

OVATION OF APPLAUSE TENDERED MAYOR LANE

Burkhardt's Hall Packed Last Night and Portland Voters Cheered the Principles for Which Present Incumbent Stood, Assuring Him Hearty Support.

East sides crowded Burkhardt's hall to the doors last night to hear Senator Gearin, Mayor Lane and others put the period to the Lane campaign on that side of the river. Men and women filled every available seat and stood around the walls to listen to the speakers tell of what the Lane administration had done and would do if continued, and as the story was told Mayor Lane was given an ovation of applause that rocked the building. One man from the Devlin camp who had strayed in to see what happened was astounded.

"If those hands mean votes on Monday next," he exclaimed, "there'll be nothing to it, I am afraid."

Oratorical Honors Divided.

Senator Gearin and Mayor Lane divided oratorical honors at the meeting, but other speakers as well helped to swell the volume of the applause. George I. Smith, Democratic candidate for city auditor, and Robert Andrews, for councilman, largely made their addresses placing before the people the principles upon which they hoped to win support in their race for office.

George I. Smith was the first speaker. He asked for the votes of the people because he thought he could be of assistance in carrying out the policies outlined by Dr. Lane. He contended that if he were put in office he could double-team with Mayor Lane and help him hold things level. He promised the people that should he be elected he would give a good business administration and would have vouchers to show for every cent spent by the office during his term of office.

Robert Andrews was the next speaker. He told the audience that he had consented to make the race for councilman at large upon the Democratic ticket after due deliberation and upon the insistence of many friends, both Democrats and Republicans.

Would Help the Mayor.

"It would be the pride of my life," said Mr. Andrews in the course of his remarks, "if you send me to the council to be able to say to the citizens of Portland after I have served my term: 'I have been true to my trust and have served you to the best of my ability.' I want to go to the council to help Mayor Lane carry out his policy, and he needs someone there to assist him, to work for him, not against him."

Mr. Andrews told of how his name had been put in fourth place on the official ballot when it should have been put at the head of the list.

"I went to Tom Devlin," he said. "He had been a friend of mine for many years, and I said to him: 'Tom, why did you do it?' And he said it was the law. He said the old law had been amended, but when he tried to find it in the code he could not do so."

"Then I said to him," continued Mr. Andrews, "you select a lawyer and I will get one, and you select any one of the judges of the circuit court, and we will submit the question to him." But Devlin said, "I will not do it," and then I knew he had cheated me purposely."

Mr. Andrews was well received and made a good impression on the audience.

Paid Tribute to Women.

Senator Gearin followed Mr. Andrews. He began his address by speaking of the large number of ladies present at the meeting. He paid a tribute to the women of Portland who had attended the Lane meetings during the entire campaign and contended that their influence dominated the votes of every man. He argued that it was a time when the political issues touched the lives and homes of every woman in the city.

The speaker passed on to the direct issues of the campaign. He said he had been present when the fight had raged two weeks ago and that he had wanted to be there. He had known Dr. Lane from boyhood and had never known him to fall short of his duty as a man.

"Two weeks ago," the speaker continued, "I tried to outline the paramount issue of the campaign. Then I said that we had nothing against Mr. Devlin, that he was not on trial, but that Dr. Lane was on trial; not Dr. Lane the man, but Dr. Lane the mayor. At that time I threw out the broad challenge for the opposition to put their fingers on one thing wherein Dr. Lane had been deficient. None have come forward. They have discussed everything else, but this one paramount issue they have not touched."

Not a Political Issue.

"It is not a political issue we are facing. The opposition is making it such, but I ask you not to be led away by such insidious talk. What do they mean by their talk of Democrats and Republicans? They bring Roosevelt into it, but he is popular with the people not because he is a Republican but because he tried to befriend the people. He is the exponent of reforms in national affairs, just as Mayor Lane is their exponent in civic affairs."

The speaker then took up the challenge issued by Chairman Montague asking for the publication of election expenses. He accused the Republican managers for not having paid heed to the letter.

"We asked them," he said, "because it has been reported and has not been denied that the interests are back of them."

Dr. Lane kept promises. "Dr. Lane has carried out the reforms he attempted, and it is now up to the people to say whether they will repudiate or endorse what he has done. Gloss it over as you will, the fact still remains that a vote against Lane means a vote of repudiation against the reforms he has inaugurated."

The speaker next showed that Mayor Lane had done away with the box evil, had put the pickle-in-the-slot machines out of commission, had moved the offending disorderly houses out of the business section of the city, and contended again that a vote against Lane was a slap at these reforms.

"Devlin said in a recent speech," continued the speaker, "that if he was elected he would oppose perpetual franchises, would keep the town closed, would clean the city. Now, then, he is promising to continue to do what Mayor Lane has already done for two years. Why does he not vote for Dr. Lane and support him in carrying out the policies which he champions? He wants you to elect him mayor because he promises to do what Mayor Lane has already done."

The speaker attacked the liquor interests for their interference in municipal politics, and said that the time had come when the interference must cease.

Franchise Question Discussed.

The franchise question came in for some hard knocks. The speaker wanted to know how it came that all the interests were supporting Mr. Devlin with influence and money if he was so bitterly opposed to them. He closed by exhorting the people to go to the polls and vote.

Mayor Lane followed Senator Gearin. He said that he was before the people for reelection because he candidly believed that it was for the best interests of the people for them to continue him in office for another two years. He said that it was significant to find all those interests which he had been fighting for those two years lined up behind Mr. Devlin and working for his election. It had even gone so far that various liquor interests had refused to contribute to the Fourth of July fund until they knew that Devlin had been elected mayor of Portland. Corporate interests, franchise grabbers, those who wanted the streets for private uses, all these people were lined up to oppose him.

"But there is one satisfaction," said the mayor. "If I am defeated I will know that it cost the brewers and the interests my weight in gold to do it, and if I am elected I will cost them double that before they are through with me."

The speaker treated the gambling question, the street cleaning question and the civil service, showing that his endeavors in all lines he had been for the good of the city and its people. When he closed he was given an ovation, as he was when he took his place upon the platform.

JUDGES AND CLERKS OF ELECTION, NOTICE!

Judges and clerks of election will be given an opportunity to learn the law of election procedure tomorrow, for, all during the day, competent attorneys will be at Lane headquarters ready to answer all questions which may be put to them. The Lane campaign committee has extended a special invitation to all judges and clerks and desires that they come and discuss the entire range of questions and points of law with the attorneys.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Thomas G. Greene will speak to the poll workers and challengers who will work during the time the polls are open. Mr. Greene will explain to them what their duties are, outline the qualifications of voters, how these may be determined and in short will post the men on all the points of the law. It is expected by this means to hold the voting so close to the law that there will be no illegal votes cast on Monday next.

ADMIRAL GOODRICH COMMANDS NAVY YARD

(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, D. C., June 1.—Rear Admiral Caspar F. Goodrich has been ordered to assume command of the navy yard at New York today as the relief of Rear Admiral J. B. Coghlan, retired, who has been given indefinite leave of absence.

Admiral Goodrich has been in the navy since 1864 and has seen much important service. He was naval attaché on the staff of General Wolsley during the Tel-el-Kebir campaign of 1882, was a member of the Endicott fortifications board in 1885, was subsequently president of the naval war college at Newport, had command of the cruiser Newark during the war with Spain and more recently commanded the Pacific fleet.

POPE PIUS TO ENTER SEVENTY-SECOND YEAR

(Journal Special Service.)
Rome, June 1.—Pope Pius X will be 72 years old tomorrow and the anniversary will be celebrated by specially elaborate services in St. Peter's and in all the other Catholic churches of Rome. His holiness, according to authentic reports, is enjoying good health at the present time, having fully recovered from his illness of the past year and which at one time threatened grave results.

BIRTHDAY OF PEORIA BISHOP

John Lancaster Spalding Will Be Sixty-Seven Years Old Tomorrow.

NO CELEBRATION ON ACCOUNT OF HEALTH

Nearly Two Years Ago Noted Divine Suffered Stroke of Paralysis From Which He Has Been Unable to Recover.

(Journal Special Service.)
Peoria, Ill., June 1.—Tomorrow will be the 67th birthday of one of the most brilliant members of the Roman Catholic episcopacy in America—John Lancaster Spalding, bishop of Peoria. There will be no celebration of the anniversary, owing to the grave condition of Bishop Spalding's health. Nearly two years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he has never recovered. Since then he has spent most of the time under treatment in a sanitarium, but there has been little noticeable improvement in his condition and it is feared that the able prelate will never resume his clerical duties.

Bishop Spalding comes of a family that for generations has occupied a high place in Roman Catholic annals in Europe and America. The first of the family to come to America came over with Lord Baltimore, so that Bishop Spalding can lay pretty good claim to the title of American. His uncle was the celebrated Archbishop Spalding of Baltimore.

John Lancaster Spalding was born in Kentucky and received his first education in that state. He also spent some time at Emmetsburg, and subsequently studied for five years at Mount St. Mary's, Cincinnati, where he was then under control of the celebrated Bishop Rosecrans. He studied theology in Louvain, where he was ordained in 1862. After his ordination he took a special course of study in the Belgian college at Rome and returned to Louisville in 1865. He was assigned to the curacy in that city and, in addition to his missionary duties, also acted as secretary to Bishop Lavallee.

He was named by Archbishop Blanchet of Oregon as his theologian at the second plenary council, though he was the youngest theologian in the assembly. A short time afterward he went to New York, where for a time he was engaged in writing a biography of his uncle, the Archbishop of Baltimore. He was later connected with St. Michael's church, New York, and it was here that his fame as a preacher was established. It was Father Spalding's custom to preach the Sunday evening sermon, and before he had done so very often his reputation as a concise and logical speaker, possessed of a fund of fluency, became so well known that it was impossible almost to find standing room at his lectures.

In May, 1877, Father Spalding received a remarkable and unusual honor, being raised from a curator to a bishop and sent to the Peoria diocese, which was at that time quite scattered. There were 51 churches scattered over the entire territory, three of which were in the little town of Peoria itself. Within the comparatively short space of 15 years Bishop Spalding had increased the number of churches to 190, with 50 schools and academies, seven hospitals, two orphan asylums, a home for aged people, a college and nearly 200 priests. The diocese today is considered one of the best organized in America.

WOUNDED FUGITIVE FALLS FROM CLIFF

Greek Laborer Is Shot and Tumbles Over Precipice, but Will Recover From Injuries.

(Journal Special Service.)
Reno, Nev., June 1.—A Greek laborer had a most remarkable escape from death yesterday. Standing on the edge of a high precipice west of Floriston, where he had fled to escape arrest, Patros Gorgolis was shot by Constable Manderville, and losing his balance the wounded man fell headlong down a bluff 200 feet to the rocks below at the edge of the Truckee river. Fishermen along the river heard his body pounding the crags and rushed to the scene. They picked up the bleeding man and carried him to where medical attendance could be obtained. Unless internal injuries result, the man will live, although he is badly bruised and cut besides having a slight wound in his leg.

HUGE COAL BEDS IN COOS COUNTY

Excellent Lignite Found on Forest Reserve—Claims Can Be Taken Under Easy Conditions.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Grants Pass, Or., June 1.—M. J. Anderson, supervisor of the Siskiyou forest reserve, who has returned from an inspection of the forests under his charge, reports the finding of mammoth coal beds in the southeast corner of Coos county, portions of which are included in the reserve. He brought out samples from these deposits, and has placed them on exhibition in the forestry office here.

The coal is a lignite of good quality, and is practically of the same character as that of the Beaver Hill and other deeply developed properties near Marshfield. The location of these deposits, however, on the south side of the divide will make the removal of the product easier from this side of the range.

Any citizen who has not used his coal location right may take up coal lands in a reserve and is given not only the right to all the coal of the claims, but may use the timber necessary for the development and mining of the claims. Thus the forest reserve, which was believed to be a hindrance to mining and prospecting, will not interfere with the opening and mining of coal deposits.

JAPANESE COOLIES WILL SAVE COUNTRY

(Journal Special Service.)
Tokio, June 1.—Manager Toyokawa of the Mitsubishi bank says in an interview that on account of the depreciation of shares some persons entertain pessimistic views as to the future of the economic life of the country, but this, he declares, is a temporary phenomenon. He asserts that the real strength of Japan, as was shown during the war, rests in the mass of people below the middle class; people whose industry and activity contribute greatly to the expansion of national interests.

From two thirds to three fourths of the exports are produced by labor, continues Toyokawa, in tea, silk weaving and other industries, where the labor of women is invariably required, while in the marine and mining industries it is of importance.

DRIVER INJURED IN STAGE RUNAWAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Klamath Falls, Or., June 1.—As a result of a disastrous runaway near Chase station, between this city and Pokeyama, one of the stages of the Oregon-California Transportation company was totally wrecked and the driver was fatally injured. He was thrown out and his left leg broken and the right leg mashed from the middle of the thigh down. His face and head were cut and bruised. There was but one regular passenger on board. The others were employees of the stage company. All were bruised and cut, but none were seriously injured. The passenger was unhurt.

ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup

Pleasant to take and does not gripe or nauseate

Cures Chronic Constipation, Stomach and Liver Trouble

Stimulation Without Irritation.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is a new laxative syrup combined with the delicious flavor of fruits, and is very pleasant to take. It will not gripe or sicken. It is much more pleasant and effective than Pills, Tablets and Saline Waters, as it does not derange the Stomach, or irritate the Kidneys, Liver or Bowels.

Constipation.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup will positively cure chronic constipation as it restores the natural action of the intestinal tract. Ordinary cathartics may give temporary relief but the stomach is upset and the bowels are irritated without any permanent benefit having been derived.

The condition of the patient remains unchanged. The Stomach, Liver and Bowels have not been stimulated and in a few days a stronger purgative may have to be taken. This is why Pills and Aperient Waters never give permanent relief. Their violent action results in an unnatural movement of the bowels and it is necessary to keep taking them indefinitely.

Why ORINO is different.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup is the only preparation that really acts upon all of the digestive organs. Other preparations act upon the lower bowel only and do not touch the Liver. It can very readily be seen that a preparation that does not act upon all of the digestive organs can not cure Chronic Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, etc.

For Biliousness and Sick Headache.
Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup. It sweetens the stomach, aids digestion and acts as a gentle stimulant on the liver and bowels without irritating these organs.

Clears the Complexion.
ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. Refuse substitutes.

OUR GUARANTEE

Take ORINO Laxative Fruit Syrup and if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.
