

BRAND NEW RAILROAD STATION FOR A NEWLY CREATED TOWN

The above is a very good reproduction of the O. R. & N. station at Hermiston, which is in the heart of the East Umatilla irrigation project. Hermiston is a new town, which has sprung up in the past year since it became known that the government would expend a million dollars here on this project in order to irrigate 20,000 acres of productive land. The town now has nearly 300 population, has two banks, many up-to-date business houses and it will be incorporated July 1. The lands under the project will be thrown open for entry early in the fall when many settlers will come onto these lands.

THOUSANDS VIEW
FLORAL WINDOW

THE FIRST PRIZE EILERS EXHIBIT CONTINUES TO BE CENTER OF ATTRACTION FOR FLOWER LOVERS.

The Beautiful Life Size Baby Grand Piano Most Elaborate Floral Piece of All the Displays—Natural Roses of Rarest Varieties Used in Lavish Profusion—Exhibit Will Be Continued.

All day yesterday, from the moment the exhibit was first thrown open to public view early in the day and continuing this morning, crowds thronged about the beautiful, arranged and flower-decorated windows of Eilers Piano House, at Park and Washington streets.

Truly it is one of the sights of the Fiesta—and one which has excited universal admiration of the thousands of flower lovers who gather about the windows in a never-ending throng. With a restful carpet of moss and a setting of natural evergreens and ferns, banked in plastic numbers as a background stands the magnificent floral piano—faithful in all its details, with the keys so inviting that one might almost be tempted to attempt a musical number—a combination of music and nature—as it were—that forms a most happy and appropriate idea as a basis for the splendid display. Rich red is the prevailing shade used in the color scheme, roses for the greater part being adopted in imitation of the mahogany used ordinarily. The piano is perfect in design, and life-size—a realistic reproduction of the baby grand so popular nowadays. It is almost an exact counterpart of the famous Chickering Quarter Grand.

A little further back the window is arranged in pretty rustic bridge, while from the ceiling and walls are hung hundreds of crystal vases, each holding its share of rare roses, the fairest and most beautiful, perhaps, that are to be seen in any display in the city.

The entire idea is beautifully carried out, and the crowds of visitors who throng the store are lavish in their praise.

Those who have not yet seen this beautiful display are invited to visit the store today or tomorrow, as arrangements have been made to keep the exhibit fresh by the addition of new flowers to replace any that may wilt.

WASHINGTON'S ORATOR BEST

John O. Erickson Defeats
Champions of Idaho and Oregon.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, June 21.—The fifth tri-state oratorical contest, in which Oregon, Washington and Idaho have been participants, was held here last night and resulted in victory for Washington's champion, John O. Erickson, of the University of Washington. James H. Frazier of the University of Idaho won second honors. Oregon's champion, H. M. McKinney, fell into third place.

The contestants had, besides the honors, two prizes set before them of $75 and $50, respectively, offered by J. P. Blaine of the King county (Washington) bar.

The orations, named in the order of awards of honors, were "Powers of the Press," "The Problems of the Twentieth Century" and "The President," respectively.

Henry McKinney, who represented Oregon, is perhaps the most interesting of the trio of debaters. He was selected by general consent as the all-around fullback last fall and holds the Pacific coast record for the shut-out in track work. He also tied the intercollegiate record for the United States, but that record in a few days was also broken.

The judges on delivery were Commissioner W. R. King of the state supreme court, Rev. H. M. Mount of the Presbyterian church and H. W. Thompson of Eugene.

The heads of the departments in English of the universities of Minnesota, Stanford and California are to be the judges of composition.

BUBBLING CAULDRON

Repairing Roof of Furnace at the Washoe Smelter, Joseph Butkovich Falls and Dies.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Anaconda, Mont., June 21.—Joseph Butkovich, an employe at the Washoe smelter, yesterday afternoon fell into a copper furnace filled with boiling water, sustaining injuries which will prove fatal.

Butkovich was engaged in repairing the roof of the furnace, which had been filled with water while undergoing repairs in order to save the iron from the intense heat. The water was seething and tumbling and the rising steam is believed to have blinded Butkovich or to have overcome him. He was pulled out immediately following his immersion, but the scalding water had virtually cooked his body and he had inhaled repeatedly the burning steam.

Test Our Cigars by Contrast

Under normal conditions the resources of Cuba are taxed to grow enough tobacco to keep up with the world's increasing demand. The failure of a crop hits everybody who does not prepare for it. We did.

Cuban tobacco is today as scarce as it was during the Spanish War. But we have an ample supply and are putting it in our cigars. Most other manufacturers are forced to resort to substitute leaf of domestic growth, or inferior grades of Cuban tobacco.

Our Imported and Clear Havana Cigars are as good as ever. Try them by contrast and the test will prove it.
