Gresham is to have an independent celebration on the Fourth which will be full of inetrest. Included in the program is a procession headed by the fife and drum corps of the G. A. R. and nice and drum corps of the G. A. R. and having as a feature a liberty car with a Goddess of Liberty and 48 young ladies. Literary exercises will be held with a rousing chorus made up of singers from Troutdale, Fairview, Gressham and Pleasant Home. There will be an address by the mayor, J. H. Short; reading of the Declaration of Independence by Miss Mand Clevaland; solo reading of the Deciaration of Inde-pendence, by Miss Maud Cleveland; solo, by James Preston, and an oration by Waldemar Seton. A baseball game will be played between Shattuck's Blues and the West Ends of Portland. There will be horse races, tug of war and other features, closing with a grand ball.

Charles Warren Fairbanks, self-confessed aspirant for the presidency of these United States, can have the pleasure of spending that amount and eating dinner with the distinguished vicepresident at Seaside July 17. The As-toria chamber of commerce in arrang-ing for the entertainment of the guest of honer found that, owing to limited accommodations at Seaside, it would be necessary to limit the number of guests at the dinner. Accordingly the Commercial club was allowed 20 representatives. The list is now open and any 20 members of the organization can attend the dinner by the payment of the necessary $10.

Any time that A. L. Craig, general passenger agent of the Great Northern and formerly holding a similar position with the Harriman lines in Portland, wishes to come to Portland he can have the whole Commercial club building at his disposal. This action was taken by the board of governors at a meeting held yesterday afternoon when a letter held yesterday afternoon when a letter was sent to Mr. Craig thanking him for the work he has done for Portland by distributing Portland and Oregon advertising matter throughout the lines under his direction. Mr. Crang was formerly one of the most active members of the Portland organization and the control of the process. carried his activity and interest him, even when moving to an-

A request has been made of all the publications along the line of the excursion for copies of the papers containing the notices and comments desired.

Carlton, Oregon, will have a grand celebration on July 4. There will be a log rolling contest, sports of all kinds, horse racing and automobiling races, a balloon ascension, etc. In the evening there will be dancing and a grand display of fireworks. Carlton is now enjoying a good boom owing to the completion of the Carlton Lumber company's sawmill, one of the largest on the coast. Train leaves Portland at 7 a. m., returning late in the evening.

When the trial of Henry Agre on the charge of failing to support his wife, Laura Agre, was called by Judge Webster in the county court this morning, it was discovered that Mrs. Agre had failed to appear to give testimony against her husband, and the trial was postponed until Friday. Mrs. Agre lodged a complaint against her husband last week, alleging that he had falled to provide for her and their three children was a superior of the superior of dren, Ellis, aged 5 years; Truman, aged 3 years, and Leon, aged 7 months.

PERSONAL

C. J. Millis, general manager of the Coos bay properties of the Harriman system, will leave for his new post of system, will leave for his new post of duty on Monday next, making the trip to Marshfield on the initial run of the Breakwater. The steamship will reach Portland Thursday from San Francisco and will leave for her new schedule on Monday. A regular trip will be thereafter made each week. Mr. Millis will reside in Marshfield permanently, though his family will not leave Portland for several months as yet.

Water Board Funds Will Not Permit Outlined Policy Owing to Reductions.

Only such extensions as are absolutely necessary will be made by the water board this year, the fact developing at a special meeting yesterday that the funds appropriated were not sufficient to carry on the improvements outlined the first of the year. Reducoutlined the first of the year. Reduction of water rentals is responsible to a degree for curtailment of proposed extensions recommended by the board.

R. B. Lamson, a member of the board, advocates transferring about $20,000 from the hydrant fund to be devoted to laying mains in various portions of the city and the board will take the matter up at the next meeting.

Construction fo the Portland Heights reservoir and pumping station at a cost of about $11,000 will probably be deferred until next summer, regardless of the fact that the material has already been ordered and will soon be delivered. The board members present at the meeting yesterday feel that the money which would go into the Portland Heights improvement might better be applied to extending the mains elsewhere. If this policy is adopted the pipe and pump will be stored until next summer.

The Portland Y. M. C. A., represented by Secretary H. W. Stone, yesterday asked for a reduction of its water rate upon the completion of its new home. He argued that other municipalities gave reduced rates to Christian societies, pointing out a number of instances where no charges were made. He stated that if the present prices were charged the association the water rent would be that if the present prices were charged the association the water rent would be prohibitive in the new structure, and as a matter of relief the Y. M. C. A. would be compelled to sink an artesian well. Action will be taken on the request at the next meeting.

NEAT PIN ADOPTED BY ENDEAVORERS

After Careful Deliberation Oregon Delegates to International Convention Secure Emblem.

After much deliberation and careful onsideration, the state executive committee of the Christian Endeavor soclety adopted a design for a state badge. It is made of solid silver, gray finish, and is a very neat design of Mount Hood in basrelief upon a shield, with the "C. E." monogram pendent. with the "C. E." monogram pendent. It is prepared at this particular time in order that delegates to the international convention at Seattle next week may have the badge then. It is a very neat pin suitable for any occasion.

The following Oregon state song, written by Robert Whitaker, will be in the name of Jesus, our Savior King, Happy words of greeting and love bring, While we gladly gather to speak and sing

In the praise of our King today.

Oregon! Oregon! Greets you now in Jesus' name,

Showers of blessings we pray on you all Who the praise of our King proclaim.

In the name of Jesus we'll work and We will labor early and labor late,
Till from end to end of our noble state
He is King whom we sing today.

IMPROVEMENTS Latest News of the Cash Prize Contest

EVERY MAIL LOADED

From every city and town in the northwest the letters are pouring in! A large office force is constantly busy opening, sorting and ranking business phrases submitted. Almost all have the firm name correct, and the contest becomes one of merit as to business phrases. A list of the best ones constantly grows longer from additions made with each delivery. Prizes will be awarded tonight-watch tomorrow's papers for further

These letters furnish a splendid illustration of the oft-re peated declaration regarding the versatility of our people. Possibly not one out of each thousand contestants ever wrote an ad in his life, and yet the great volume of the work measures up to a splendid average in originality and terseness. We are proud of the advertising brains of the northwest, and we shall in future write our ads in fear and trembling, knowing that a clever, thoughtful audience is ever before us.

'You've Tried the Rest. Now Try the Best.' A promipent Portland firm that does very clever advertising submitted this. It is certainly strong and catchy. How does it 'Skookum'

Is submitted being the Indian name for everything good; it is expressive and terse, but would have to be explained to the hordes of easterners filling up the northwest. 'Read and Be Frenchy'

Is a clever play on the firm name; a number of other apt variations in the way of punning were called forth. We appreciate their wit, but from a business standpoint they are not exactly "Your Playmate."

We Play to Win." A catchy phrase, but too suggestive of the green cloth, perhaps. 'We Make Money by Giving You Your Money's Worth."

Another semi-pun phrase that has its good points.

This is the right idea, but it is rather long for repeated use. 'None Undersell-None Excel."

'Everybody Plays But Father." This man evidently has it in for his dad; perhaps they have a player piano at home, and "dad" hasn't gotten around to conquering it yet. The letter's from the county jail.

This is terse, to the point, and for an alliterative style, pleases.

"Peaches for Dinner."

Hard to see the connection there till you're told that "Reed-French Pianos" transposed spell those enticing words. This may seem to you far- fetched, but it's no more wonderful a transformation than that made in homes into which our pianos go.

"Anti-Divorce Piano Company."

The writer of this phrase is evidently an observer. He's noticed the harmony in homes that possess good pianos, and he connects the causes. That's all right. If anything will prevent divorce and promote the soothing atmosphere conducive to peace, surely one of our splendid pianos will do so.

"Do U Need a Pi-ano?"

A little 10-year-old girl suggests this phrase, as being the pronounciation common to old-fashioned country folks, and therefore too well known and apt to attract attention. She explains very reasonably that her slogan is "better than Uneeda biscuit, because it isn't a biscuit at all, but a cracker wants a piano, and bless her little heart, we'll help her get one.

"What will cheer the young or old? What will cheer the sick or well?

What is better far than gold? Reed-French Pianos: that wiil tell." An 11-year-old girl writes this little verse as her offering. It is certainly well done.

"Reed-French Piano Co. Credit to the People. Credit to the Pianos-That's All." This brings to mind almost too vividly the brand of whiskey made famous by the latter part of it.

While You Play, Pay."

Very good; terse; tells something.

'We Always Tote Fair." The letter accompanying this phrase set the office force to laughing till the head had to call order. Wish we could pub-

'The Joy Bringers." Pretty, suggestive and appropriate.

"The House That Truth Built."

A very expressive phrase, suggested no doubt by the children's play now on in the city.

"A Living Is Ours, the Profit Yours." Don't you like that pretty well?

"In to Win."

Crisp and breezy.

"There Was Room at the Top and We Got There." Some way, there's a lot of vigor to that phrase. We like it.

There's Harmony in the Case." Very applicable to pianos-also the home containing a Reed-

French Piano. The Store That Makes Things Hum!"

The writer of this evidently knows us pretty well,

'We're Both Upright and Square." Another good pun on piano house words. A number turned to this phase of the subject.

'Wide-awake for Your Sake." Lots of life and vim to that.

lessons, some way or other.

"Do You Reed-French Piano Co.'s Ads?" Just think! A little 11-year-old girl wrote that, and spent a great deal of time on it because she wants to get the $100 prize so she can take violin lessons. Bless her, she's got to have violin

'Makers of Music Makers" Is a very attractive phrase, that expresses a great deal.

'Home Builders in Mother's Wake." The writer of this evidently knows that music in a home is next

We'd like to invite you all in to read the many interesting letters and catchy phrases, each one reflecting thought and appreciation of what is best, but we couldn't very well, so we've let you dip in at random and get an idea of the way the contest is going. We thank you for your interest.
