singer famous. Magnificent costumes and a conspicuous feature of the production and the stage settings are beautiful. This is next to the last week of the engagement of the San Francisco Opera company in this city. All the members of the company appear to excellent advantage in the piece.

"The Prince and the Pauper." The rose matinee at the Baker was a big success yesterday, and hundreds of children witnessed the delightful performance of Little Ollie Cooper, the child actress in Mark Twain's famous play "The Prince and the Pauper."

Zinn's Dancing Girl Chorus. Zinn and his famous dancing girl chorus will open at the Baker for a short summer season next Sunday matinee. "Tweezy Weezy," a musical travesty, will be produced.

"Shall We Forgive Her." Next week, beginning Monday matinee, the Allen Stock company will appear in a stupendous production of the famous English domestic melodrama, "Shall We Forgive Her?" The play is certain to be very popular here as it has been elsewhere.

"All the Comforts of Home." At the Lyric there will be a regular laugh fest tonight where the Allen Stock company is giving its splendid performance of William Gillette's great comedy, "All the Comforts of Home." The play is one of the hits of the local season.

Great Davenportis Tonight. At the Oaks tonight the Great Davenportis, the greatest highwire performers in the world, will begin a two-weeks' engagement. Their performance will begin promptly at 9:30 o'clock. A wire has been stretched 75 feet above the ground on which they will perform. Their wire will be brilliantly illuminated with incandescent lights, creating a weird and thrilling sight in the sky. There will be the regular band concerts and the many other attractions.

"Confusion." Nat Goodwin's early success, "Confusion," will be played at the Star theatre next week. While the farce has been played thousands of times by Goodwin in the past, the timing and opportunity the people of this city have had to witness it.

Science in Vaudeville. Science will play the headline part next week at the Grand, when Captain Henry, electrical engineer, late of the government's service, gives practical demonstrations of wireless telegraphy. New York papers devoted columns to this act and declared it as instructive as it is amusing.

Grand's Best Bill. They don't make better vaudeville than that which is presented this week at the Grand. Everyone is talking of the show, because it is so good. Three performances are given daily.

"The Belle of Richmond." Since there is no class of play more popular than a love story, the Star theatre has been doing capacity this week with "The Belle of Richmond." Matinees Saturday and Sunday. Seats are now selling for the remaining performances.

GERMANY TRYING TO RECOVER LOST TRADE

American Merchants Are Cutting Into Business in Southern Countries.

(Journal Special Service.) Berlin, June 11.—The German-Brazilian society, after nine years of activity in promoting trade relations with Brazil, has reorganized, taking the name of the German-Brazilian Association. Hereafter it will extend its field of labor to include the entire territory of Central and South America.

This change is coincident with the opening of an energetic campaign on the part of German exporters to effect favorable arrangements with the merchants with all states south of Mexico to recover the ground lately lost through the rivalry of the "Pan-American tendency," which is considered a serious danger to the commercial interests of the motherland.

As a first step in this direction the revision of the existing treaties with Argentina, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Bolivia and Paraguay will be demanded at the earliest opportunity.

The majority of the editors, particularly those from the middle and western states, have planned to remain in the vicinity for several days to come, visiting Richmond and the Virginia battlefields, Washington, Baltimore and the Atlantic coast resorts.
