Prosecutor Writes Attorney Bristol He Will Be in Portland to Take Up the Land Fraud Cases Early in July

In a letter to United States Attorney William C. Bristol today, Francis J. Heney announced his intention of coming to Oregon to prosecute land fraud defendants as soon as the situation at San Francisco permits. This is expected to be about the middle of July, although it is believed by many persons that Mr. Heney will be in Portland on Monday following July 4.

After the acquittal of Blinger Hermann in Washington last spring, Mr. Heney announced his desire to come to Portland to prosecute the former commissioner of the land office, who is indicted in several land fraud cases but who will be tried for his part in the Blue Mountain conspiracy case in which Senator Pierre M. Broussard and William N. Jones were convicted last summer.

Mr. Heney did not refer in his letter to what part he would play in the case of Louis B. Glass, the telephone man, whose trial for bribery comes up this week in San Francisco. It is popularly believed that Mr. Heney will take over to Hiram Johnson to prosecute, although no such information has been given out publicly by Mr. Heney. He should do this it would give him an opportunity to make his arrival in Portland earlier.

In addition to prosecuting the case against Hermann, Mr. Heney will also prosecute R. A. Booth and former United States Attorney John A. Hall. None of these cases will be tried before July because of the lack of government funds. The new appropriation becomes effective July 1 and will be apportioned by the middle of the month.

United States Attorney Bristol Did Good Work for Portland While Attending the Land Convention Held at Denver.

United States Attorney William C. Bristol returned from Denver last night after attending the national land convention, and told today of the fight which had been waged to save the Bull Run reservation from being thrown open, thus saving the rights of the city to the use of the famous Bull Run water.

The convention was called by interests hostile to the government's public land policy, who intended to pass resolutions purporting to express the sentiment of the western states condemning the government's policies. Before the convention adjourned resolutions were passed to the contrary, and upheld the administration in nearly every detail. Mr. Bristol was a member of the committee on resolutions and it was at its meetings that the warmest fights took place. Before the convention adjourned Mr. Bristol had been given the credit of having secured the passage of the resolution which would have given the Bull Run reservation to the city.

Mr. Bristol was a member of the committee on resolutions and it was at its meetings that the warmest fights took place. Before the convention adjourned Mr. Bristol had been given the credit of having secured the passage of the resolution which would have given the Bull Run reservation to the city. In speaking of his trip to Denver, Mr. Bristol said:

Out of 1,000 delegates to the convention, Colorado had 177 and Wyoming 147. This gave them a strong advantage over the other states, but by the time the delegates were passed by the national committee, which was held at R. Wood of Portland was secretary, resolutions had been passed distributing the votes by states instead of by individuals. The meeting was marked by the strongest kind of spirit and at one time a faction threatened to adjourn the convention and to call a new one. Cooler heads prevailed and the meeting came to a satisfactory conclusion.

Logging Camp Engineer of Experience Says Loggers Squeeze Employes.

An engineer who for the past 23 years has been employed in the logging camps of the northwest, takes exception with the loggers in their statement that it is necessary to cut the wages of the men and raise the price of lumber boards in order to make the wage scale more equitable with present conditions. "The loggers are simply trying to squeeze their employes a little more than they have been doing," said the engineer this morning. "They have been compelling the men to pay from $4 to $5 a month for board and fuel, and to combine in anything but sanitary surroundings. Now according to their announcement they plan to cut the wages at least 10 per cent and at the same time raise the price of board to $4.50 and $5 a week.

"In my opinion, and that of every man who works in the woods, this is an outrage. In the old days the loggers used to pay as high wages, practically, as the market. They were forced to live on an average of about $6 a thousand for their logs. They hauled the logs out of the woods in oxen and were compelled to care for the oxen, and to pay for eight weeks of oxen and pay a driver from $150 to $200 a month to take care of the oxen.

"At the present time the loggers are receiving $11 and $12 a thousand for their logs, and one engine is doing the work of many. The loggers get their fuel from the woods and pay the munificent salary of $3 and $3.50 a day, with all lost time taken out. "This illustration shows just what the conditions are in the logging camps. The loggers are making more money than they ever did, and yet all the time are trying to add to their surplus out of the margin they are able to clip from the wages of their employes."

GOVERNOR PARDONS JOHN M'MAHON

Salem, June 26.—John M'Mahon of Grant county, who was serving a life sentence in the Oregon penitentiary, was pardoned today by Governor Chamberlain. In his order for the pardon the governor says that petitions had been presented to the board for executive leniency in behalf of M'Mahon, and that a number of the jurors who tried the prisoner had joined. He says further: "M'Mahon, although sentenced for life and having served only a little more than ten years of what under the statute is a life sentence, suffered punishment in the penitentiary which was in many respects more than unusual and severe, having for two years been confined in a dungeon, or dark cell, manacled a part of the time, and in addition thereto was severely flogged and at least once on one occasion beaten into insensibility.

The governor gives among the reasons for the pardon, "because of promises and recourses of various kinds, circumstances connected with the killing charged against defendant, and because of his good conduct as a prisoner during the past four years, he must be in his determination to restore himself to useful citizenship."

City License Department Enters Complaint Against Greek Restaurant Keepers—Allege Violations of the Liquor Act.

Greek restaurants that "sell liquor with meals only," where you can buy a 10-cent sandwich or a small cup of coffee and drink your fill of beer, will be compelled to quit business or be classed as saloons if the complaint of the city license department is heeded by the council license committee, which meets next Monday. Furthermore, it is very likely that after July 1, when the high license goes into effect, an ordinance will be passed by the council prohibiting restaurants from selling liquor with meals after 1 o'clock in the morning, the same hours that saloons must observe.

Two Greek restaurants were investigated by license officials this week, and the committee will be asked to recommend the revocation of the licenses in the restaurant operated by John Poulos at 33 North Fourth street, 125 forgers were found by the officials counting around, playing pool and other games and smoking opium. Three waiters served the crowd, but the officials say not half a dozen dishes were in sight at the time.

The same conditions prevailed at 23 North Sixth street in the restaurant conducted by Peter Mitchell, a Greek with an Anglied name. Evidently the business is proving extremely popular, for this morning John Marandis & Co. filed an application for a license to open a restaurant and "sell liquor with meals only" at 49 North Fourth street. Marandis' place will be fully investigated before a license is given, the officials state. Restaurants have been granted permission to sell liquor with meals for the convenience of patrons and the present license is $50 per quarter. After July 1 saloons, under the amendment to the city charter enacted at the last election, will be compelled to pay $200 per quarter. Restaurants can remain open all night, but saloons must close at 1 o'clock, and this is the reason, officials say, that causes the Greeks to open restaurants instead of saloons. It is said a number of other restaurants will also be investigated for alleged violations of the ordinance.

Telegraph Companies to Be Investigated by Federal Authorities With View of Commencing Prosecution Under Sherman Act.

Boise, Idaho, June 26.—The Western Union has notified the public that all messages are taken only subject to indefinite delay. San Francisco, June 26.—There is grave danger that the telegraphers' strike will extend to the Southern Pacific operators. President Sam Small, of the Telegraphers' union, said last night: "The Southern Pacific officials have discharged several operators at outside points in complaint from Chief Operator Jeffs of the Western Union West Oakland office, that they have interfered with the working of Western Union wires. The Commercial Telegraphers' union of America and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers of America have a working agreement. Should discrimination against railroad operators on complaint of the Western Union continue, there is grave danger of the Southern Pacific operators becoming involved."

It is claimed that these men were discharged without a hearing. The Western Union officials declare that the railroad has a definite contract with the railroad operators which renders a strike practically impossible. Although both Postal and Western Union companies declare that conditions are improving, it is declared by the operators here that the companies are being flooded with business and that they are not in a position to handle the extra work. Western Union declares that it is never more than half an hour behind with business and that government dispatches are being handled without delay.

Reports from Chicago say that more than 2,000 messages are piled up at that end of the Oakland wire and the number is rapidly increasing. The operators also make capital of the fact that the companies are advising their patrons to use the telephone wires whenever possible, although the companies declare that this is because they fear outside interference with the lines.
