

MARKETS MARKETS WHAT DEALERS SAY OF LOCAL MARKETS

By W. E. Glafke Co. Larger receipts have caused somewhat easier, and it may be said, a weaker tone in the poultry market. Springs, especially, are showing a disposition to ease up, but as far as there has been no accumulation. The egg market was very badly mixed during the past week. Arrivals showed a sort of condition, some being quite soft, while others were very firm. The latter resulted from keeping shipments too long. The prices on various days had a range of fully 2 1/2 cents. Dressed meats are easier, although the receipts are not heavy enough to cause any slump in prices as yet. Creamery butter holds a very good tone with storage demand very heavy. Country store in good call.

Outlook for Salmon Price Good. With practically no fish being caught in the Columbia river at this time there is every likelihood at this time that high prices are sure to prevail in all grades and in every district. While no formal opening values have as yet been named by Columbia river packers the sales made thus far have been mostly at $1.00 for 2 1/2 lbs. of good fish and $1.00 for half flats. Packers report that they have already oversold their prospective pack for the season twice over. In all districts there is a shortness of the catch to date this season.

Outside Opinions of Salmon. The San Francisco Journal this reviews the salmon situation: The trade both here and in the east are waiting for something determinate about the Columbia river pack, but nothing is certain yet, except that the catch has been very small. It is felt, however, that the catchers have oversold heavily and that they will be much disappointed. It is also felt that no price has been made yet. The low rate east has done its work effectively, and the market is well cleaned up. It is a long season for the fish, and the market in this market. Local demand continues to be very good at lately established rates. In the east, the market is active and recent shipments from this city by river are being distributed freely by all the principal jobbers in Atlantic and middle west cities. The small stock on hand here is manifest from the fact that the catches which have almost altogether disappeared.

Various Strawberry Values. There was a wide range of values in the strawberry market from the highest to the lowest. Some sales of good berries were made as low as $1.75 for 2 1/2 lbs in instances values ruled as high as $3. This latter was for the best subject. The average price obtained during the day was about $2.50. Page & Son report the first arrivals today of blackberries. These came from Tacoma and were of good shape. They sold at $1.25 per crate of 16 half boxes. Apples are in better condition and are selling better at $1.00 per crate.
