

CAMPBELL LEAVES TO MANAGE EASTERN ROAD

Former General Passenger Agent of O. R. & N. Appointed Vice-President of New York, New Haven & Hartford Route—Harry Adams Will Probably Succeed Him.

Ben Campbell.

Ben Campbell, formerly general passenger agent of the O. R. & N. Co., probably the best-known railroad traffic man in the northwest, will leave the field in which he has gained prominence as a railroader and go to the Atlantic coast. He has been appointed vice-president in charge of traffic of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad by his old friend, ex-President Melius of the Northern Pacific, now head of the former company.

A successor for Campbell at the head of the Great Northern's traffic department has not been named, and Portland railroad men are awaiting an announcement with unusual interest. It has been recently the custom of the Hill management to take heads of departments from the Harriman lines in the Pacific northwest.

Mr. Adams is looked upon here as a probable successor to Mr. Campbell's place at the head of the Great Northern's traffic department. The brevity of his experience with that road and possible lack of personal acquaintance with the St. Paul officials of the Hill lines is believed to be his only handicap for the post.

James G. Woodworth is mentioned for the position, but his prospects on the Northern Pacific are regarded as equally bright. It has been reported that the consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern express companies under the name of Northern Express company is to be followed by appointment of J. M. Hannaford, now second vice president and traffic director of the Northern Pacific, to be president of the new express company. This would leave the way open to Mr. Woodworth to be chief of the Northern Pacific traffic department, a place equally if not more important than that to be vacated by Ben Campbell.

Mr. Campbell will go east with the best wishes of a host of Pacific coast friends. He came first to Portland in 1868, as general agent for the Union Pacific system. In 1871 he was made general freight agent of the O. R. & N. company. July 1, 1890, he was appointed assistant general manager of the Union Pacific, with headquarters in Portland. There he became general western freight agent, and later was made assistant traffic director, associated with J. C. Stubbs, at Chicago. A year ago he went to the Great Northern under Campbell, with jurisdiction of the western end and headquarters at Seattle.

The evolution of domestic cruelty in the Wilson family is related in the complaint of a divorce suit filed in the circuit court this morning by Hattie Wilson against Harry Wilson. According to Mrs. Wilson, her husband's cruelty did not happen all at once, but extended over a period of a year, during which time it gradually grew worse and ended on a year from the day of its beginning by Wilson ordering her to take her clothes and go.

They were married in Portland on April 5, 1896, says Mrs. Wilson. On May 1, 1906, less than a month after the marriage, it is alleged that Wilson struck her and called her vile names. In August of the same year he struck her with his fists and slapped her face. On May 1, 1907, the anniversary of the first cursing, Mrs. Wilson, her husband struck her with his fists, slapped her, kicked her, and then, when her face was bruised and bleeding, ordered her to take her clothes and leave the house. False accusations of infidelity are alleged to have been made by Wilson, adding to the previous acts of cruelty.

Mrs. Wilson now wants a divorce.

ILLEGAL WORK MUST STOP

Certain of Portland's Physicians Will Be Prosecuted for Criminal Practice.

By the unanimous vote of the 50 members present at the City and County Medical society last night at its annual meeting passed resolutions pledging District Attorney John Manning their concentrated assistance in getting evidence for the conviction of any and all physicians engaged in criminal practice in Portland.

Dr. Alan Welch Smith, secretary of the association, was instructed to convey the resolutions and action of the society to Attorney Manning at once. The society will immediately set about securing the conviction of all such physicians as rapidly as possible, since the number has increased alarmingly during the past few years.

"The situation has become critical," said Dr. Smith last night. "There is at least one clique of doctors who advertise their unholly vocation. They do not seek nor do they care for legitimate practice, for they are growing rich in crime. And I may add that the persons to whom I refer are persons of unquestioned ability. It is only by their knowledge of modern methods in surgery that they are prevented from getting into trouble long before this."

There are 300 members in the city and county association of medical practitioners. It represents and includes nearly every reputable practicing physician in Multnomah county, at least, all who are contiguous to and can easily reach the center of Portland.

Quarters have been arranged in the new building at Park and Alder streets that will be occupied at once. These quarters have been fitted up as club headquarters and the liberal list of journals will be gathered here for the use of the physicians.

As last night was the annual meeting the election of officers took place. Dr. L. H. Hamilton was elected president, with Dr. Calvin E. White as vice-president. Dr. Smith was selected to succeed himself as secretary. Dr. Robert H. Ellis was named as treasurer and Dr. J. C. Elliott King, Dr. Maa Cardwell and Dr. A. Titzer were chosen as a board of counselors.

WANTED ADOPTED SON TO MARRY DAUGHTER

Boy's Parents Refuse Consent, So Mrs. Foster Tries to Enlist Law to Aid Her.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) San Francisco, Cal., May 16.—Mrs. Catherine Foster's attempt to adopt 18-year-old Robert Le Tourneau in order to marry him to her 16-year-old daughter failed in Judge Harris' court at Oakland yesterday. Tourneau, who is an iron molder, has parents living in Portland.

The boy's father and mother did not sanction the contemplated nuptials and Mrs. Foster hit upon the scheme of adopting him and then giving the consent herself. The judge ruled that inasmuch as the boy's parents are still living he could not permit the adoption by a woman who wanted him as her son-in-law.

Mr. Manning said he would do nothing more in the matter until McAllister, who has been at Lakeview, returns to the city. Last Saturday the district attorney informed Judge Fraser that McAllister would be appointed and the judge replied that he wanted Galloway. This morning Manning said he was waiting for a letter from the judge, and would decide whether to appoint Galloway when he receives Judge Fraser's letter.

The appointment of Professor E. J. Hadley, principal of the Woodlawn school, as chief probation officer of the juvenile court, and Mrs. Harriet E. Morton of Philadelphia as clerk and stenographer was announced yesterday afternoon. Professor Hadley's appointment was decided upon night before last, and Mrs. Morton was selected some time ago. They will assume their duties July 1.

DUG ALLEY CLAMS FOR SALOON CHOWDER

It was exceedingly fortunate for the patrons of a saloon at Front and Pine streets that Patrolmen Humphreys and Peterson arrested A. C. Reck.

Reck was found in the rear of the establishment digging tainted clams out of a garbage barrel. Taken into custody Reck looks do not believe his name informed the officers that he intended selling the bivalves to the liquor dealers for clam chowder.

Judge Cameron, after hearing the disgusting story, committed Reck to the reformatory for the next 15 days.

MANNING AND SMITH MUST FURNISH BOND

Settlement Expected Over Appointment of Attorney for Juvenile Court.

DEFINITE ACTION WHEN M'ALLISTER RETURNS

Probable That Robert Galloway Will Secure Office Which Hadly Is Now Principal of Woodlawn School.

A conference was held between District Attorney Manning and Judge Fraser of the juvenile court yesterday afternoon which may result in the appointment of Robert Galloway as the deputy district attorney to be attached to the juvenile court, instead of E. S. J. McAllister. Rumors that an agreement had already been reached by which it was decided to appoint Galloway were denied by the district attorney this morning.

Mr. Manning said he would do nothing more in the matter until McAllister, who has been at Lakeview, returns to the city. Last Saturday the district attorney informed Judge Fraser that McAllister would be appointed and the judge replied that he wanted Galloway. This morning Manning said he was waiting for a letter from the judge, and would decide whether to appoint Galloway when he receives Judge Fraser's letter.

The appointment of Professor E. J. Hadley, principal of the Woodlawn school, as chief probation officer of the juvenile court, and Mrs. Harriet E. Morton of Philadelphia as clerk and stenographer was announced yesterday afternoon. Professor Hadley's appointment was decided upon night before last, and Mrs. Morton was selected some time ago. They will assume their duties July 1.

TESTIFY AGAINST OREGON TRUST

Furniture Dealers Tell the Grand Jury of Combine in Restraint of Trade.

Probing of the furniture trust is still going by the federal grand jury under the evidence being produced by Assistant United States Attorney James Cole, and several more witnesses appeared today before the investigating body to tell their experiences at the hands of the combine.

Witnesses who have hitherto remained silent, smarting under the "deals" they received from the combine, are said to be coming forward voluntarily, now that the trust is being investigated, ready to tell all they know. Even Mr. Cole is receiving fresh surprises at the magnitude of the operation of the combination, which is said to have absolutely controlled the furniture industry on the Pacific coast, and which work much greater than he planned for at the start.

From the evidence that can be learned it is apparent that the scheme originated by the trust was carried out to perfection. Control of prices has not been directly charged against the violators, but it is believed that such was the case, because of the fact that the combination was enabled to restrain trade and restrict sales in handling the furniture business.

Among the witnesses who have appeared today before the grand jury in relation to the furniture trust were George W. Syster, a prominent manufacturer of Tacoma, and Jesse W. Tibbitts, a wholesale furniture dealer of Tacoma. Both men are believed to have given valuable evidence for the government, although it has not been disclosed.

About 12 or 15 other witnesses have appeared at the postoffice building to testify and they will be given an opportunity this afternoon and tomorrow. After they have finished, a new witness will be brought forward it is said, and it is not believed that Mr. Cole and his assistants will have finished with the members of the trust until the middle of next week.

SNEAK THIEVES HOLD HARVEST

Great activity is being displayed throughout the city by burglars and sneak thieves, but the police have so far been unable to secure a clue to the perpetrators of any of the crimes.

Burglars entered the home of Robert L. Bush, 755 Everett street, yesterday afternoon, but only secured two gold stick pins for their trouble. The Bush family are at present visiting in the east and the residence is in charge of servants. During the temporary absence of the domestics the housebreakers effected an entrance to the dwelling by prying open a kitchen window. All of the valuable were looked in a small safe and the thieves evidently were timorous about remaining in the case sufficiently long to break open the strong box.

A Newlands, residing in the Victoria apartments, Eleventh and Columbia streets, reported to the police last night that a sneak thief entered his room about 4 p. m. yesterday and carried away a gold rope watch chain, an opal ring, a Fleur de Lis opal and pearl ring, a Canadian maple leaf breast pin, a red enamel Stanford college pin and a link necklace. Detectives Jones and Tichenor were detailed on the case, but as yet have not discovered a clue that would lead to the apprehension of the criminal.

Ruby Ingalls, a roomer in the Hotel Richelieu, Sixth and Commercial streets, notified the bureau of criminal investigation this morning that a trunk in her apartment was broken open yesterday and a pair of diamond earrings and $19 in gold coin stolen. The police have a suspect under surveillance and arrests may follow.

FAMOUS MINE WILL EXHAUST

Gold Hill Is Free From Litigation and Will Be Operated Again Extensively.

CAPITALISTS READY TO PUT MONEY IN PROPERTY

Immense Bodies of Low Grade Ore Can Be Worked at Profit With Electricity and High Grade Rock Will Assay at Big Figure.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Baker City, Or., May 16.—From an authoritative source it is learned that capitalists have been interested and that necessary arrangements are now under way for the reopening of the famous Gold Hill mine, in the Durkee district, in the immediate future. Colonel J. A. Panting, president and general manager of the Stampede Mining & Milling company, which owns the property, states that preparations are proceeding satisfactorily and that the world is soon to hear of the Gold Hill again. The Gold Hill mine is one of the most satisfactorily located properties in eastern Oregon, being within a mile and a quarter of the O. R. & N. railroad. It is fully equipped with mill, bunkhouses, shafthouse, etc., and thousands of feet of underground work has already been done.

For years the Gold Hill has been in litigation, but this was recently cleared away and the Stampede company now holds perfect title to the mine.

Among the mines of eastern Oregon there are some few of proven value and the Gold Hill ranks in this class. Mining experts have reported that there is enough low-grade ore in sight now to run a 50-stamp mill for 50 years, and with electric power this ore can be handled as good profit. Besides this low-grade ore there is a large body of high-grade rock in sight, which will assay, it is reported, at fabulous figures.

All eastern Oregon is watching the Gold Hill with interest and when stamps commence dropping there again sensations are expected.

At the convention tonight nominees for city attorney, municipal judge and three ward councilmen will be selected. A committee has been appointed by the central committee to confer with various men to ascertain whether or not they would accept nominations at the hands of the convention and would make the race.

WOMEN GO OUT ON PAROLE

Almeda Platt and Minnie English Given Freedom During Good Behavior.

Almeda Platt and Mrs. Minnie English, who had pleaded guilty to charges of forgery and passing forged checks, were sentenced to the penitentiary by Presiding Judge Cleland in the circuit court this morning and were paroled during good behavior. The sentence imposed upon them was that each serve not less than two nor more than 29 years in the penitentiary.

Before a sentence was pronounced Deputy District Attorney Gus C. Moser stated to the court that this was Mrs. English's first offense, and in the case of the Platt girl the first offense of the kind. The Platt girl, sister, from Eugene, was in the courtroom and Moser said she desired to have the girl go home with her and live with her aged mother. Mrs. English has a good home and a good husband, he said.

Moser recurred to that both be paroled after the sentence was imposed. The Platt girl admitted having passed a forged check for $10, which she said she had been taught to do by Mrs. English, who did the forging. Mrs. English admitted forging a check, but insisted that the Platt girl had led her into the trouble.

QUARTET SINGS FOR SHRINERS

Portland Shriners who entertained their brethren returning from the pilgrimage to Los Angeles, felt well repaid for their efforts after listening to the splendid program rendered yesterday by the Clayton quartet of Minneapolis, composed of E. P. Browning, W. R. Heath, F. H. Forbes and W. S. Marshall.

So pleased were local members with the entertainment that they will present the members of the quartet with embossed resolutions thanking them for their tribute to the pleasures of the day they spent in Portland.

Nearly all of the Shriners have left Portland, although a few who are proceeding leisurely on their journey to their eastern homes came into the city today. Several more sections are expected to arrive in Portland tomorrow from San Francisco and the reception committee in charge of their entertainment in Portland are preparing to greet them with the same welcome extended yesterday's visitors.

SKILLED ALIENISTS TO REPORT ON HIS CASE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) St. Helena, Or., May 16.—Albert Olemann, the boy charged with the murder of Mrs. Sarah B. Ayres, will be examined by an insanity commission at Portland next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Information was filed yesterday against Albert Olemann charging him with the murder of Sarah B. Ayres. Upon suggestion that there exists doubt about his sanity, the time for entering plea to the information was postponed until an examination of Olemann could be held by a commission of skilled alienists. The court appointed Dr. E. E. Joseph, Dr. W. T. Williams and William House to examine the defendant as to his sanity and to report to the court their conclusions.

The commission is expressly directed to report to the court its opinion, first, as to whether the defendant at this time is suffering from any mental disease or infirmity of mind that prevents him from appreciating the gravity or effect of the trial for the crime for which he is charged, or prevents him from properly informing his counsel of the facts necessary for his defense.

Second—Whether the defendant is a person of such unsound or defective mind that he is thereby prevented from appreciating the nature and quality of wrongful and unlawful acts.

Third—Whether defendant is suffering from any such infirmity or unsoundness of mind or disease of the will as renders him thereby incapable of refraining from unlawful acts.

Fourth—Assuming that the defendant killed the deceased at the time charged in the indictment, the court desires the opinion of said experts as to whether or not such act was probably the offspring of mental disease or unsoundness.
