

ROOSEVELT ON GEORGIA

FREEMASONS ARE MEMBERS OF THE GRAND LODGE WILL BRING A THOUSAND DELEGATES FOR THE WEEK.

President Speaks at Jamestown, Dedication of Georgia Building—Touches Upon Child Labor and Liability of Employers.

(Journal Special Service.)

Norfolk, Va., June 10.—The celebration of Georgia day at the Jamestown exposition today attracted the largest crowd that has passed through the turnstiles since the opening. Two addresses by President Roosevelt, a magnificent naval demonstration on Hampton Roads, the presentation of a silver service to the battleship Georgia, a military escort for the president composed of Georgia troops, Virginia cadets and West Point cadets and Annapolis cadets, and a reception to the president by the Georgia commission at Bulloch hall, the reproduction of the house at Roswell, Georgia, in which President Roosevelt's mother was born and married, were the chief features of the program, and they combined to make the day one that will live in the history of the Jamestown exposition.

The state of Georgia had the center of the stage from the opening to the close of the day's exercises. The presidential party were conveyed to the exposition grounds through the magnificent battleship Georgia and next to the president the most prominent figure of the day was Governor Terrell, who as emperor of the south. The Georgia militia and cadets shared honors equal in the military pageant with the federal troops and the groomed cadets of the United States military and naval academy. The military parade, escorted by the president from Discovery landing to the speaker's stand on Lee parade, was the spectacular feature of the day, and both the number of men participating and in the branches of the service represented the pageant far surpassed that of the opening day. The parade was under the command of General Fred D. Grant. As many thousands as could crowd themselves within seeing and hearing distance filled the parade grounds about the reviewing stand. The appearance of Governor Terrell and his staff was the signal for a hearty ovation as that accorded to the president himself. The ceremonies were opened by President W. N. Mitchell of the Georgia commission, who introduced President Roosevelt. The president delivered one of his characteristic speeches in which he said glowing tributes to the state which was the home of his maternal ancestors. Following the president's oration he was escorted to the Georgia building, where he was formally received by Governor Terrell. A public reception by the two executives was then in order, followed by the commemorative incident to the presentation of the silver service to the battleship Georgia.

SPEAKS ON GEORGIA

President Talks of Southern and of Child Labor.

(Journal Special Service.)
Norfolk, Va., June 10.—The president's speech on Georgia in part was as follows: "I cannot express how deeply touched I am at the dedication of the state of Georgia, my mother's state, the state from which I draw half the blood in my veins, in erecting as the Georgia state house at the Jamestown exposition a replica of my grandfather's house at Roswell, Georgia; the house in which my mother passed her youth and where she was married to my father. It is an act of gracious courtesy and consideration which I very deeply appreciate; and through the governor and other representatives of Georgia I desire from my heart to thank all her citizens. "Georgia's history is unique, for she alone among the original 13 colonies and the subsequent new states added thereto, was founded with a consciously benevolent purpose, with the deliberate intent to benefit mankind by upbuilding a commonwealth along carefully planned lines of social, political and religious liberty and justice. "Half Southern, Half Northern. "Perhaps the very fact that I am half southern and half northern makes it natural for me to feel with intensity the strong sense of kinship with every portion of our great common country, which should be the birthright of every true American. "It is a matter for congratulation that there is such a steady increase of interest in the southern states in everything pertaining to children. This has already markedly shown itself, and I hope will still more markedly show itself in the future, in warring against the evil of child labor in factories. The factory is a very poor place indeed for a child; indeed, personally I think the factory is a poor place for a woman, certainly for a married woman, or for an unmarried woman for more than a very few years. "In any community organized on really healthy lines the average woman will have quite enough to do in her own home, whether she is rich or poor, and nowhere else can she do work of such value to the nation as a whole—and I think I can say for the benefit of her work as housewife and mother, and not so-called 'home industries.' As a result, the factory is as essential to look after their physical as their mental training. We can not afford to let children grow up ignorant; and if they are sent to school they cannot while young, also work hard outside without detriment, physical, mental and moral.

Dreads Socialism.

"We have inherited and developed a superbly self-reliant individualism in this country. I most earnestly hope that it will not be lost, that it will never be exchanged for a deadening socialism. The only permanently beneficial way in which to help anyone is to help him to help himself; if either private charity or governmental action or social reform or progress destroys the individual's power of self help, the gravest possible wrong is being done to the individual. Nevertheless, as the conditions of life grow more complex, it is not possible to trust our welfare only to the unbridled individual initiative of each unit of our population working as that unit wills. "Employers Estable. "It is neither just, expedient, nor humane, it is revolting to judgment and sentiment alike, that the financial burden of accidents occurring because of the necessity, exigencies, or the daily occupation should be thrust upon those sufferers who are least able to bear it, and that they should receive theirs should only be obtained by litigation which now burdens our courts. "As a matter of fact there is no sound economic reason for distinction between accidents caused by negligence and those which are unavoidable, and the law should be such that the payment of those accidents will become automatic instead of being a matter for litigation. We should receive a certain definite and limited compensation for all accidents in industry, irrespective of negligence."

Fancy touches on the cuffs, pockets and lapels, just to give the suit a snappy look, and they're being snapped up by the young men who are not afraid of a new idea. For us conventional folks here are the new conventional fashions.

Tacoma, June 10.—Tacoma is entertaining the Masons of the state this week, delegates from the different organizations of the order being here in attendance at the annual meetings. The entire six days of the week will be consumed in these gatherings. This morning the grand commander, Knights Templars, opened his thirteenth annual meeting with a parade of the commandery, escorting the grand officers from the hotels to the Masonic temple. Lincoln F. Gault of Tacoma delivered the address of welcome and W. H. Auzoff of Spokane the response. Luncheon was served in the banquet hall of the temple at noon. A session of the grand commandery is in progress this afternoon. This evening its members will unite with the members of the grand lodge in an informal reception and entertainment.

Principal among the sessions of the week is the grand lodge, which convenes tomorrow. The sessions will continue until Thursday evening. It is the fiftieth annual communication of the grand lodge. Thursday morning the grand chapter of the Eastern Star will open its nineteenth communication. Friday morning the grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons will meet in its twenty-third annual convocation. The grand council of Royal and Select Masons will convene in their fifth annual assembly Saturday. During the week there will be fully 1,500 delegates present. At the annual convocation the grand commandery today in their annual assembly Saturday. They were met at the steamer by the Tacoma commandery. The latter immediately united in a parade.

FULTON AND ELLIS IN EASTERN OREGON

Getting in Touch on Reclamation, Forest Reserves and Public Land Leasing.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Vale, Or., June 10.—Senator C. W. Fulton and Representative R. W. Ellis of the second congressional district spent part of Thursday and Friday in Vale consulting the people of Malheur county upon the subjects of reclamation, forest reserves and leasing the public lands for grazing purposes. It was an important event, it being the first time in the history of the county that members of both houses of congress met the people of Malheur county. Thursday night at Odd Fellows' hall a reception was tendered the honored guests at which Colonel R. B. Wheeler presided. Senator Fulton and Representative Ellis made short addresses touching upon the subjects of reclamation and leasing of the public lands. They left Friday morning for Burns.

WASHINGTON MEN AT FORESTRY CONVENTION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Olympia, June 10.—Governor Mead has appointed the following delegates to the convention to be held at Denver June 17, 18 and 19 to discuss the forest reserve policy of the general government. Attorney General John D. Atkinson, Commissioner of Public Lands E. W. Ross, G. F. Jackson of Dayton, State geologist George W. Colfax and H. C. Bryson of Walla Walla. The convention, which resulted from a resolution adopted by the last state legislative assembly, will be presided over by the governor of that state, and includes all of the states west of the Mississippi. The convention will probably agree upon a statement of opinion on the subject and urge their incorporation in new regulations of new statutes.

RAIN MAY HELP IN FIGHT ON ARMY WORM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Tacoma, June 10.—The army worm has made its appearance in great numbers in this vicinity. An organized effort may be made to stamp out the pest, which is destroying trees and causing havoc to vegetation generally. The drought, which has lasted for weeks, has done the most of May one of the driest ever experienced in the sound region, ended with soaking rains yesterday afternoon and last night, and farmers and orchardists hope the rainy weather may assist in their fight against the worms.

WANTS NO RAILROAD THROUGH PILOT ROCK

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Or., June 10.—A suit has been filed in the circuit court by Attorney John McCourt as the representative of A. J. Sturtevant of Pilot Rock asking that the O. R. & C. company be enjoined from proceeding with building its grade through the main part of the town of Pilot Rock. It is understood the council of Pilot Rock has granted the Umatilla Central a perpetual franchise to operate a railroad along the entire length of a main street. Sturtevant has two lots which it is necessary for the road to go through. His meetings were held at any price and says he will spend money to keep the road out of the main portion of town. Other residents of the town are not fighting the proposition.

WIFE CAME BACK BUT FARM DIDN'T

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Spokane, Wash., June 10.—Ellen M. Smith has brought suit in the superior court charging her son, James C. Smith, with defrauding her out of her farm of 400 acres, valued at $24,000. She claims he came to her in terrible agony and asked her to transfer the farm to him so his wife, who had left him, would come back. This Mrs. Smith finally did, and received in exchange two lots in this city valued at $2,500. Smith was also to keep his mother the rest of her life. She now asks the court to compel him to reimburse her. Smith, she alleges, has not provided for her, as was the agreement.

GLAD THEY SAID NAY TO FURNITURE TRUST

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Aberdeen, Wash., June 10.—Interviews with some of the prominent furniture firms here showed they were approached by representatives of the trust and strong inducements held out to them to join. Several meetings were held, but they resulted in nothing. In view of recent developments the merchants are very glad no action was taken.

BOGUS CLARET AROUSES WRATH

Vine Growers of South France Hold Mass Meeting to Protest.

(Journal Special Service.)
Paris, June 10.—An extraordinary demonstration has just been held in the little town of Capestang near Béziers, where 15,000 vinegrowers gathered from the surrounding districts to hold a monster meeting with the object of protesting against the fraudulent imitation of claret known as "buge" and ruining the wine trade of the south of France. Pony traps, dog carts, heavy country drays and wagons, filled with such inscriptions as "We want bread," "Down with the claret fraud," "The south must live" and "No taxation," blocked the roads all round the village. The vinegrowers assembled in the public square, some even climbing ladders and shouting from the housetops. The mayor of the town took the chair and made an impassioned speech against fraud. "We suffer from fraud," he said, "and our vineyards are dying. Shall we go to our death making no protest? No. Then waive all differences of politics and religion and unite to save our vines and our wine. Down with fraud and up with good claret."

LADIES WILL SEW TO AID NOBLE CAUSE

Portland Women Under Guidance of Tailor Will Make Clothing for Alaskan Indian Pupils.

The Presbyterian Industrial Training school in Sitka is a most interesting place. There the visitor may see 120 Indian boys and girls being trained to use their brains and hands. The boys are taught shoemaking, simple blacksmith work and gardening and the girls sewing and cooking, besides the regular school curriculum. The civilizing mission is considered well begun when an individual first becomes anxious to retain his own tooth brush. A small percentage of the pupils become earnest, efficient home missionaries. The larger number become developing factors in their native Alaska. Last year the school was so full that anything which could be called a bed was used and many were turned away. They have been using straw filled pillows, but the Presbyterian ladies of the northwest are working to send supplies of bedding and clothing. Next Thursday the presbyterian officers expect 100 women at Calvary church to make 45 warm capes under the supervision of a good tailor. It will be a busy scene with the whirr of 12 sewing machines and the flash of needles and scissors. A social hour at Purchase Land for Beets.

Spokane, Wash., June 10.—D. C. Corbin and Austin Corbin, principal stockholders in the Washington State Sugar company, have purchased 2,000 acres of land near Athol, Idaho, on which to raise sugar beets. The land cost $90,000. This brings their investment up to $150,000. They expect to raise 40,000 tons of sugar beets on their entire plot. This amount of beets will make between 125,000 and 150,000 sacks of sugar.
