

Steamer Vulcan's Hull After Flames Demolished Her.

FROM UNKNOWN CAUSE STEAMER VULCAN BURNS

Fire Occurred While Crew Was Ashore—Mate and Cook Have Narrow Escape—Flames Failed to Melt Ice Stored in the Cook's Galley.

The steamer Vulcan caught fire from some unknown origin at 9:30 o'clock last night a few minutes before her time to leave for down the river for Astoria. The crew was ashore, only O. Graham, mate, and Miss Laura Hardy, cook, being on board. It took only a few minutes to transform the boat into a mass of flames, and the two occupants found themselves cut off from shore.

The Vulcan was moored with her bow to the dock off Supple's boat yard and her stern away from the wharf. Mate Graham leaped into the river and swam to a raft of pilings near by, and called upon Miss Hardy to follow. After hesitating a moment the woman, too, cast herself into the river and she was soon picked up by Mr. Graham and escorted safely to shore.

The boat is believed to be a total loss, although some of the machinery may be saved. She belonged to the Willamette & Columbia River Towing company and was rebuilt about a year ago, although the original hull was launched some 10 years ago. It is understood that Manager W. E. Jones is already planning the construction of a new hull for the machinery.

A strange feature of the fire was the fact that while nearly all of the upper works were destroyed, the zinc-lined wooden ice chest remained intact so that when opened this morning it still contained a good-sized chunk of solid ice.

The ocean-going steamer Sue H. Elmore was slightly scorched by the flames, but nevertheless she left for Astoria this morning. The Elmore had been at the wharf for repairs. Captain Smith of the freighter George Williams says his crew is being unjustly criticized for the work in handling the fire on the steamer Vulcan.

ling the fire on the steamer Vulcan. He denies that the boat was unusually slow in getting to the blaze. "It takes a minute and a half to spread the fire, before the boat can leave her dock," said Captain Smith this morning, "and that was all it took last night. Then we had to wait for the draw to open. I should judge it took us from 5 to 10 minutes to get to the fire. People must understand that a boat is not a team of horses. You cannot swing it around in the twinkling of an eye."

The Morrison bridge tender says he opened the draw for us and then shut it. I know we had to repeat our signals for the bridge and consequently lost some time. The bridge man could have saved the situation by turning in an alarm from the box in the bridge office had he been so alert, but I suppose he did not know anything about the fire until he heard the alarm. I was told that the man who did turn in the call from the box at the east end of the bridge failed to understand the workings of the signal box and thus caused some delay.

"Another thing, and perhaps the most important feature is that a fireboat cannot be operated unless moored. The Vulcan was a sheet of flame when she reached her, which made it impossible for us to make fast to her. We had to tie up to the dock in order to hold against the terrific pressure of the large turret and by that time the Vulcan began drifting away, her bow having been cut by a man ashore, who figured on saving the dock and the adjoining craft."

"After having subdued the flames nearest our boat we managed to make fast to the burning boat and then followed her over the harbor until the flames were finally extinguished. We drifted nearly across the harbor as a result of the pressure of the streams that we played on the fire."

RAISE SALARIES OF POSTMASTERS

Federal Appointees at Huntington and Wasco Are Only Ones to Lose by Change.

TOPOGRAPHIC MAP OF UMATILLA QUADRANGLE

C. H. Birdseye of Geological Survey Is Preparing Document to Aid in Working Out Irrigation Problems of Eastern Oregon.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, D. C., June 7.—Only two Oregon postmasters were reduced in salary when First Assistant Postmaster General Hitchcock made the annual adjustment. These were Huntington, which lost $100 a year, and Wasco, which was decreased $300. It is claimed that these changes were due to local causes, such as the opening of other postoffices in contiguous territory, which took away business formerly done at those offices.

Portland's postmaster is increased from $4,000 to $5,000. Other increases are $100 to $200. The entire list for Oregon follows: Ashland, now $2,100, increased to $2,300; Aurora, now $1,100, increased to $1,300; Burns, now $1,200, increased to $1,400; Coquille, $1,400 to $1,500; Corvallis, $2,000 to $2,100; Dallas, $1,500 to $1,700; Elgin, $1,400 to $1,500; Hood River, $2,000 to $2,200; Huntington, $1,200 to $1,300; Jacksonville, $1,100 to $1,200; Junction City, $1,300 to $1,400; Klamath Falls, $1,200 to $1,300; Grande, $2,300 to $2,400; Lebanon, $1,300 to $1,400; McMinnville, $1,500 to $1,600; Medford, $1,800 to $1,900; Monmouth, $1,100 to $1,200; Mt. Angel, $1,400 to $1,500; Newberg, $1,500 to $1,600; North Bend, $1,100 to $1,200; Oregon City, $2,500 to $2,600; Portland, $4,000 to $5,000; Prineville, $1,500 to $1,600; Rainier, $1,100 to $1,200; Roseburg, $2,100 to $2,200; St. Johns, $1,100 to $1,200; Springfield, $1,000 to $1,100; Tillamook, $1,300 to $1,400; Umatilla, $1,400 to $1,500; Weston, $1,000 to a fourth class office.

Map of Quadrangle. C. H. Birdseye of the geological survey is making a topographic map of the Umatilla quadrangle, for use in studying the irrigation problems thereabouts. He is working in connection with the state engineer of Oregon.

William M. Morgan, of the Moscow, Idaho, law firm of Morgan & Morgan, has filed with the forest service petitions signed by numerous citizens of the Shoshone national forest of about 50,000 acres of land consisting of township 43 north range 4 east, township 43 north range 5 east and township 43 north range 6 east. Mr. Morgan made an argument before the service officials alleging that the lands in question should be restored to settlement because they are in a region mostly owned by private persons and are more valuable for agricultural purposes, two arguments which heretofore have been accepted by the forest service. Petitions have been offered for restoration of forest lands which have been withdrawn. Mr. Morgan was assured that the government would at once cause examination to be made and that if possible the lands would be recommended for restoration, to the secretary of the interior.

GREW MISS CARROLL'S HAIR

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost.

WITHIN the last decade great and rapid strides have been made in Materia Medica. Many diseases that were considered incurable fifteen years ago are now cured in a few days, and in many cases prevented altogether. The scientists of late years have been delving for the cause, the foundation, the reason and the starting point of disease, fully realizing that the actual and true cause must be ascertained before the remedy can be located. Hair troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp, and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment, and when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all of its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural and logical thing to do in either case is, feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

If I Thought the Ladies of Portland Didn't Read My Ads I'd Stop Writing Ads

WHY I KNOW THEY DO—Because of the pleasure every lady shows and the satisfaction every lady feels. I know that every lady who comes into this store has paid more or less attention to these store ads. Each lady who visits this store for the first time expects much in luxury, much in favor, much in pleasurable conceptions, she leaves the store with a broader view of what can be accomplished in store-excellence and with a sincere hope and desire to visit this store soon again. I know that a great many ladies come here through curiosity. I care not what the motive, I've gone a great many places, first through curiosity, and then through desire. Every visitor of this store receives the consideration of a patron.

WHY THEY SHOULD—I know that the ladies who read these ads are ambitious for the reason I know that the ladies who wear and demand the "Acheson" garments are ambitious. The person who is always on the lookout for better things is ambitious. I have tried to solve the mystery of how to give a little better service, to furnish to the ladies of Portland even a little better merchandise than they demand. I have tried to place this house where criticism is unjust. This then is the "Acheson Way."

"Dolly Varden" at the Marquam. Next week's offering at the Marquam will be "Dolly Varden." The San Francisco opera company has secured a continuous hit since the beginning of its engagement in this city. It is likely that the production of "Dolly Varden" will eclipse all former efforts.
