A Good Furnace Job Does Not Necessarily Mean Only a Good Furnace

It means that it must be a durable and economical furnace, that every pipe must heat at the same time, that the air circulation must be proportioned correctly.

To get good results from a furnace, it must be installed by a man who has had years of practical experience in heating with warm air.

Manager Cort of Northwest Theatrical Association Announces Many New Plays and Strong List of Attractions for Next Year.

John Cort, manager of the Northwest Theatrical association, has announced the list of attractions that will be offered at the Heilig theatre during the season of 1907-08.

In the list are many of the most prominent theatrical stars and there are also many plays that have never been presented on this coast.

Among the latter is "The Alaskan," the new musical comedy in which Teddy Webb is to star.

Calvin Heilig of this city is president of the association of which Mr. Cort is manager. It is announced that the association has recently acquired many new theatres in the northwest territory.

Controls Many Houses. The Northwestern Theatrical association already controls more houses than any other similar association in the country.

Here is the list of attractions for the coming season in the Sho-Gun, which probably created a greater furor than any comic opera that has ever been heard in this city.

McIntyre & Heath, in a new production, "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Mau of the Hour," "George Washington," etc.

RICH GOLD MINE IS FOUND IN BACK YARD

Banker Woolwine Uncovers Free Milling Ore on Celebrated Property at Los Angeles.

(Journal Special Service.) Los Angeles, June 1.—Banker W. D. Woolwine, owner of one of the finest homes in Los Angeles, formerly the residence of Baron De Rognein, celebrated for his wine cellars and pictures, has "struck it rich" in his back yard. In carrying out his plans of beautifying the place, which is in East Los Angeles, Woolwine was grading down a hill and found a large quantity of free milling gold ore similar to that of Goldfield. It carries high values and is of such quantity that the prospect is clear at once developed. It is but a few hundred feet from the house. Old-timers agree there is gold in all the hills of that vicinity, but heretofore only very low-grade ore has been found.

TREE MEN COMING IN CHERRY TIME

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., June 1.—Along with the cherry fair and flower festival to be held here July 10, 11 and 12 under the auspices of the State Horticultural society and for which a score of cups and other prizes have been secured, as awards to exhibitors, will be held the fifth annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Nurserymen's association. Both will prove of special interest to horticulturists. Frank W. Power of this city, president of the association, has sent invitations to all nurserymen in adjoining states to attend.

Among prominent nurserymen and horticulturists who will be present are: F. A. Huntley, commissioner of horticulture of the state of Washington; W. K. Newell, president, and H. M. Williamson, secretary, of the Oregon state board of horticulture; H. C. Atwell, president, and E. R. Lake, secretary, of the Oregon State Horticultural society; John Isaac, secretary, and probably Edward M. Ehrhorn, deputy commissioner of the California horticultural commission; L. Lewis, horticulturist, and A. B. Cordley, entomologist, from the State Agricultural college at Corvallis, besides a large attendance of nurserymen, seedmen, inspectors and fruitgrowers.

UNCLE SAMUEL KEEPS UNCLEAN HOUSE HERE

Postmaster Minto Contends That Conditions Are Not as Bad as Painted, but He Admits That Better Wages Would Secure More Competent Help.

Filthy conditions about the postoffice building have called the attention of citizens to the manner in which refuse and rubbish is allowed to collect on the sidewalks; the way in which cuspidors are allowed to remain without being cleaned, and the collection of dust and dirt upon the chandeliers, tables, desks, chairs and other fixtures in the building has called down denunciations on the poor janitor service that obtains in the federal building.

In the corridors of the third floor, the dirt has settled so thick under the footings that a cloud of dust arises every time a person walks across the hall. Toilet rooms on the third floor show gross negligence from the janitor service that prevails in the building. Empty bottles left by whiskey-drinking witnesses who appeared before the federal grand jury have been allowed to lie about in the men's toilet on the third floor, while electric shades and chandeliers show a long separation from the dusting cloth of the janitor.

Persons who have business with officials in the building find it necessary to take the precaution of dusting the chairs or benches before sitting down. The benches themselves form a part of an antiquated system that remains from days gone by when courtrooms furniture consisted of this piece or that, a dozen benches and innumerable cuspidors.

On the third floor of the building is a closet that is used for the dumping place of waste paper and rubbish. Everything so that the place is cleaned out, but how often is left to the janitors. As a result, large quantities of paper, rags and other inflammable rubbish is allowed to accumulate that would be dangerous in case fire started in the federal building.

A passer-by noted the dirty condition of the sidewalk on Yamhill street. He pointed out torn papers, cigar stubs, tobacco quids and dirt that had evidently been left to lie on the sidewalk for days without the touch of the janitor's broom.

In an effort to determine the cause for the filthy conditions about the postoffice, Postmaster John W. Minto was asked to state reasons for the apparent lack of service. He said: "Conditions are not as bad as they have been painted. It is true that the janitor service is not as good as I would like it, but the reason for that is the low wages paid for the work. One can not expect to get good janitors for $45 a month when stores and halls are paying $75 and $80 a month for room men. This has been a particularly ticklish subject with me for some time, and I am doing my best to improve conditions. This is near the end of the fiscal year, and all appropriations are held down to the very lowest point by the department. It is my intention to take the matter up with officials at Washington in June, in an effort to get increases in the pay of the janitors. At this time I realize that such an effort would be futile.

All of the men employed about the building do their work faithfully, but when I secure a good man I know that he will not remain long, for he will find it difficult to get a better position with some firm or in a large public building.

We have nine men in the employ of the building. Their official titles are: Elevator operator, $70 a month; engineer-fireman, $70 a month; fireman-watchman, $60; night watchman, $40; janitor, $70; three laborers, $45 a month each; charwoman, $22.50 a month.

Appropriations Too Small. "Their duties are manifold, and require ability along their lines of work. The elevator man has to be an electrician able to keep the intricate electrical machinery in repair, attend to the various motors in the building and keep the wiring in good condition. The laborers are the men upon whom fall the heavy work about the building, and at present I have three men who are loyal and hard workers. They are doing the best they can, but I know that with more money better service would result.

"I think this whole contention about the filthy conditions of the building and federal property has been raised by persons unacquainted with the true conditions. Never before in the history of the building have the grounds been in such good condition, and but the other day an old and prominent resident of Portland told me that he had never seen the grounds in such good condition or looking so pretty as they do now. The matting in the building will be renovated as soon as the grand jury adjourns. If the department will allow funds for that purpose."

EAST TWENTY-SIXTH STREET IS DECLARED A PUBLIC HIGHWAY

Counseled to regard East Twenty-sixth street, along the east line of the Lone Fir cemetery as a public highway and to go ahead with the extension and improvement without allowing the cemetery association out damage for the ground appropriated, the city council will probably pass an ordinance at its next regular meeting ordering the work to be done.

This advice was offered by City Attorney McNary at the meeting of the city committee yesterday afternoon. Viewers will be appointed to assess the damage to the Lone Fir Cemetery association in the matter of allowing for a 21, 2/4 foot strip which will be left when a 60-foot road is cut through. Complaint was made to the street committee that the cemetery streets are being used for burial purposes and are being sold by the association. The committee was advised that the city had no jurisdiction in the matter unless it was from the standpoint of the public health. The only relief to owners of cemetery lots in preventing the filling of the cemetery streets is for them to make complaint against the association and take the matter into the courts.

In the opinion of some of the members of the committee the grading of East Street from East Twentieth street eastward would place the street below the burial level of the cemetery and during the wet season public health would be menaced from seepage. Should the council take steps toward grading East Street street the burial of remains on the ground adjacent to the street would probably not be permitted and the result would be a loss to the association. The cost of improvement also would be assessed against all of the lots not already sold.

City Attorney McNary will address a letter to the council May 17, regarding a meeting advising that action be taken on the discussion before the street committee.

SEVEN MEN DROWN IN PAYETTE RIVER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Boise, Idaho, June 1.—In an attempt to make a landing in Payette river just above the rapids near Garden Valley seven men were drowned. Their boats going over the rapids. Nine others, also in boats, reached the shore after a desperate struggle. Those who perished were: Bert Ure, Mel Curtis, Joe Hamilton, Tom Highland, Frank Fitzgerald, Dave McMillan and Joe Boden. All were engaged in a log drive for the Idaho White Pine Mining company of Nampa. Boden and McMillan were residents of Boise and members of the Eagles lodge here.

ALL COURTED STATE GRANGE

Its Power in State Affairs Amply Attested During Recent Session.

GROWS IN INFLUENCE AMONG THE FARMERS

Requests From Many Points for Organizer—Most Successful Convention in Order's History Was That Closed Yesterday at Hood River.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hood River, Or., June 1.—After having completed what its members say is the most successful and largely attended meeting in its history the thirty-fourth annual session of the Oregon State Grange came to a close at a late hour last night. The meeting this year has been attended by men prominent in educational, business, horticultural and political affairs of the state and its support has been sought in matters affecting the public welfare. This is said to be in recognition of the strength it has developed in legislative and other questions and its far-reaching influence. The sessions were religiously attended by all entitled to do so and the order is expected to receive a great impetus from its work during the past year.

Several delegations were present from various parts of the state soliciting the organization to form granges in their communities, among which were Coos bay, Hermiston and Lane county. Mrs. Waldo, the state lecturer, says residents in districts in which irrigation projects are under way or projected are particularly anxious for the establishment of granges.

Ballot Change Opposed. Some of the delegates left yesterday afternoon but the majority remained for the evening session, which was spent in accepting reports, passing resolutions and in voting thanks to the local lodges for the entertainment provided here. The organization was very much pleased with its reception at Hood River, which members say is the finest ever accorded them, and Hood River residents take no little pride in the fact that the largest gathering ever held by the grange took place here. The most important resolution passed at the evening session was one that declared it to be the sense of the grange that the present ballot system should not be changed for the one proposed at the last session of the legislature. At the afternoon session a number of resolutions and recommendations were adopted, among which were:

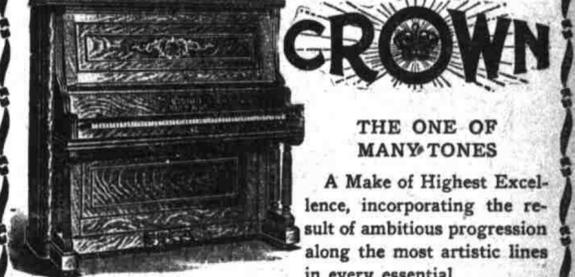

Normals and Other Things. That a movement be made to bring before the taxpayers of the state the right to say which of the normal schools shall be continued and which abolished. That the state grange condemns the action of the United States government in allowing senators and representatives to distribute free seeds, which are worthless, and used to gain political advantage.

That the state grange will oppose any action on the part of state officials tending to throw out petitions for the initiative and referendum on technicalities. The resolution introduced by R. W. Gill recommending the single district system to elect representatives and senators was laid on the table after a spirited discussion in which it was opposed very strongly by W. S. U'ren, who spoke in favor of proportional representation.

Woman Suffrage Turned Down. The following resolution, introduced by A. I. Mason, was unanimously adopted. "Resolved, That our executive committee be instructed to draft an amendment to the state constitution and to initiate the same at our next annual state election, which shall deprive the state legislature of any power to change any law that has been enacted by the initiative." A resolution introduced by W. S. U'ren providing that the state grange take the matter up of placing women suffrage on the initiative was voted down.

RAILWAY PROJECT MOVES AGAIN

Capital Once More Connected Up With Grants Pass and Crescent City Line.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., June 1.—Colonel T. W. M. Draper and his associates of San Francisco are again taking up the proposition of building a railroad from Grants Pass to Crescent City, California. They have just completed an inspection of the route surveyed by them three years ago. Colonel Draper states that the earthquake and fire in San Francisco bankrupted the men who were to finance the road at the time it was to have been built and that he has since secured the assistance of eastern capital. The right of way for the line, together with siding and station tracks, has been secured, and all that remains is the actual construction of the road.

CONFEDERATES ARE ENJOYING REUNION

(Journal Special Service.) Richmond, Va., June 1.—Though the confederate reunion has now been in progress three days there is no abatement of interest or enthusiasm apparent on the part of the thousands of veterans and other visitors. Business meetings of the various organizations were held during the day, but the vast majority of the visitors were occupied more with the entertainment features of the program, which are the most elaborate ever provided at a reunion of the veterans. Governor and Mrs. Sprason are to hold a public reception at the executive mansion this evening and a big entertainment will be given at the auditorium. Tomorrow the memorial services will be held under the auspices of the Confederate Southern Memorial associations and special services will be held in nearly all the Richmond churches. THERE ARE FEW people who know how to take care of themselves—the majority do not. The liver is a most important organ in the body. Herbine will keep it in good health.
