Alumna Drifts Into Port When Out a Month From San Pedro.

WILL LOAD LUMBER FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Tedious Voyage From California Port Makes Cleaning Necessary and Vessel Will Enter Drydock-To Load at Knappton Mills.

For 30 long days the four-masted schooner Alumna worked her way toward the Columbia river when coming north from San Pedro and so slowly did she proceed against the light headwinds that the sea weeds gained such a strong hold on the hull that Captain lifted on the drydock Saturday morning and cleaned and painted.

Captain Simmey came up from Knappton this morning to arrange for having the vessel towed here and docked. He is anxious to have it done docked. He is anxious to have it done now because the schooner is under charter to the Simpson Lumber company to carry a cargo of lumber from the mills at Knappton to Valparaiso.

"I never saw*such fine weather," said Captain Simmey, "and it continued for 30 days from the time we left San Pedro till we crossed in over the Columbia river bar. Almost a perfect caim prevailed off the bar and the sea was perfectly smooth. We never had a sail down nor did we have a free sheet. caim prevailed off the bar and the sea was perfectly smooth. We never had a sail down nor did we have a free sheet since we began the voyage. But the sea weed prospered and we will have to enter the drydock for an overhauling."

The Alumna has been engaged in the coastwise trade but was thrown into the foreign market when the San Francisco slump came. She carries nearly 1,000,000 feet.

THREE COASTERS IN PORT

Whales Played Hide-and-Go-Seek Around Alliance.

With a light freight but her passen-ger list full, the steamer Alliance arrived here this morning from Coos Bay, having made the round trip in less than a week. The gain will be utilized by sending the steamer out tomorrow night instead of Thursday as scheduled sending the steamer out tomorrow night instead of Thursday as scheduled. Wednesday is the regular sailing day for the Alliance, but she lost a day in handling some heavy freight a few weeks ago and has gradually been try-ing to catch up.

Captain Olsen says the trip was most

Captain Olsen says the trip was most pleasant, fine weather prevailing all the time. The whales off the coast are as numerous as ever and three of them played hide-and-go-seek this time about the steamer's bow. It was nearly dusk when the monster leviathans put in their appearance, so few of the passengers received the benefit of the novel sight. Those fortunate enough to be on deck said it was a spectacle worth traveling many miles to behold. At times the whales churned the water into a veriable sea of foam and then they would whales churned the water into a verttable sea of foam and then they would quietly steal away only to appear at another point half a mile or more over the bow. There they would wait till the Alliance come close again.

Purser Short has resigned to return to his home in San Francisco. His place will be taken by E. E. Skinner, who formerly held the position. Both Mr. Short and his successor are popular among the shippers along the coast.

PLUNGED TO HIS DEATH

Intoxicated Passenger Supposed to Have Drowned in River.

A passenger is supposed to have walked off the steamer Charles R. Spen-cer yesterday morning and drowned in the Columbia river while the steamer was off Vancouver and bound up the river. Boats were put out at the cry of "Man overboard!" but not a sign of any one appeared on the surface, so the steamer's agent here stated this

The person who gave the alarm said the man was intoxicated and that he came walking out on the lower deck in a came walking out on the lower deck in a sort of stupor. He was evidently confused and did not see where he was going. About a year ago another man, under the influence of liquor, walked from the Spencer as she was approaching her Portland berth.

John Ibert and A. Martin, waiters at House's restaurant, and a man answering to the name of "Tony" were rescued from drowning yesterday by sailors from the cruiser Charleston. The ors from the cruiser Charleston. The trio were rowing on the river for pleas-ure. The swells from a passing steamer capsized the boat and the men were thrown into the water. Their cries at-tracted the attention of men on the warship and a boat was dispatched to their assistance

After Long Illness.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Aberdeen, July 2.—Captain C. E. Burrows, who died Saturday, after a lingering illness, was buried yesterday afternoon. Captain Burrows was an old resident of this place, and was highly esteemed and respected by all who knew him. During the early part of his residence here, he operated passenger and freight steamers on the harbor; but just before his last illness, he secured control of the C. E. Burrows & Co.'s mill on the south side. He leaves a wife and two sons here, and two daughters by a former marriage.

Steam Schooner Johan Poulsen Is Taken for One Trip.

The coastwise lumber shipments are falling off and that there is little demand for bottoms to carry building ma-terial to California at present was illustrated this morning when the steam schooner John Poulsen was chartered by the W. T. Carroll to carry a cargo of wheat from this port to Port Costa. The Johan Poulsen is owned by the Inman-Poulsen Lumber company of this city and she would hardly be diverted from the lumber trade unless there is very little doing in that line, since the owners are their own shippers. The labor troubles in the Bay City are mainly responsible for the demoralized condition of the lumber market there.

This will be the first wheat cargo ever carried by the Johan Poulsen. She will carry about 860 tons in the hold, with lumber for the deckload. The vessel leaves Linnton this evening for San Francisco with a cargo of lumber and is to return here in 10 days for the grain cargo, the grain cargo,
