DEFENSE THROWS BOMB INTO PROSECUTION

Refuses to Cross-Examine Executive After State Had Asked But Few Questions—Lid Closed Upon Entire Colorado Mess.

By John Navins. (Journal Special Service.)

Boise, Idaho, June 15.—The early portion of the Haywood session today was devoted to argument of the admissibility of the contents of a telegram sent by Steve Adams asking for money, when arrested in Ogden. The court finally admitted the testimony.

Witness Pender was recalled and said the telegram read: "Haywood, Denver. Am in trouble, send me $75."

Joseph C. Houston, assistant cashier of the First National bank, produced the bank books showing Haywood's financial transactions. Houston identified the handwriting on New York bank drafts and James Kerwan acting secretary-treasurer on others. One for $100 was drawn January 17, 1906, after Houston's name was written.

MAKE GREAT HIT IN INDIAN PLAY

Pacific University Students Present Weird Dramatized Legend.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pacific University, Forest Grove, Or., June 15.—An enthusiastic, well-satisfied audience, the biggest that has ever crowded into the large college auditorium, greeted the juniors last evening when they gave F. H. Balch's Indian tragedy play, "The Bridge of the Gods."

People came from all corners of the county, Hillsboro, Beaverton, Cornelius, Gaston and outside points and they were unanimous in their praise of the dramatic work of the collegians.

Owing to the extremely unseasonable cold it was impossible to give the play on the campus under the oaks, as planned, but nevertheless the stage settings were so realistic that the audience, with trees cut green from the woods, was deceived.

Samuel B. Lawrence as Multnomah, chief of the Willamettes, made a big hit with his commanding figure and stentorian voice as he addressed the different councils.

Miss Esther Silverman as Tohomah, a girl with her weird and mystic interpretation of Indian prophecy sent thrills through the audience. Her work with that of Miss Wilhelmina Heide as Wailulah, daughter of Multnomah, was easily the strongest of the cast.

The other leading roles were taken by A. E. Ingham, J. H. Clapp, D. I. Aller, H. H. Arnston and Miss Frances Clapp. They were assisted by 40 students.

The play is in Portland today and will repeat the effort at the Hellog theatre tonight.

MACADAM PROJECT AGITATES FARMERS

Meeting at Silverton at Which Many Who Had Remonstrated Fall Into Line.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Silverton, Or., June 15.—A red hot meeting of farmers adjacent to the proposed macadam road east of this city was held in the opera house yesterday afternoon. About 200 people were present. County Judge John H. Scott of Salem presided and made a brief talk on the importance of the road.

Some time ago a petition was circulated and liberally signed asking the county clerk to construct the road under the Tuttle law and preliminary arrangements were made. A few weeks ago some farmers in the vicinity of Astoria, whose property comes in the four-mile limit, started a petition of remonstrance and it was feared the matter would be dropped.

and searching their houses because they were unclean. Naylor several times, causing him to admit that he did what the Miners' association wanted. Naylor's chief assistants were "gun men," one of them now in the penitentiary serving a life sentence for murder. Naylor carried General Bell, a newspaper editor.

He said he got to the Independence hotel shortly after the explosion and recovered the bodies of 14 victims. W. H. Schuieberg identified the Peabody bomb which he found in the river at Wallace.

Confirms Story.

Sheriff Southard of Shoshone county, confirmed the story and declared that he unloaded the bomb after it was turned over to him.

C. T. Roach of Denver, a plumber, told of making the Peabody bomb at the request of the orchard who told him he wanted it to hold a catfish.

Miss Peabody, daughter of the governor, was the last witness in the morning, and she had a very interesting story to tell of the attempt on his life by Orchard.

He saw him at Canyon City in 1904, at the time Orchard said he was prevented from the killing of Peabody because he was remodeling his house.

When court reopened the defense threatened to bring in the prosecution by announcing that it had no desire to cross-examine Peabody. Borah had purposely refrained from any extended questioning on direct examination.

When the defense declined to fall into the trap of the killing of Peabody, the judge then announced that there would be no session of court on Monday, as he is going to Caldwell to continue the trial of Orchard, which is set for that date.

E. S. Raymond, a Denver poleman, saw Orchard at Hogan and saw him frequently with Haywood and Pettibone near the latter's house, usually at night.

J. W. Rich of Pocatello, hotelkeeper, testified to Steve Adams stopping at his hotel and having a gun with him, containing Greelan fire or "Pettibone dope," as it has been called, with him.

Adams was registered at the Grand Hotel in Portland. Borah announced that the state would close its case Wednesday. The defense will open upon that day.

WILSON PROPERTY MAY GO TO WOMAN

Christine Enger Trying to Establish Claim Before Jury—If Successful City Will Lose.

At the trial of the proceeding to forfeit to the state the property of Harry Wilson, deceased, which is valued at about $15,000, Christine Enger, an aged woman, seeks to prove that she is the sister of Wilson, and that it is she, not the estate, that is entitled to Wilson's property.

A number of witnesses were called yesterday afternoon who had known Christine in her lifetime. They had heard her speak of a sister named Christine, and say that she was his only living relative. All said they could see a resemblance to Christine Enger, who sat before them, and the dead man. Some thought it was a strong family resemblance, while others believed it to be merely the resemblance of nationality.

If Mrs. Enger can convince the jury that she is the sister of Wilson, she will get the $15,000. If she can not, the money will go into the coffers of the state. The trial was continued until Monday morning when court adjourned yesterday afternoon.

WOULD HAVE SAVED MONEY BY SETTLING

Railway Company Will Have to Pay Good Price for Right-of-Way.

Repeated attempts to settle the condemnation suit of the Oregon Electric Railway Company against the Terwilliger Land Company and the South Portland Improvement Company for a right of way across the old Terwilliger homestead in South Portland, are said to have been made before the jury returned a verdict. When the verdict was returned this morning it was found that the highest offer made by the railway company was $13,000 less than the sum awarded by the jury.

The railway company offered the right of way, fixing the price it should pay at $27,745. The first offer made by the company, it is said, was $50,000. Later this was increased to $7,000, then to $10,000, and yesterday afternoon after the attorneys had finished their case, the judge had instructed the jury, it is said, to offer of $12,000 was made and refused. The case has been on trial in Judge Frazer's department of the circuit court nearly all week.

NORTH END OWNERS MAY BE PROSECUTED

Considerable activity in the north end district is being manifested by the district attorney's office and the Upon complaints sworn to yesterday by Detective B. Maher, Julius Wenzel, Tony Arnold and Arnan Perot, proprietors of notorious tendorino resorts, were taken into custody on charges of maintaining disorderly resorts.

The men were released upon deposit of $250 cash bail each and the cases were set for trial in Judge Frazer's department of the circuit court next week.

The numerous complaints received relative to the character of the resorts conducted by the three defendants is being used as the reason for the prosecutions.

Reno, Nov. 16.—The report that the Southern Pacific company was going to build a double track over the Sierra Nevada from Reno to Roseville has been met vigorously denied, but Superintendent Palmer of San Francisco stated to Sparks that such was the intention and that the primary purpose of his trip to this section was for the purpose of inspecting the route.

"The new tracks are necessary to avoid delays which we are encountering in carrying heavy loads over the increasing traffic over the mountains on this line," said Palmer. "We have a side track about every two miles and it is comparatively easy to connect them and thus build another line over the mountains parallel to the present one."

In speaking of the project of the Sierra Nevada, Palmer stated that he thought that the new track meant that work on the line would not be begun for a year at least.

CIVIC DECENCY IS DESIRE OF MEMBERS

Late Manager of Devlin Campaign and Organizer of Movement Will Be General Manager—T. C. Devlin Chosen President.

(Journal Special Service.)

F. E. Reed, who came to Portland last year to run the politics of the city and the state, has completed the rules and by-laws of his Oregon Republican Civic League. He has also elected officers and a board of directors.

The object of the league, as explained by Mr. Reed in the by-laws is "to promote the principles of civic decency in the official life and advance the principles of good government in the various departments of our state, county and city government and to advance the material interests and well being of the people of the state."

Reed denies that his league was formed to aid the political aspirations of any individual, but that its motives are purely benevolent, says, and the building up of a greater and better city is the hope of the league. "Civic pride and the desire to see the favorite terms which Reed rolls off glibly in describing the purposes of his league."
