugs in southern Kansas are virtually a thing of the past."

Official reports have confirmed the news of the plowing up of an extensive area in Germany, Austria and Hungary, and recent news, unofficial in character, claims that winter killing is more extensive than given in previous reports, has lessened the acreage in the Balkan states and in many parts of southern Russia.

JAPANESE TARS SEE GAY LIFE ON BOWERY
(Journal Special Service.)
New York, May 15.—Seven hundred Japanese jockies from the visiting embassy of Japan are ashore today. Under the guidance of tars from the neighborhood of Maine they visited the Bowery. Luncheon was given them at the twenty-second Regiment armory at noon. Many of the officers visited them and lead as guests of the American citizens.
