ARBITRATION IS SESSION THEME

Men of International Reputation Gather at Lake Mohonk for Conference.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 22.—Several hundred men of national or international reputation as jurists, writers, statesmen and educators assembled here today to take part in the thirteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration. The conference this year, coming as it does on the eve of the international peace conference to be held at The Hague next month, promises to be of more than ordinary interest. Following the precedent established by its former sessions the conference will discuss neither peace nor war, but will confine itself to the general subjects of arbitration treaties, an international court of arbitration, and the proposed establishment of an international congress with advisory powers. The program gives prominence to discussion of the coming Hague conference and to consideration of America's interest in international arbitration. The relation of colleges and universities to the arbitration movement will be discussed, and one session will be given to delegates from chambers of commerce and boards of trade representing all parts of the United States.

The session was opened this morning with an address by Albert K. Smiley, the founder and host of the conference. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university presided and other speakers heard were Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society, and Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the American group of the Interparliamentary union. The coming Hague conference is to be discussed tonight, with Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Germany and to Russia; Chief Justice Simeon E. Baldwin of the Connecticut supreme court; Bartlett Tripp, former ambassador to Austria; and General Stewart L. Woodford, former minister to Spain, as chief speakers. Prominent among those scheduled to speak at the sessions tomorrow and Friday are: Elmer E. Brown, United States commissioner of education; Andrew S. Draper, New York state commissioner of education; President Charles F. Thwing of Western Reserve university; President E. D. Warfield of Lafayette college; Professor M. Stalker of the University of Iowa; Professor Elbert Russell of Earlham college; Senor Enrique C. Creel, Mexican ambassador to the United States; Senor Don Ignacio Calderon, Bolivian minister to the United States; John Barrett, director of the International Bureau of American Republics; Francis H. Loomis, former minister to Venezuela; and President Elliot of Harvard university. Doan's Regulets cure constipation without griping, nausea, nor any weakening effect. Ask your druggist for them. 25 cents per box. $8.75 for Men's $15 Suits. At the Chicago Clothing Co., 69-71 Third street. You should go there before thinking of buying elsewhere.

INDUSTRIAL WAR IS REAL MENACE

President of Manufacturers' Association Says Internal Peace is Necessary.

New York, May 22.—President Van Cleave of the National Association of Manufacturers, in addressing the association this morning, said: "Industrial wars are a much greater menace to the United States today than foreign wars." He demanded an open shop, no boycott, non-limitation to the number of apprentices, non-interference with the management by employees, and said: "By a characteristic piece of effrontery the assailants of President Roosevelt in the Moyer-Haywood affair pretend to speak in the name of labor. Outside the ranks of organized labor are 30,000,000 persons in the country today working for wages. Organized labor numbers about 3,000,000, but the president's vilifiers do not speak for even a small percentage of this number. Four fifths of the union labor men are law-abiding men. It is ignoramus grangers heading the societies, arrogating to themselves the right to speak for their order, which is bringing into disrepute the labor unions." President Van Cleave said he favored revision of the tariff, federal regulation of railroads and industrial education.
