Drafts Cashed by Prisoner Admitted as Evidence in Boise Trials Today.

DEFENSE TO IMPEACH ORCHARD'S TESTIMONY

Claim That Confessed Assassin Had Nothing to Do With Vindicator Explosion, and Played Minor Parts in Other Crimes.

(By Hugh O'Neill, Special Commissioner Post and Oregon Journal.)
Boise, Idaho, June 15.—Although of little moment in itself, the ruling of Judge Wood this morning admitting secondary testimony relative to a telegram sent by Steve Adams from Ogden to W. D. Harwood of Denver asking for $75. The city detective of Ogden who says Adams sent the telegram was permitted under this ruling to tell of its contents. The telegram companies destroyed the telegram six months after its receipt.

Money for Simpkins.

In a bundle of drafts secured from the First National bank of Denver, submitted as evidence, was one dated January 17, 1904, for $100, cashed at Spokane by Mrs. Mathilda Simpkins, wife of the missing executive committee member of the Western Federation of Miners. At the time that the draft was sent a hue and cry was over the country for the arrest of Simpkins for his complicity in the murder of Steuermann.

Defense shows hand.

Another striking of the line of defense was supplied by Richardson in his cross-examination of Major H. A. Naylor, assistant secretary of the Cripple Creek Mine Owners association, when the lawyer sought to show that the national guard "shot up" the Vindicator mine because of a quarrel among the owners of the property and the Mine Owners association. Although the atorney did not succeed with this witness he will do much better with his own. When Haywood's defense is in, his lawyer will put forward the proposition that Orchard had nothing whatever to do with the Vindicator mine explosion, that it was a secondary character in the Independence depot disaster and served for the mineowners in whatever he did, and further, that life was not intended to be taken in this explosion; that the setting of bombs in Denver for Gabbert and Goddard were permitted under this ruling to tell of its contents; that Orchard had nothing whatever to do with the Bradley explosion in San Francisco, and had by this time become a paranoiac and should not be credited; and that, while Orchard assassinated Steuermann, he did so solely on his own account, and that Simpkins was inveigled by Caldwell by Orchard without knowing the intent of his companion to do murder.

To Show Counter-Conspiracy.

Richardson is bent on proving a counter-conspiracy in Cripple Creek at the time of the strike, which resulted in the loss of life to nonunion miners. He has introduced into evidence a district which wrought disaster to Colorado and had the state rent in twain in 1904 were revised by Richardson this forenoon when he had Major Naylor before him, and he is but whetting his knife for Carlton, Hamlin, Holman and others of the Mineowners' association of Cripple Creek. His position is that the Western Federation of Miners sought by every means to connect a peaceable strike in Cripple Creek, whereas the mineowners entered into a conspiracy with the governor of the state to send the militia into the district to overthrow the miners' union, but before that could be done violence had to take place, hence the trouble in the mine. He desires these names and addresses sent to him at headquarters, 320 Sweetland building, so that he may give them the grand marshal, who will assign them to their positions in the parade. Great confusion will be avoided by complying with Mr. Cannon's wish.

Peabody Testifies.

A few minutes later the "Peabody bomb" was introduced on an exhibition and identified as having been found on the river at Wallace, Idaho, having been carried by Orchard from Canon City, Colorado. The man for whom it had been intended in Colorado saw it for the first time in court.

The former Governor Peabody took the witness stand and testified to the matter of remodeling his home, which caused Orchard to desert from his endeavor to blow up the Peabody home. Richardson then asked for a recess to prepare for cross-examination. Then the defense prayed the prosecution by refraining from cross-examination. The prosecution had refrained from asking many questions, expecting that the defense would rake up the whole Colorado mess.

MAYOR LANE WITHDRAWS HIS BOND ISSUE PROCLAMATION

The proclamation of the mayor announcing the failure or passage of the various bond issues voted upon by the people at the recent election has been recalled by Mayor Lane and will not again be filed until he has time to look into the points of law raised by Ben Mac Smith yesterday, effecting the legality of the same.

Judge Smith appeared at the mayor's office yesterday afternoon and gave it as his opinion that the neglect of City Auditor Devin to properly certify the bonds would serve to invalidate them. He also held that in case of appropriations it was necessary

ROSE CARNIVAL AND FIESTA TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Will Be Such as Pacific Northwest Has Never Before Witnessed.

A pageant of flowers such as this coast has never seen will be the great rose carnival and fiesta that is to be held next week. Of magnificent brilliancy will be the great parade, the spectacular feature of the fiesta.

Arrangements have been practically completed, though the order of parade and the line of march will not be definitely announced until late this afternoon. And in connection with the parade there has been an extremely busy man during the past week in the person of the Rose carnival and fiesta committee. Mr. Cannon has labored indefatigably and the results of his efforts will likely appear even the dress of the parade.

Send in Your Names.

In order to facilitate his work, Mr. Cannon desires the name and address of every person who will have an entry in the parade. He desires these names and addresses sent to him at headquarters, 320 Sweetland building, so that he may give them the grand marshal, who will assign them to their positions in the parade. Great confusion will be avoided by complying with Mr. Cannon's wish.

There is to be a meeting late this afternoon of the various officers and committees of the Rose carnival and fiesta. The march of the parade and its officers will be decided upon. They will be announced tomorrow.

THEY SAW ROBBER

course of their walk came to a point about a yard from the O. & N. crossing, where the robbery and murder occurred. The young woman and her escort, who were in a motor car, and conversed on various topics. About this time the Rose City Park car drove in sight and almost simultaneously with its appearance a loud report darted out of the darkness and almost brushing against the couple raced to the top of the crowd. The man presently bent in reaching that point before the arrival of the coach.

Girl Tells Her Story.

Miss Healin was visited at her home in Fairview by Detectives Baty and Heller and induced to tell the details of the movements of herself and her escort on the night of the robbery. She declared that the only reason for her being in the city at that time was the desire to keep out of the case.

In response to a severe letter written to her by the detective, she furnished a fair description of the thief. She declared that the only reason for her being in the city at that time was the desire to keep out of the case.

STEAM SHOVELS SOON WILL BE PILING DIRT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., June 15.—Shipping receipts for 15 carloads of Union Pacific construction material sent to Tacoma from the east have been received here by the road's local representatives and the contractor has begun within two weeks steam shovels will commence to level the Union Pacific grade between Tacoma and Portland. The first construction contracts will be let next week. Right-of-way difficulties have practically all been settled. The terminal work in Tacoma, consisting of a long tunnel and steel trussing, will be the most difficult engineering feature the road will encounter in building to the Sound. Engineers are now working on these problems.

Farmers Disposed to Be Generous in Allowance to Rainmaker—Forecaster Beats Sticks to Meteorological Orthodoxy.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Wasco, Or., June 15.—Hatfield, the alleged rainmaker, is generally credited with having brought about the copious rains that have fallen in this district during the past several days. He came here to produce rain and it has rained. He now claims to have the situation well in hand and promises occasional showers until the crops are ready for harvesting. The farmers are jubilant with the prospect.

RETAILERS GOUGED

per cent less than the same goods can be purchased by the unfortunate struggling retailer. The "regular" quotation from the same wholesaler, however, is a receipt to cover rebates.

The favors shown the "special preferred" favorite during his year's purchases reach a culmination at the close of the year with a huge rebate from the wholesaler, given usually in the form of a cancellation of the concluding month's account. Without making any special effort, the wholesaler sends a receipt to the "special preferred" dealer in full for the last month's bill of goods. This seldom happens, but it does happen.

BANKERS OF OREGON LISTEN TO REPORTS, MAKE TRIP TO VANCOUVER AND WILL WIND UP CONVENTION AT BANQUET TONIGHT AT PORTLAND HOTEL

Strenuous yet pleasant times are being enjoyed by the delegates to the Oregon State Bankers' association, now in convention in Portland. Yesterday was filled with the opening of the convention, and an excursion to Vancouver and back. The evening was taken up with a special evening session, and all day today the convention will grind on the completion of its program, the election of officers and other routine business. Tonight the session will close with a banquet at the Portland hotel.

The evening session and a part of the time this morning was filled with five-minute reports on banking conditions from each county in the state. This afternoon the work of the convention will be closed and final adjournment will be taken at the afternoon session. The officers are to be elected and the place for holding the next convention is to be chosen.

Bankers of Oregon Listen to Reports, Make Trip to Vancouver and Will Wind Up Convention at Banquet Tonight at Portland Hotel

The excursion yesterday afternoon to Vancouver, where the delegates were guests of honor at a dress parade of the Fourth Infantry, was much enjoyed. A large number availed themselves of the invitation to make the river trip with the Portland steamer, the Uline. The visitors witnessed the parade at 8 o'clock. Luncheon was furnished by the officers of the post, and dinner was served on the boat while returning to the city. The excursion reached Portland on its return at 9 o'clock.

CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE REVERSES JUSTICE

Judge Gantenbein in the circuit court this morning reversed the decision of Justice of the Peace Reid in the case of Magne Schillias against H. J. Lane, publisher of the Pacific Skandinavien. Schillias alleged that he had been employed by Lane to edit the Skandinavien at a salary of $76 a month, and that $100 of his salary was due him. He sued for that amount.

Lange denied this and said that Schillias had first applied for the case at $50 a month, and when this was refused he went to work for his living expenses. Justice Reid heard the case and gave Schillias judgment for $100. Lange appealed to the circuit court, where the judgment was reversed, and a decision given to Lange.
