

EVERY COUNTY IS REPRESENTED

Race for Journal's Scholarship Is Now on in Earnest Throughout the State.

PROMINENT EDUCATORS DEEPLY INTERESTED

New Candidates Being Nominated Daily and All Will Have to Hustle as Competition Will Be Strong on Every Hand.

The race for The Journal's scholarship is on in earnest. Every county in Oregon has entered at least one candidate, and some more than one, to gather subscriptions to The Journal.

Everyone takes at least one daily or weekly newspaper, and it pleases people to help a young person secure an education while giving their money for the newspaper of their choice, since it costs no more to confer the favor.

It is not the custom of The Oregon Journal to employ an army of Hesperian newspaper solicitors to extend its circulation by offering cheap novelties as premiums. But once a year The Journal goes over its hill—the state of Oregon—with the assistance of and represented by ambitious boys and girls, young men and young women, inviting people to become patrons of the paper.

Instead of giving out its appropriation for extending circulation to itinerant men, who may do other and heavier labor for society, The Journal gives this money to young people, who will use it to educate and better themselves.

The schools are directly and indirectly benefited. The action of the contest causes people to think about the schools at the very time of year when they should decide where to send their children.

Dr. J. W. Hill of the Hill Military academy said yesterday: "The scholarship page in The Sunday Journal was one of the finest tributes to education which has appeared on the Pacific coast. The Journal is doing a great work for boys and girls as well as for the schools."

William Rasmus, head of the Western Academy of Music, Elocution and Dramatic Art, remarked yesterday to the contest manager: "Already I am beginning to hear of prospective students through the publicity which is given my school in The Journal's educational contest. The Journal's enterprise puts the schools before the public in the full light of their importance to the community."

Dr. Fenrose will write: "I am beginning to hear of prospective students through the publicity which is given my school in The Journal's educational contest. The Journal's enterprise puts the schools before the public in the full light of their importance to the community."

Stephan L. Fenrose, president of Whitman college, Walla Walla, one of the best-known and most highly esteemed of western colleges, promises an open letter to The Journal, contestants along the lines of self-education. Dr. Fenrose is much in demand as a speaker and writer and is doing a great work for the cause of education in the Inland Empire.

F. K. Jones, acting president of Pacific college at Newberg, appreciates the opportunity offered by The Journal contest. He has placed in nomination and for competition Miss Edith Hodson of Newberg. Miss Hodson will compete for the scholarship in Pacific college.

Know One Another. The contest manager is making the acquaintance of some of the contestants. It will be his aim and it will be the purpose of the circulation manager of The Journal to know every contestant. Those who cannot be seen personally should correspond with both the contest manager and the circulation manager, either both of whom will assist and advise in work of the contestants. Helps will be given impartially, as between the contestants, time and attention being bestowed in the order in which the young people write or apply.

Generous Miss Brunn. Miss Marie Brunn, 325 Chapman street, Portland, was nominated yesterday by John B. Goddard, manager of the National Capital association.

Miss Brunn has a good common school and commercial education. Now she aspires to a higher education and has entered The Journal contest as an honorable and distinguished means of obtaining this.

Mr. Goddard says that Miss Brunn is one of a family of eight children. She is a member of the First Christian church. She knows many influential people in that denomination from whom she expects to obtain subscriptions. Her education so far has been obtained through her own efforts and there is no limit to her ambition and determination.

Another Ambitious Jones. A letter with the right ring to it comes from Miss A. Jones, employed at Olds, Wortman & King's department store. Last year The Journal had a successful contest at the numerous house of Jones but last year's Jones was a boy. This year's Jones is a girl and she means to have the course in music at the Pacific university, Forest Grove.

People from the store of Olds, Wortman & King have figured in several contests and they have generally been successful. There is a fine loyalty among the army of employees there for one of their own, so Miss Jones has good prospects for united support. The letter follows:

"Portland, Or. June 25.—Contest Manager, The Journal—Dear Sir: I was nominated to enter in your educational contest, and am going to work for a 10-months' course of instruction in music at the Pacific university, Forest Grove. Trusting I may be one of the winners, and wishing your paper all success, I remain, yours respectfully,

"MINA A. JONES, "Olds, Wortman & King Store."

William Russell, 324 Dupont street, Portland, will be assisted in gathering contest votes by Miss Verna Gradon of Burns, Oregon. Miss Gradon will take subscriptions for The Journal and have the votes credited to Russell.

OXFORD HOLDING GREAT PAGEANT

Memorable Events in History to Be Reproduced in Tableaux.

BEERBOHM TREE WILL BE GENERAL DIRECTOR

Sir Hubert Parry Will Have Charge of the Musical Features of the Program, Which Is to Cover Six Days.

(Special Service.) London, June 27.—During the six days beginning today the historic city of Oxford will be the scene of a commemorative pageant that in many respects will be the most notable affair of its kind ever given in England.

The city and University of Oxford are rich in historical associations. During the week a number of the most memorable events in their history are to be reproduced in a series of magnificent tableaux. Two thousand persons are to take part in these tableaux.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are the patrons of the affair, and the professors and fellows of the university and the several colleges have supervised the preparations.

Beerbohm Tree is directing the dramatic features of the pageant, which will include historical episodes put into form by some of the leading dramatists of England. The music, which will follow the historical development of that art with great fidelity, will be under the direction of Sir Hubert Parry, professor of music at Oxford.

The first scene to be presented will be the foundation of the city of Oxford in the year 725, according to the legend of St. Frideswide. The next scene occurred in 1002, when, in consequence of the plots against himself and his nobles, King Ethelred issued an edict that on St. Frideswide's day all the Danes throughout the kingdom should be massacred. The representatives of that race in Oxford sought sanctuary in a church built by St. Frideswide, but the infuriated citizens burned it down and slew them all.

Other scenes will represent the coronation of Harold Godwinson, the funeral of Amy Robsart, an Elizabethan procession, the visit of James I. to Oxford in 1605, and the expulsion of fellows of Magdalen by James II in 1687.

CHEHALIS WEDDING BIG SOCIAL EVENT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chehalis, Wash., June 27.—One of the prettiest social events of the season was the marriage of C. A. Fraser, a well-known young business man of South Bend, and Miss Mins Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rice, who are owners of the Hotel Washington of this city.

The wedding occurred at the Presbyterian church last night, a large gathering of friends being present. Rev. D. A. MacKenzie officiated. Following the service at the church a reception was held at the Washington. Miss Lydia Crawford of Portland was maid of honor and Joe Baum of Portland best man at the wedding.

Outing Suits

ALL the innovations that mark an Outing Suit as of the present season's fashioning are embodied in the series that have come to us from the tailor shops of Alfred Benjamin & Co.

The fabrics are diversified, including Tropical Worsteds, Flannels, Cassimeres, English Plaid Effects and Homespun Gray Checks and the popular Browns.

The pockets are of the patch or Bellows type, there is a permanent "turn up" to the trousers.

Belt loops are provided, and as the trousers are made to fit snug to the waist there are no unsightly buckles or straps.

The coats are quarter-lined, either with silk or mohair.

The prices range from $15.00 to $30.00.

Hot Weather Necessity

A good durable fine-looking gas range is a much greater necessity than a cheap pretentious affair. We made a most thorough examination before selecting, believing that a good range is desirable, but an untrustworthy range will fail to give satisfaction. We cannot afford to offer the public anything but the best possible gas appliances. They are cheapest in the long run.
