PRIDE OF HOUSEHOLD RAN AWAY TO SPLIT OTHER PEOPLE'S WOOD

Owen Wells, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wells, of 73 East Seventh street north, who mysteriously disappeared last Wednesday returned to his home yesterday afternoon soon after the big rose show parade. For 19 days the youngster successfully evaded the police and wandered about the city sleeping in unfinished houses and earning enough to keep himself from starving by putting in wood.

According to the boy's story he fell in with Taban who earned a livelihood putting in wood about the city. He failed to learn the fellow's name but has a high regard for the personage, nevertheless, for the new-found friend bought the boy a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes, took him frequently to the Oaks and showed him a good time generally.

In the daytime he worked with the man whenever they could get wood to put in but at night he left his partner because he was afraid to go home with him, although the latter had a snug little home somewhere in the city.

After the first night out, Owen Wells says he was afraid to return home. He was seen frequently about the city by playmates so that his parents were not overly worried as to his welfare.

Since the lad was four years old he has cultivated the habit of running away. Several times he has been absent from home over night and often leaves in the morning not returning until late at night.

WHEAT HIGHER ON THE SOUND

Reasons of Moritz Thomson, Seattle Miller, for the Joint Rate.

Wheat costs one to four cents more per bushel, he says—Railway Attorney Disputes This—Roads Anticipate Defeat—Will Appeal.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., June 22.—Moritz Thomson, president of the Centennial mill of Seattle, was on the witness stand nearly all day yesterday in the joint wheat rate hearing before the railroad commission, his testimony going to show that the flouring mills of Puget sound were injured financially by lack of a joint rate on wheat.

The foundation for an appeal to the United States court is especially noticeable in the documents filed by the railroad attorneys, it being alleged that the state commission law violates the United States constitution in numerous respects.

The answer filed by the Spokane & Inland electric railway differs materially from the one filed by the commission, a willingness on the part of the electric line to comply with the joint rate order if it is put in by the commission along the line of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, that is very valuable to mills for balancing other grades of wheat in the manufacture of a certain grade of flour.

All of the other companies, however, have laid broad foundations for an appeal to the courts from the expected joint rate. The only objection offered following the present hearing.

Says Sound Price is Higher. Moritz Thomson, on the witness stand, swore that the price of wheat is generally from 1 cent to 4 cents higher on Puget sound than in Portland. He said a particular grade of club wheat was grown in eastern Washington, and principally along the line of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, that is very valuable to mills for balancing other grades of wheat in the manufacture of a certain grade of flour.

The principal territory where this wheat is grown is not now accessible to the Puget sound millers because of the lack of a joint rate, that is the only way it will be delivered at Seattle or Tacoma is by the payment of the sum of the two local rates, namely, from the west to the O. R. & N., at which it is shipped to Spokane, and then the local rate from Spokane to Puget sound; that the payment of the sum of these two local rates makes it shipment to the sound prohibitory, and that therefore the Puget sound millers are injured to this extent on account of the absence of a joint rate.

Sharp Cross-Examination. Thomson was led through a long cross-examination by Attorney Snow for the O. R. & N., the attorney being prompted in his questioning by R. H. Miller, traffic manager of the railroad at Portland. The attorney sought to show that the price of wheat was higher in Portland than on the sound and that it was higher in Seattle or Tacoma than in Portland; that the monopoly alleged for O. R. & N. territory in the production of a certain grade of club wheat was a myth; that the price of wheat was governed altogether by the Liverpool quotations instead of the Portland or Puget sound figures; that the establishment of a joint rate would open up a larger additional territory for the Portland millers than it would for the Puget sound millers, and therefore the latter would be injured by the increased competition, rather than benefited; and, lastly, it was attempted to be shown on the part of the Portland attorney that the recent removal of the differential against Portland wheat rates by the Shipowners association would make it impossible in the future for wheat to be given a higher quotation on Puget sound than in Portland.

Thomson Sticks to It. Thomson held tenaciously to the main assertions of his direct testimony, and related specific instances of his own experience wherein he claimed that his business had been injured in the past by the lack of a joint rate. He said the mills on Puget sound were ready to buy all the wheat that was offered at nearly all seasons of the year, but that they could not compete with the Portland mills, when the latter were nearly always able to buy wheat at from 1 cent to 4 cents a bushel cheaper.

C. D. Francis, a grain buyer of Spokane, followed Mr. Thomson and gave testimony along the same lines. He said he had sold wheat for several years and he had found the Puget sound market better than the Portland market.

NEW INSTRUMENTS BEING INSTALLED

Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company Replacing Old Affairs With New Ones Daily.

Work of installing the new telephone instruments with which subscribers to the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph company are to be provided has commenced, and the old instruments are being replaced by the new ones at the rate of about 20 a day.

The new wall telephone for residences is quite different from the ones now in use, being more compact and about one third the size of the old ones. Where wall telephones are desired for offices the new model, which gives a place on which to write, is being installed.

The work has been commenced on the west side of the river, as the new instruments can be used only with the new common battery board recently installed at the Alder and West Park street exchange. In the new instruments there are no batteries as at present, the batteries at the exchange being sufficient.

AT THE THEATRES

"The Fortune Teller." There are few comic operas that have been so universally successful as "The Fortune Teller," which is being sung this week at the Marquon by the San Francisco opera company. All the principals of the company appear to excellent advantage.

Last Week of Opera Company. Next week will be the last of the San Francisco opera company at the Marquon. The bill for the week is "When Comes Marching Home," which is sure to make one of the greatest hits of any of the company's productions. A magnificent spectacular production is being arranged.

Sunday at the Grand. While the lid is on tomorrow you not visit the Grand and see one of the best vaudeville shows of the year? There is a large assortment of comedy and melody and the headline act is unquestionably attractive, since it is an explanation of wireless telegraphy.

Last of "Confusion." Tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening will witness the last performances of the farce "Confusion," which has thousands laugh this week at the Star theatre. There are no dull moments in this comedy and the fun is at boiling point at all times.

Spectacular Concert at Oaks. Schlosny's band will give decidedly the most novel concert at the Oaks tonight that has ever been heard in this city. There will be a great battle pot-pourri, descriptive of one of the famous battles of the Franco-Prussian war. It is accompanied by a brilliant display of fireworks.

"Shall We Forgive Her?" Tonight the Lyric presents the Allen stock company in one of its greatest successes, "Shall We Forgive Her," and unquestionably one of the greatest dramas ever written. If you have not already seen the production you can go tonight. The last performances will be given tomorrow.

"Teazy Weazy." For the last time "Teazy Weazy" will be given tonight at the Baker by the Zinn musical comedy company. While there is yet time one should not miss this opportunity to have a good, filling laugh at "Teazy Weazy."

Last Time Tonight. A crowded house greeted Ollie Cooper and the Baker company in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the Empire theatre this afternoon, and judging from the applause, the performance was more than pleased. Last performance tonight.

ROAD HAS NO RIGHT THROUGH STREETS Pendleton, Or., June 22.—City Attorney John McCourt holds that the W. & C. R. has no legal right to run through Webb street, as at present, and it is possible the tracks will be moved should the council so desire. To attorney says that at the time the franchise was granted the city had no authority, and the president of the carrier, to grant a franchise for such a road through the streets of Pendleton.

GROWTH OF CHERRY ORCHARD BUSINESS

Salmon, Or., June 22.—Probably the largest cherry orchard in the Willamette valley is that owned by S. P. Kimball of this city, who is manager of the Salem Mutual Canning company. The orchard contains about 87 acres and is located a few miles from Salem on the Oak Grove road.

In Polk county Mr. Kimball recently purchased from E. Schindler 47 acres at $50 an acre, which he will add to the young orchard of 40 acres he set out a couple of years ago. The new tract he will plant with cherry trees. Fifty dollars an acre is considered very cheap for the land appears to be peculiarly adapted to the growing of excellent cherries.

Newberg Extends Water System. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Newberg, Or., June 22.—The city council has ordered 5,000 feet more of pipe to be laid for the extension of the new water system.
