

TEACHERS GET RATE

Portland Educators Can Attend National Educational Association Convention at Los Angeles on Certificate Basis Plan.

In relation to article in Wednesday's Journal, permit me to state that reduced rates to the National Educational association convention will be effective on certificate basis; that is, prior to validation of ticket, certificate of membership must be secured.

"ROBERT O. HOEDEL, Assistant Secretary."

The above telegram which was received this morning by The Journal from Assistant Secretary Hoedel at Los Angeles announcing that better rates could be secured than those probable under the decision of the Interstate commerce commission, will do much to reassure teachers who planned to attend the educational meeting there from July 8 to 13, inclusive, but who were nonplussed by the thought of having to pay full fare both ways.

Originally the plan was to pay full fare one way and by paying the $2 membership in the association the return ticket could be secured without charge. The interstate commerce commission held this plan to be unlawful, but the certificate plan is a happy solution of the difficulty.

Good Attendance Assured. Superintendent Rigler stated this morning that under the fare and a third rate for the government, he believed there would be an attendance of over 150 from Portland and nearby cities.

An effort is being made by the Portland Commercial club, the board of trade and the railroad companies to secure a modification of the ruling of the interstate commerce commission affecting the proposed $2 membership fee for the National Educational association convention to be held at Los Angeles.

Will Operate a Special. Teachers in Wasco, Columbia, Clatsop, Clackamas and Multnomah counties who intend to be present at the convention of Oregon state teachers at Salem July 1, 2 and 3, are requested to inform their county superintendents. Their school principals in turn will leave the names with Superintendent Robinson of Multnomah county to be used in securing a special train from the Southern Pacific.

Two hundred passengers will be necessary to secure the special and it is planned to leave Portland on the morning of July 1 in order to reach Salem in time for the governor's opening address. Returning the special will leave Salem after the session adjourns Wednesday night, July 3.

The rate will be one fare for the round trip and the names of intending visitors should be in the hands of the superintendent within 10 days.

PATIENT SWEETHEART WAITS TWO YEARS TO JOIN LOVER

There was once a cynic who heard a song and paraphrased its title with a sneer to make it say "Absence makes the heart grow fonder—of the other fellow." That same cynic received a severe jolt on the solar plexus of his philosophy at the courthouse yesterday when Frida Ahman went direct from the depot, where she had arrived at 10:40 in the morning from Sweden, to the clerk's office and procured a license to marry Eric E. Ehrenstam, to whom she plighted her troth in Sweden two years ago.

They told their story to Deputy County Clerk Wilde while he wrote out their marriage license in Sweden they had been sweethearts. Two years ago Eric started away from the mother country to seek his fortune. They became engaged, and Frida promised to join Eric when he should send for her. Eric went to China as a sailor, then came to the United States, reaching Portland last August. Frida waited patiently in Sweden two years until word came from Eric that she should come. She arrived this morning on a train from New York, was met at the depot by Eric, and went with him directly to the courthouse and then to Justice of the Peace Fred Olson, who pronounced the marriage ceremony.

Ehrenstam and his bride live at 1134 Russell street, and will make Portland their home.

LOYD ELECTED THEIR LEADER

Indian War Veteran Leader Elevated From Position of Vice-Commander.

HE FOUGHT IN MANY WARS AGAINST REDS

Mayor Lane Entertained Convention, Telling Stories About His Grandfather, General Joseph Lane—Back Pay for Fighters Desired.

H. G. Loyd of Waitsburg, Washington, was elected grand commander of the Indian War Veterans association of the northwest at the closing session of the convention yesterday afternoon. The new commander is one of the most prominent members of the association, is a veteran of several of the early Indian wars and for the past two years has been vice-commander of the association. He succeeds H. D. Mount of Silverton. The other officers elected at the afternoon session yesterday were: A. B. Stuart, senior vice commander; E. Ross, junior vice-commander; Otto Kieftman, grand adjutant; Charles Chamberlain, grand paymaster; W. D. Ewing, grand chaplain; John Storán, grand marshal.

Attendance Was Large. The afternoon session of the convention was largely attended. It began at two o'clock and was addressed by Mayor Lane whose humorous stories of the old times and anecdotes of his grandfather, General Joseph Lane, were the occasion for cheers. At the close of his remarks the speaker was tendered an informal reception by the veterans who pressed forward to shake hands with him.

The meeting was interspersed with music, songs and recitations so that it was well towards the close of the afternoon before the session drew to an end. An interesting feature was the solo by Mrs. Maud Springer Watkins, a daughter, granddaughter and great-granddaughter of pioneer and Indian war veteran.

Practically all of the veterans are members of the Oregon Pioneers association and will remain in the city to attend the annual convention of that organization today and will perhaps extend their visit during the remainder of the week for the rose fiesta.

Indian Fighter Demands Pay. James McDonald, one of the veterans who served in the Indian wars from 1853 to 1867, presented his argument yesterday to the association relative to the wages earned by the Indian fighters and asked that they have never been paid. Principal and interest on the amount Veteran McDonald claims aggregates $100,000. This sum will be made the basis of a suit, both the state and government having refused to pay the wage of $2 per day, agreed upon at the time of hostilities with the Indians. These assigned claims were brought by Mr. McDonald years ago. Mr. McDonald's resolutions on the matter were presented to the association yesterday, but no action was taken.

PRIVATE ROAD TO LEAD MINES

Stevens County Residents to Build Rail Connections With Individual Funds.

S. H. Auschell of Metaine, Stevens county, Washington, is canvassing financial interests in behalf of construction of a railroad from Colville to Metaine, to tap the rich lead and silver mining camp that is being opened in the Metaine hills. The people of Colville and Metaine have undertaken to build the road with private subscriptions in the event of failure to interest railroad capitalists.

At a meeting of the Colville Commercial club's executive committee to consider ways and means of carrying forward the project a committee was appointed to go carefully over the ground, inspect and report conditions and confer with the Great Northern railway and others. It is believed the Great Northern will favor the project. Portland men interested heavily in Metaine lead mines had meetings with Ben Campbell just prior to his leaving the Great Northern, and an extension into the Metaine camp was discussed. Campbell is said to have favored immediate construction of a line, as he was convinced the Metaine camp will within a few years be an enormous tonnage producer.

RINEHART FAMILY'S ANNUAL REUNION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., June 19.—The fifth annual reunion of the Rinehart family opened yesterday at the home of J. R. McPherson on the old T. D. Edwards' place, seven miles east of Eugene. It will end this evening. The first reunion was held at Mayville, Union county, in 1893, as was also the second, in 1904. In 1905 it was held at Portland at the time of the Lewis and Clark fair and last year it was held in Gilliam county. The gatherings have always been attended by large numbers of the family from all over the state and some from Idaho and Washington.

At the reunion now being held near Eugene there are over 75 in attendance. The visitors are camped in about 20 big tents and eat their meals at one huge table spread with all of the good things the land affords.
