POPULAR PORTLANDERS MARRIED AT SEAMEN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

George Springate Bishop and Miss Emma Hillman were married at the Seamen's Friend society, 263 Flanders street, last Monday night.

The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. E. H. Roper, chaplain of the institute. The large concert hall was strewn with flowers, and flags of the world's nations saturated with roses and mignonettes covered the walls.

The bride was escorted by her grandfather, Edward Atmore, while Miss Rose Riley played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride wore a dress of white lingerie, trimmed in lace.

The young couple are taking a short wedding tour, after which they will reside in Bellwood. Many costly presents were given them.

Mrs. Bishop. Miss Sarah Culverwell, maid of honor, Little Maude Roper carried the ring in the heart of a Caroline Testout rose. The flower girls were Misses Laura and Marion Roper.

The groom is well known in this city, where he occupies a responsible position with Meier & Frank. The bride, who formerly lived in London, England, is an artist of considerable ability, and has received 16 certificates for black and white drawings in the Kensington art schools.

ARBITRARY POSTMASTER REFUSES TO HAUL MAILS THIRTY FEET

Residents of Hillsdale are greatly excited because of the action of Postmaster A. Mercer in refusing to carry the mails from the railroad to the post-office, a distance of about 30 feet, leaving the citizens of the little suburb without mail from their loved ones.

Postmaster Mercer contends that he is not paid to carry the mail and consequently refuses to do so. He says that the government provides $12 a year for a messenger to perform the work of carrying one or two mail sacks a day from the trains to the office, but that he cannot get anybody to fill the place. Complaints have been coming in thick and fast to Frank E. Whitney, chief clerk of the railway mail service, since the trouble started several days ago, and he will issue an order tomorrow directing all mail for Hillsdale to be forwarded to Portland, where residents of Hillsdale can secure it from the general delivery.

One of the worst features of the trouble is that all mails deposited in the Hillsdale office for the past few days have not been placed on the trains and are accumulating in the postoffice. Another feature that is equally bad and one that affects a large number of persons is that rural delivery carriers get their mail from the Hillsdale office. These men have been going over their routes daily since the trouble began without any mail to deliver.

This branch of the work is under the supervision of E. C. Clement, postoffice inspector, who is out of the city and could not be seen as to what action is to be taken in the case.

It was in the days when they had a real live colored boy stick his head through a hole in a canvas at which anybody could throw three baseballs for a good (7) cigar.

Dr. Plummer told me that if I broke the boy's nose he would set it free of charge. More in a joke than anything else I picked up three balls and started the game. The first ball went wide of the mark by about 10 feet. Everybody laughed, even the target. Without a moment's delay I threw the second ball, caught the boy off guard and hit him square on the forehead. Everybody was surprised, including myself.

The boy squealed like a good fellow and an examination showed that his nose had been broken by the ball. Dr. Plummer spent the rest of the day in attending to the broken nose, while I stood around and received the plaudits of the throng. It was the first time I had thrown a baseball for several years and I refused to throw the third one for fear of losing the reputation I had established.

LINEMAN MEETS DRIVER OF DOG INSTANT DEATH

Charles E. Welsh, one of the veteran linemen in the employ of the Portland Railway, Light and Power company met his death at the top of a pole on Portland Heights at the corner of Chapman and Elm streets at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred just about the time the lineman was supposed to quit work for the day and the body was seen hanging in the air by C. C. Crawford who called Dr. George Wilson. When the physician arrived, however, the man was dead.

Policeman Wanless, aided by Crawford, lowered the body to the ground by means of a rope. An investigation by the coroner showed that the fingers of the left hand had been burned off and the right arm was burned to a crisp up to the elbow. The man was about 30 years of age and resided at 739 Williams avenue with his wife. He was a member of the United Artisans' Co-operative Finlay stated this morning that there was no cause for an inquest as the cause of the death was apparent.

BROKE NEGRO'S NOSE ON TAUNT CAUSING DOCTOR TO MAKE GOOD

"Speaking of baseball," said John T. Flynn of Seattle at the Oregon hotel, reminds me of a little stunt that occurred many years ago at a county fair which I attended with Dr. O. P. S. Plummer.

It was in the days when they had a real live colored boy stick his head through a hole in a canvas at which anybody could throw three baseballs for a good (7) cigar.

Dr. Plummer told me that if I broke the boy's nose he would set it free of charge. More in a joke than anything else I picked up three balls and started the game. It is the expectation of the builders to have the Portland-Salem line completed and in operation from Portland to Garden Home by the middle of September and the entire line in operation by the first of the coming year. As soon as the line is running between Portland and the state capital, extensions will be made in other directions. It is probable that a branch to Forest Grove and Hillsboro will be built. There is talk of extending the main line further up the Willamette valley from Forest Grove to the mouth of the Willamette river.

The ad men of the north coast will go in a special car attached to the regular Southern Pacific train leaving Portland at 1:45 p. m. and reaching Sacramento July 19. Certificates must be signed by the secretary of the Chautauqua, and may be issued on any of the three days prior to or on the opening day.
