

STATE TEACHERS MEET MOST SUCCESSFUL YET

Executive Order of High Ability Shown by Miss Dimick at Salem.

COMPLIMENTED BY CONGRESSMAN HAWLEY

Schools Should Be Centers of Communities, Argument Advanced by Learned Pedagogue—Teacher Deserve Higher Salaries.

The State Teachers association which met at Salem last week closed Wednesday what was probably the most successful meeting since its organization.

Miss Aphie L. Dimick.

Congressman Hawley voiced the sentiment of the association when he said: "Miss Dimick makes a fine presiding officer."

Common Sense Talk. In her address of July 2, Miss Dimick in reviewing the recent new laws said:

which will make their labor most productive." Dimick contends that the school should be the center of the community; urged the necessity of the kindred work of such and rest rooms, and of higher salaries for experienced teachers.

Dr. Chancellor would shorten this period to eight years. Miss Dimick believes in "made good" in education.

Speakers "Made Good." The two great speakers of the convention, Dr. Chancellor, of Washington, D. C., and Professor L. D. Harvey, of Michigan, were "made good" in education.

The county superintendent labored for three days on questions pertaining to the award of prizes to the best teachers in the county.

In the department of secondary education, the president, Dr. H. D. Sheldon, kept enthusiasm at a high point. Among the strong papers given in this department were those of Miss Jessie Goddard, Miss Cornelia Marion, R. F. Robinson, H. B. Crook, J. E. Wilson, B. F. Mulkey and E. T. Marlette.

Miss Mary Barlow, as leader of the advanced section, presented such a strong program that a review of the address was given to each and all excellent beyond the limits of this article.

M. E. Signs, of Medford, made an enthusiastic leader of the intermediate section in which the principal address was "Fundamentals in Method," by L. D. Harvey.

The reception by the teachers of Salem Monday was perfect. Its arrangement and management, and gave the teachers opportunity for social intercourse—a feature too often neglected.

WIFE'S LOVER USURPES HUSBAND IN OWN HOME

H. W. Siegler Moves Into J. I. Bogart's House and Commands Family to Obey Him—Ousted Spouse Commences Suit for Damages.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.) Oklahoma City, July 4.—A damage suit in which H. W. Siegler, a wealthy horse trader of Texas, is alleged to have usurped the place of J. I. Bogart, not only in his wife's affections but in his own household, is the latest sensation in Oklahoma.

The most damaging evidence in the case is the affidavit of Joseph Bogart, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bogart, in which he states that soon after Siegler came to board with them he took charge of the home. He swears Siegler ordered him around "just as though he was my papa," and when he refused to obey, Siegler cursed and abused him.

Mother Failed Him. He says his mother refused to take his part and would insist upon him obeying the dictates of Siegler.

Bogart is a clerk in a department store in the name of J. I. Bogart. He was granted with $50 attorney fees and $40 per month alimony.

The petition explains that Bogart is the plaintiff in a damage suit against Siegler for alienation of his wife's affections and recovery of the alleged domestic discord growing out of the alleged familiarity between Mrs. Bogart and Siegler.

Several affidavits signed by citizens of Oklahoma City accompanied the petition, reciting a number of sensational acts of familiarity between the couple which they apparently made no effort to conceal, such as after-theatre dinners with liquid trimmings, midnight rides and hammock incidents.

A large crowd, however, went out of the hall and watched the coffin as it was lowered into the ground. The ghost kept begging most piteously to be let out. One man had courage enough to unhook the cover of the coffin completely, and open it, allowing the resurrected man to sit up. Rice soup and wine were brought and ravenously devoured by the ghost, still sitting upright in his coffin, embedded in the earth.
