

This Elevating Grader Tears Up Earth Very Fast

Wagon loaded by earth elevator moving off, and others in rear coming up to load. Time required to load wagon about one minute.

This elevating grader and wagon loader, the only machine of its kind in Multnomah county, is being operated by Joplin & Meeks, who have the contract for grading the streets at Roseburg. The machine is a combination of a huge steel plow, which can be adjusted to any angle, and a dirt elevator, and is guaranteed to handle 1,000 cubic yards of dirt in a work day of 10 hours, at from 3 cents per yard, while, by means of the wheel scraper and two-horse plow, it cost about 20 cents to move a yard of earth. From 10 to 12 horses are used in operating the grader, and two men are required in handling it—one as driver and one on the rear platform to operate the adjusting levers.

DARROW GOOD WITNESS FOR THE PROSECUTION

O'Neill Thinks Attorney for Defense Made Many Damaging Admissions.

ADMITS PETTIBONE SENT ORCHARD COIN

Registered Letter Asserted to Contain Masonic Emblem and Union Card—Orchard Did Live With Pettibone and Visited Haywood.

(By Hugh O'Neill, Special Commissioner for the Denver Post and Oregon Journal.)

Boise, Ida., June 25.—When Clarence Darrow had finished his address on behalf of William D. Haywood yesterday afternoon, he had proved himself, perhaps, the best witness for the prosecution who has yet lifted his voice in this court room. He had spent the morning in explaining the industrial conditions that had once prevailed in Colorado and Idaho. He dwelt at some length and with some vagueness upon the conspiracy of the Pinkerton association and the Mineowners' association to cause strikes, arouse riots, suggest the destruction of property and rip things loose generally. Then all that trouble was to be charged to the Western federation and the proof of its existence should become generally too unpopular to live.

Following that wholesale indictment Mr. Darrow, he had spent the afternoon in much the same spirit. He called him a liar. He called him a leper. He called him a shooting gambler. He called him a tool of the mineowners and the Pinkertons. He said that he was a man utterly beyond credence. He said he had generally every important statement Orchard had made. He promised to prove his denials by the evidence of honest men and truthful witnesses.

Admits Orchard's Story. And having done all that he reated over the recess from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock. Then he came into court again and launched himself once more upon Orchard and before 3:30 o'clock Clarence Darrow, speaking in the defense of William D. Haywood, had admitted specifically every material statement Orchard had made that was of real importance to the prosecution in the proof of its case. Surely enough he "explained" his admissions but those "explanations" very distinctly made bad worse.

"After the blowing up of the Independence depot," said Mr. Darrow, "Orchard went to Denver. He got well acquainted with Pettibone and then Denver, was full of Western federation fugitives. They had all changed their names."

"Orchard made himself acquainted at headquarters, too. He spent money. He told Pettibone that he wished to leave his money and some of his Masonic trinkets and things with him. He said that he, too, was a fugitive. That he would change his name. That when he wanted any of his money he would send for it. Pettibone had a safe. He put Orchard's money and trinkets in it for him. He went out and helped Orchard to buy a new name. Then Orchard and Neville and Neville's son

Only a short time ago a Portland merchant was indicted by the grand jury because he advertised a fake railroad track. Another man was called to account because he advertised fake soap. But, day in and day out, for the last six months or more, some Beef Trust markets have advertised fake meat. They have advertised fake meat, and at the same time they are selling over their counters—falsely on the public—cheap meats that they have bought at bargain prices anywhere and everywhere. Now is there is no one to call a halt!

ALL OREGON MAY GO DRY SUNDAY

District Attorney of Umatilla and Morrow Says Sentiment Is Growing.

That all of Oregon will be thirsty Sunday in the sweet by and bye is the opinion of George W. Phelps of Pendleton, district attorney for Umatilla and Morrow counties, who reached the Imperial hotel hot and dusty from his eastern Oregon home yesterday. Just in the middle of the weekly dry spell, Mr. Phelps came to the city to attend the session of the Oregon railroad commission which was to hear the O. R. & N. to why it would be inconvenient to give Pendleton a local train between that place and Portland.

Mr. Phelps being a district attorney with a large territory under his jurisdiction is naturally much interested in the venture undertaken by Mr. Manning. He has not quite figured out what started the crusade in Multnomah county, but thinks that irrespective of the cause the result will be the ultimate enforcement of the state law throughout the whole state. "In my opinion it is only a matter of time when the whole state will follow the lead set by Mr. Manning and call for the strict observance of the law," said Mr. Phelps. "The question has been agitated throughout the state for a long time, but the people as a general rule have made no definite and insistent demand and it has been a problem whether or not the majority would favor such a course. Sentiment seems to be changing, however, and it would not surprise me to see a renewal of the agitation which would result in the other judicial districts following the example of Multnomah county and of Portland."

"Pendleton now has a 'half lid,' all the saloons being closed at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning and opened at 1 p. m. the afternoon. From the reports I have heard, however, I believe that the time is not far distant when the Sunday law will be put in effect throughout the state."

GUESTS ENTERTAINED AT HOUSEWARMING

Dr. and Mrs. Coe Celebrated Event of Moving Into New Home by Receiving Friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe entertained 600 guests with a "housewarming" at their beautiful new home, Twenty-fifth and Lovejoy streets, last night. Music was furnished throughout the evening by Parsons' orchestra and refreshments were served in the dining-room.

Dr. and Mrs. Coe received the guests at the stairway in the main hall. Mrs. Coe, Mrs. Milton W. Smith, Mrs. Frank Warren and Mrs. E. L. Thompson, assisted by Miss Fay Nichols, Miss Helen Harmon and Miss Eliza Parker, presided in the dining-room. Punch was served on the veranda by Misses Tuttle, Ross and Collier.

All present enjoyed a delightful evening in the magnificent new home, which takes a place with the leading residences of Portland. It is three stories in height and in style is modified colonial. A broad veranda two stories high extends the full width of the house, while the interior is beautifully finished in various kinds of hardwoods.

George C. Coe, a son of Dr. and Mrs. Coe, arrived in Portland Sunday night from Pacific Grove, California, to attend last night's event. He left on a late train last night to resume his histological research work in California. Five different camps will be occupied by Oregon's National Guard this year when the soldier boys leave for their annual summer encampment. Five companies will go to Fort Stevens, three to Fort Columbia, part of the Third Infantry will go to Seaside, the artillery goes into camp on the coast and the rest will have an outing near Roseburg.

Members of the guard will soon engage in their annual small arms target competition. A silver trophy for team work and a number of individual medals will be awarded to the most successful marksmen. Practice will begin July 23 and the rifle range at Salem will be used.

A HAPPY MOTHER will see her baby is properly cared for—to do this a good purgative is necessary. Many babies suffer from worms and their mothers don't know it—if your baby is feverish and doesn't sleep at night, it is troubled with worms. White's Cream Vermifuge will clean out these worms in a mild, pleasant way. Once tried always used. Give it a trial. Price 25 cents. Sold by all druggists.

A PRIZE OF $100 CASH FOR THE BEST BUSINESS PHRASE SUBMITTED ACCORDING TO OUR CONDITIONS

Beecham, the famous English pill maker, grew rich from persisting in the use of one phrase, "Worth a guinea a box." An old lady gave him the phrase. She came up to him as he stood on the street corner selling his pills and told him they had done her so much good they were "WORTH A GUINEA A BOX." After that he printed the phrase on every box of pills, and grew rich.

Epps, the equally famous cocoa man, was made rich by the persistent use of two ordinary words, "GRATEFUL, COMFORTING." Thirty years ago he adopted these words and never varied from them. At that time he was getting along slowly, but these two HOMELY, RESTFUL words made his fortune.

Can't you suggest as attractive a combination of words as either of these, to be applied to a large merchandising business? You can if you try. Many a man is a natural born ad man, but he hasn't found it out; many a woman has a head full of good money-making ideas, but she never had the chance to use them. Many a youth has started on a splendid career from the suggestion given by such a contest as this. The winner of a prize of this nature wins more than the mere cash prize; he wins a place as a bright thinker, and a chance to follow up his first advertising success.
