Moyer and Haywood, before tonght a adjournment. The state today sent out notices to witnesses who will be called next week in rebuttal. According to Senator Borah, not more than a week or 10 days will be required to put in the rebuttal evidence. The first witness today was Francis Clifford, a life insurance man. He knew Pettbone in Denver, and had a deak room in his store. He swore there was only one room in the store, with a basement underneath. The latter was used as a storeroom and workshop. He was in the basement dally during his entire residence there. He said he never asy any evidence of the manufacture of bomos or anything like that there. He met Orchard as Hogan in the store four or five times. Orchard told him he was writing hall insurance and mak-ing lots of money. As evidence he pre-sented a check to Pettibone which was too large for him to cash. Pettibone gave him some money and retained the check. Some time later Orchard told him he was going to the worthwest and later to Alaska. He went away and never saw him again. saw him again.

Detective Counselled Violence.

Detective Counselled Violence. J. C. Barnes, prospector, of Montrose, Colorado, knew George W. Riddell, a Pinkerton operative, in Telluride and Silverton while he worked as a millman. Riddell, he swore, on numerous occa-sions counselled violence. Once he want-ed him to blow up the Smuggler Union or Tom Boy mine; and another time wanted the pipeline blown up and the town burned. Still another time he wanted the deportees with rifles and dynamite to go back and drive the mi-litia out of town and take over the mines.

mines. John Dennis of Goldfield knew Detec-tive Beckman of the Pinkertons as a member of the union and said he ad-vocated violence on numerous occasions. George Breen, a Colorado railroad man, was recalled and testified that the militia and deputies drove the min-ers out of Camp Dunnville, Colorado, and that one man was killed on June 5, 1964. Tells of Train Wrecking. Yesterday afternoon Thomas C. Fos-ter of Biabee, Arizona, a bartender and formerly a miner at Cripple Creek, who was arrested by troops in October, 1903, while attending a union meeting, was called. Eight men were taken and held 18 days, but no charge made against them. Then the officer in oharge told him that he and Patrick Mullaney might go kome. In November lie heard he was wanted for train wrecking and gave him-self up to the civil autnorities. While in jall he was interviewed one night by Detectives Scott and Sterling. He was taken from the prison to the office of the district attorney, where the detectives were summoned. They tried the third degree to get a confession from him but falled. He was finally taken back and held in solitary confinement for 17 days, then finally tried and ac-quitted. Foster was later run out of the district and has been unable to get a job at mining since, as he has been plackisted. Authorities Changed Date.

Authorities Changed Date.

Foster was asked if Easterly had taken him home the night of the train wrecking cases but he was intoxicated and he did not know. He said he was drunk on the hill on the night originally named as the one the wreck took place but swore the authorities changed he date when they found he could prove this fact.

this fact. this fact. Eugene Engley, attorney-general of Colorado under Governor Waite, who was twice deported from the district, was the star witness of the day. He swore positively that Orchard told him in his orfice that he was robbed of a fortune by Governor Eteunenberg and would kill him for it if it was the last act of his life.

Mrs. Margaret Houghton, whose hus-band was manager of the union store at Ansconda, told about the looting of the store and said everything was stolen or smashed, the safe drilled and its contents stolen. She was twice ar-rested while giving out relief. She was warned to stop giving relief to the miners or she would be deported, but defied the committee and was permitted to stay.

Anna Saunders who ran a rooming-house at Cripple Creek said she was warned to join the Citizens' alliance and when she refused was warned to leave the district. Mr. Wills has had personal experience and has heard of the experience of friends in treating with the plumbing trust in Portland, and is therefore earnest in his efforts to place some regulation on the practices of the combination. He relates the experience of a neighber and friend who wished to put a new bathtub in his residence. He wrote to Chicago retailers and found that with the price asked in that city plus the freight on a single shipment added to the sum asked for putting the tub in place by an out-of-town plumber he could install the tub for $$6. Attorney Says No More Effort Will Be Made to Evade the Law.

No further effort to pry off the Sunday closing lid in Multnomah county will be made by the saloonkeepers, according to the statement made by their attorney, C. E. S. Wood, in the circuit court this morning to Judge Sears when those who had been arrested were brought up for ples and sentence. On behalf of six saloonmen Attorney Wood entered a ples of guilty, and they were fined $10 each. In asking the court to impose a light penalty Wood said that the saloonmen had no inteation of trying to evade the law, and that those who were arrested had kept their places open on June 16 merely to test the law, of which they were not test the law, of which they were not sure. "They have abandoned their intention of appealing," said Wood, "and here-after will obey the law strictly. When the district attorney served the notice upon them they were in doubt as to the application of the law to this city, and certain men were selected in various parts of the city to test the law. They found that their view of it was wrong, and as they intended nothing more than to determine the matter a light penalty should be sufficient." The selonmen who were fined were: T. J. Uhlman, 134 North Tenth street; A. E. Lodell, Nineteenth and Vaughn streets; B. Eschelbacher, 135 North Sixth street; C. W. Dilg, Twenty-fourth and Nicoli streets; C. S. Cole & Sweeny, who had the con-tract for driving one of the tunnels, were carrying on the work with their own funds, and when the Loss company went under these contractors were, they olaim, creditors to the extent of $10,000. They have brought suit against the Loss company and the Oregon Western for that amount. Meantime, these contractors are con-tinuing work on the tunnel with a few mean to keep the job from being shut down entirely, and when the litigation is adjusted they will probably go on with the original contract and complete the work.
