REAL EXPOSURES

HAVE JUST BEGUN

So Says Foreman Andrews of San Francisco Graft Investigating Grand Jury.

Thomas P. Andrews of San Francisco, foreman of the grand jury that investigated the graft in San Francisco, is at the Portland hotel and told of the corruption that has infested municipal affairs in the Bay City for so many years.

Mr. Andrews said that the real exposures against high officials and wealthy capitalists has just begun and the next few months will reveal such startling disclosures that the public will be astounded. He said that the revelations will undoubtedly be beneficial to the world at large and will tend to purge every city in the United States of municipal graft where such condition prevails.

Mr. Andrews was foreman of the grand jury in 1904 and 1905. He was a prominent merchant of San Francisco at that time and had personally known of the graft that was being carried on. Upon personal application he was appointed foreman of the grand jury. Disclosures were made at that time and he sought the aid of Adolph Spreckels in securing competent detectives to ferret out the evidence against Schmits and other officials. Spreckels contributed $100,000 toward a fund to prosecute the grafters and the work was turned over to Francis J. Heney and Secret Service operative William Burns. As a result of the investigation under the direction of Mr. Heney, Mr. Andrews expects to see Schmits, Huef and other men high in San Francisco affairs sent to the prison at San Quentin for a number of years.

ELABORATE SETTINGS KNOCK OUT MATINEE

Those who hold tickets for the matinee at the Hall for Mrs. Leslie Carter in "Du Barry" will be obliged to exchange them for tickets for tonight, the same play, or for tomorrow night in "Zaza." This change of program was decided upon by Mrs. Carter and her manager, Mr. Gray, on account of the elaborate stage settings of both plays that it was found to be impossible to give "Du Barry" at the matinee and have the stage ready for the presentation of "Zaza" in the evening.

As Mrs. Leslie Carter has played "Du Barry" before in this city, but not the latter play, it was thought best to omit the matinee. Matinee tickets will be honored for either evening at the box office. Monday positively the last day of discount of west side gas bills.
