CARTOONS DEVLIN'S NERVES

Candidate for Mayor Addresses. Small Audience in Hunter's Hall.

Seventy people gathered at Hunter's hall, in Sunnyside, last night, to hear Thomas C. Devlin and E. Werlein raise the moral issue in the mayoralty cam-paign. Of the 70, seven were women from 15 to 26 were youths not old enough to vote, leaving probably 45 vot-ers who were attracted to hear the Republican candidate for mayor,

E. J. Quimby introduced Mr. Devlin, after telling the audience to pay no atsay is not worthy of notice, said Mr. Quimby, because the papers all are against the Republicans. Whether what the paper say is true did not concern the r, the fact that they favor Dr. Lane being sufficient to condemn their

Dr. Devlin, in opening his speech, said he would admit that Dr. Lane had done the very best he could in enforcing the laws of the city, and credited him with an honest endeavor. But Devlin beeaker explained why he did not place the name of Robert Andrews, Democratic nominee for councilman-at-large, first on the ballot by saying that the candidates of each party were grouped as pro-

Cartoons Annoy Devlin. The cartoons in The Journal depicting Devlin as a carpet-bagger were desounced as infamous. Devlin said his record as an employe and official of the city had been clean, and his election as mayor would not change the current of his life. "I am not afraid to draw aside the curtains of my life and let you see what it has been," said the speaker, Devlin said he did not know how the north end would vote, but supposed some votes would be cast for him by men there who oppose Dr. Lane. By implication Devlin charged Mayor Lane with permitting some of the north end dives to go unmolested, and asked if these people would not support the powers that permit them to exist. In reply to the charge that he will permit gam-bling and an open town, Devlin said: "If I am elected, there will be no gambling in this town if there is power in the law, the police force and the chief executive to stop it."

Devlin repeated Senator Gearin's description of the north end and asked Dr. Lane had not suppressed some of the places. He said: "If conditions are as represented, there will be such a there within 60 days after my election that Senator Gearin will need a new vocabulary to describe it."

Mints at a Statement, Mr. Devlin paid passing notice to the "Where did you get the money?" He said that in the primary election he had spent only his own money, having no contributions from any source. No reference was made to the expenses of the campaign since the primary, except to hint that a statement will be made before the end of the cam-paign that would be satisfactory to the audience. Devlin closed by discussing some of the proposed charter amend-had been censured for not being a Re-publican at all times, for the reason that he entertained a higher regard for his home and the city than for any party. If at any time he had not sup ported the Republican party fully, that was the reason. Mr. Werlein then proseeded to say that the Republican party would be successful this time, despite he failure of the Oregonian to support

"In years gone by," said Werlein, "Mr. Scott used to sit up there in the tall tower and use his blue pencil as his caprice suggested who should win or lose. But those days are gone by, and, though the Oregonian does not stand by the Republican candidate, Devlin will

ASSOCIATION SAYS QUIMBY FALSIFIED

Investigation Proves That North End Conditions Are Far Better - Than They Were.

Misleading and untruthful statements made by D. J. Quimby, a Republican city central committeeman, in a letter written to the Oregonian and treating of conditions in the north end at the present time as compared with those existing two years ago, are nailed by a statement made by the Municipal asso-ciation which follows: "Mr. D. J. Quimby, in yesterday's Oregonian, volunteers information to the voters of the city as to conditions in the north end, which cannot be alowed to pass uncontradicted, "In his letter Mr. Quimby gives the impression that he resides in the north end and has done so for 23 years. As a matter of fact, his home is at 210 Pretyman avenue, Mount Tabor, where he and his family have lived for years.

"Two years ago Mr. Quimby was a candidate at the primary election as ouncilman-at-large, notwithstanding the fact that his domicile was then outside the city limits. Doubtless he was registered as residing at the International hotel, of which he is proprietor. He failed of nomination, but had he succeeded, this association would have op-posed his election on the grounds above

"We recite these facts as an indication of the reliability to which Mr. Quimby's statements are entified. Mem-bers of this association have periodically visited the north end during the past four years, and we affirm that the condition of affairs today is not to be ompared with what it was three years When Mr. Quimby says 'the conditions of the north end at present are worse than I have ever known them to be, he may speak truly as to his own knowledge, but he deliberately falsifies facts as to the real condition of the district of which he writes.

"Mr. Devlin's forces are making much of the north end, but their attempt to discredit Mayor Lane's administration in relation thereto are a long way off color as far as truth is concerned. That district is not by any means what many od people would like it to be, but that vastly better than it was under the Republican administration no one who knows the facts will dare deny. Many a Pertland Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Portland readers.

John J. Keating, painter of 3011/2 First street, Portland, Oregon, says: For a number of years I was troubled with Eidney complaint and the dull, aching pains in the back were so severe at times that I had to lay off from The kidney secretions were irregular and scalding. I also had headaches and dizziness and felt lame in the morning. I used different remedies and consulted different doctors, but nothing seemed to give me any lasting relief. Reading finally of Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box and they did me a great deal of good, relieved the urinary difficulty and later the heavy aching in my back disappeared."

time when the housewife's thought turns to furnishing the summe home has come again, All sorts of cool which are available for the country home, the seaside cottage, or which may be employed to make our own homes restful and attractive. Living out of doors as we may in this climate, the front porch or veranda has been found the most valuable part of the house in the summer months and with rugs, easy chairs and awnings may possess many of the comforts which may travel miles seeking and then may not find.

One of the new summer materials for the veranda chairs is what is called fiber. It is similar in appearance to rope, and may le had in natural shade, in green or in brown. The shape of the lounging chairs commends them, and there are many little new devices the footstool, the covered work basket to prevent a breeze from carrying off the fancy work and the chair which has an opening in the arm to hold the lemis to have a few light tables for use on the veranda, and it is also often found a great addition to comfort to have a small screen. The bamboo frames are found in all our Japanese stores, and if the covering does not suit it can be easily changed to accord with the color scheme of the veranda fittings. The swinging couch is now largely taking the place of the netted hammock, and it allows of soft pillows in bright shades.

Our summer evenings are too delightful to be spent indoors, and we may as well be ready to enjoy them to their utmost by adding such of these com-forts as our porch space will allow. St St St

Beefsteak With Mushrooms.

Request of Mrs. J. E. N. Before broiling the steak rub the hot gridiron or broiler with a piece of suct. The fire should be clear and hot. As yon cook the steak turn the broiler swiftly and often to keep the smoke rom spoiling the flavor and to keep

Try with the point of a keen knife at the end of 10 minutes. Look at the color inside. If a bright red the steak is done; if purple, cook a little longer. Remove to a hot platter, pepper and salt it on both sides and dot with small pleces of butter. Cover the platter and set in hot oven for a few moments to draw the juices to the surface.

At this time of year one will probably use the canned mushrooms. Drain the liquor from the can and cut the mush-rooms in halves. Cook together a tablespoonful of butter and one of browned flour until they are dark brown in color. Stir to a smooth sauce, season with a dash of Worcestershire sauce, sait and pepper, and add the mushrooms. Cook for two minutes, stirring constantly, then pour over and around the beef-

As Mrs. J. E. N. asked for two rectpes, perhaps she would like to have one for the fresh mushrooms that are so abundant and so good in the early fall.

Our spring mushroom crop is not so abundant.

In the fall, after the first good rains have soake" the ground the meadows and hillsides in the suburbs are a fine hunting ground. Once become a de-votee of the mushroom hunt and you will willingly hop out of bed on the stroke of the alarm clock, don old clothes and rubber boots if you have them, and hasten out to your own pet patches. What spurs one to action is the fear that the Italian women, who make a business of collecting the mushrooms for the market, may be there before you and have made way with your cherished treat.

We have some good books on mushrooms in the public library, and one may easily become acquainted with our principal varieties. The meadow mushroom, which comes up as a little white button, developing later into a parasol with pink lining, is a kind known all over our country and has no near imitation which is deadly. Another common kind with us is the umbrella mushroom, which grows tall and is like a closed umbrella. The children call it the shaggy mane. It turns black after standing a day or two, and drips away in an inky exudation. It is edi-ble at any stage, however, and one of our most delicious foods.
