

CASCADE SENTINELS ENDED CELEBRATION

Blood-Red Greetings From Mounts Put Fitting Period to Portland's Greatest Patriotic Independence Celebration—Thousands Watched Signals Glow.

Portland's greatest celebration has ended. Today throughout the city, from confine to confine and beyond, 300,000 people, young and old, are resting, fatigued, but complacent in the knowledge that they were participants in the most strenuous and varied commemoration ever carried out in the Rose City.

For the first time since celebrations began in the world the snowcapped sentinels of the Cascades held out blood-red greetings of flame to Portland last night, putting a period to the official course of the two days' program such as has never before been provided by any city. Twenty thousand people that banked the heights at the west of the city and other thousands that filled the house-tops and the open spaces took the signals when they grew out of the night, glowing and wavered back into darkness as the grand climax and finale of the most successful Fourth Portland has ever known.

Finest in Illumination.

Throughout the day, during the many events of the schedule, the main interest seemed to center in the illumination of the three peaks to the east. Several times before the celebration of the city have attempted to emblazon the mountains in honor of the day, but each time failure or only partial success has met the effort. Last night crowned the achievement and made the celebration all complete.

As the time set for the illumination drew near the throngs of the city stopped their other amusements and hunted for places of vantage where the mountains would be in range of vision. Eleven o'clock came and no signal flared up out of the reach of blackness over the east. Five minutes passed and doubt began to take the place of expectation, when out of the west where Mount Hood rears its head a dull red speck sprang into being, grew into a steady glare and burned steady and clear.

Those on the hills were the first to see the signal and sent up cheers of appreciation which spread over the city as a wave of sound. Three minutes passed and the second signal burned in the sky. Then Mount St. Helens sent her greeting and Mount Adams followed with a kindred blaze. The mountains had at last been made a part of the city's celebration program.

Portland is glad she celebrated, but is tired and satiated. The blistered boys have sought their usual avocations and their gray-haired sires are again discussing the safe and sane plan of patriotic celebration. The original advocates of the smokeless and noiseless Fourth have begun to crawl out of their storm cellars ready for another year of verbose expostulation. The great mass of the people, young and old, are already planning while the burns smart under the cotton batting the whooping time the next great day will bring.

Parade Largest Ever.

Never before has so varied a program been given in Oregon as Portland offered to her residents and their guests yesterday and the day before. The parade yesterday morning was the largest and the longest ever. The exercises of the day at the Marquam were replete with eloquence, patriotic spirit and advice.

The athletic spirits were feasted to surfeiting with baseball at the Multnomah field and the league park, with races at Irvington track and with aquatic sports and contests on the river. All drew their share of patronage. Thousands made the journey out to the baseball fields, other thousands went to see the ponies run and downtown along the river front dense throngs lined the sidewalks and packed the bridges in an effort to see the sports on the water.

All the city and its sweetheart went out to the exposition grounds last night to see the fireworks on the shores of Guild's lake. Fully 50,000 people packed into a good-natured merry-making bank of humanity along the slopes of the terrace, grouped themselves on the grand stairway left by the exposition and filled the porches of the partially dismantled buildings. An equal number filled the open spaces of the wooded heights overlooking the lake and sent down fiery greetings during the lulls of the official program.

No Disorder Anywhere.

There was no disorder during the day or night, for Portland was on her good behavior. No serious accidents either marred the pleasure of the event. Here and there a small boy with a bandaged hand still persisted in his fun. Now and again some timid girl with upturned skirts would shriek and leap from imagined danger, but that was all.

Some 14 fires worked the department overtime, but the only blaze of any magnitude was that which damaged the home of the Portland Women's union near the close of the celebration. The police in the exercise of their duty gathered in some 35 thirty-unfortunates whose holiday eyes were greater than their capacity, but that was all.

One roar of noise made the whole day deafening. At a conservative estimate more than $50,000 went up between the time of the opening gun and the echoes of the last salute in smoke and battle notes. Portland's celebration greatest yet.

A TONIC AND SPECIFIC

HOW DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS RESTORE LOST STRENGTH.

A Doctor's Prescription, Not a Cure-all, They Have One Purpose to Make Men, Red Blood.

General debility is due to impure blood. Its causes are worry, overwork, failure of the body to regain its health after a severe sickness, lack of nourishment from a disordered digestion, or some drain upon the body, all of which result in thinning the blood, preventing it from carrying health and nourishment to the tissues of the body. The way to cure it is to build up the blood and enable the various organs to perform their functions.

Mr. John F. Williams, of 311 Lincoln street, Anderson, Indiana, who is in the boot and shoe business, says: "In 1897 I was taken sick with typhoid fever, which left me completely run down. I went back to work before I entirely recovered my strength and the close confinement of the store was too much for my weakened body. I did not give up as I should have done, but kept at my work, although I suffered a great deal from sick headaches and pains in the back. The sick headaches came on me about every 10 or 12 days and the doctors said they were caused from my eyes. My stomach was weak, appetite poor and complexion sallow. I had night sweats, which so weakened me, that I had little interest in my work. I tried several doctors but got no better and remained in this condition until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and started to take them. I got so much relief from the first few boxes that I used them until I was entirely cured. I am perfectly well now, but I think I should have been a great deal for many years if I had not used the pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood, enabling it to carry life and strength to the weak nerves and other tissues of the body. They are a specific for such blood diseases as anemia, rheumatism, the after-effects of the grip and fevers, and for such nervous diseases as dizziness, sick headaches, neuralgia, and have accomplished miraculous results even in partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing full information about blood diseases and their treatment will be sent free upon request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50; by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

This half block was owned by Messrs. Letter and Palmer, who paid $10,000 for it about two months ago. The same holding was purchased about eight months ago by Colonel John McCracken, who paid $30,000 for it, indicating an advance of 66 2/3 per cent in less than a year.

Among other important sales recently closed are the following: Six lots in St. Johns sold by M. L. Holbrook to C. F. Gould for $5,000; and 40 acres in the vicinity of Gresham, purchased by H. V. Whitney from Charles Cleveland; consideration, $5,000.

Reinhold Lehmann has purchased from A. P. Smith, a fractional lot on Water street, between Gibbs and Porter for $2,500.

A house and lot on East Davis and East Twenty-second has been purchased by Jesse C. Webster from John Amberson for $3,000.

ORE DISCOVERED WORTH MILLIONS

Portland Stockholders Notified of Great Lead Finds in Metaline District.

Portland stockholders in the Mammoth Lead Mining company at their annual meeting in Spokane received reports that created a sensation in regard to the ore bodies uncovered by recently driven tunnels and drifts in their property in the Metaline district. Estimates of engineers are to the effect that there is ore now in sight to the value of $6,000,000 and remains only to be quarried out and shipped to the smelter.

The stockholders elected the following directors: J. Elmer West, W. H. Mead, C. J. Johnson, Spokane; S. B. Edwards, Frank Ansley, L. Y. Keady, Portland. The directors elected J. Elmer West president and treasurer, S. B. Edwards vice-president and C. J. Johnson secretary. A visit was paid to the mines and it was voted to immediately construct a concentrator that will probably be located to serve both the Mammoth and Morning mines, where a joint tunnel has been run 150 feet to a depth that passes through both properties.

Arrangements are being made to ship about 300 tons of clean ore now on the dump of the Mammoth mine to the nearest smelter. A representative of the Panhandle Smelter company accompanied the mine officers to the mine and their examination of the ore prepared contracts for shipment and treatment at the Sand Point smelter. The ore will be estimated to net between $40 and $70 per ton profit to the Mammoth company.

The Metaline district will soon be given additional transportation facilities by the Washington & Idaho Northern railroad, which is building from Richlun on the Northern Pacific down the Pend d'Oreille river. Fourteen miles of the track are now completed. Graders have been finished in Newport and the surveyors are now in the vicinity of Metaline.

The company has expended about $100,000 for rights of way in Newport and has acquired a strip through the business district to secure a grade that will permit it to reach the river.

The properties acquired are occupied by a hotel and business blocks, all of which have to be removed.

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY RESOURCES SHOWN

Medford Commercial Club Issues a Booklet of Great Value to Intelligent Soil Cultivator.

A new booklet just issued by the Medford Commercial club gives a complete showing of the Rogue river valley's resources and what can be done by the man who will intelligently cultivate the soil there for fruit, grain or produce. The Rogue river valley has gained a wide reputation as "America's Italy" on account of its delicious climate and scenery, and its adaptability to the growing of the finest fruits.

Medford pears have twice broken the world's record for high prices in the fruit lots. The Newtown pippin apple reaches its perfection in that valley. Grapes equal to California or French products are produced around Jacksonville, Medford, Ashland, Central Point and Grants Pass. The general crops there this year furnish an example of the wonderfully fertile and thrifty character of the whole valley.

There have been rains at regular intervals and no farmer who has paid proper attention to his fields is complaining about the prospect for large crops. No frosts have damaged the fruit buds of the Rogue river valley this year, while the fruitgrowers of eastern states are facing almost a total failure of this season's apple crop, owing to late frosts.

The Medford booklet sets forth the advantages of the whole valley, but pays particular attention to Medford and Jackson county. Medford is now a city of 4,000 people, and the commercial center of a region having 15,000 inhabitants.

The valley's prosperity is supported by fruit raising, general farming, mining and the timber industry. The new booklet is well illustrated, and its pages are certain to interest the easterner who is considering the selection of a location farther west.

HOLIDAY DOES NOT HURT REAL ESTATE

Independence Day Celebration Has No Appreciable Effect on Number of Transactions.

No appreciable effect on the volume of realty sales, on account of the two days' celebration, is to be seen. Wednesday's transfers came near the $100,000 mark, while the total for the first three days of the week was about $350,000. Included in this amount was the $50,000 purchase by the Crane company of a half-block in the warehouse district.
