

GOVERNMENT IS GREATLY WORRIED OVER PROBABLE WAR WITH JAPAN

Vice-President and Three Cabinet Members Rushing to Pacific Coast.

PRESIDENT WANTS RELIABLE REPORT

Nation Does Not Intend to Rush Into Battle Upon Haphazard Information, but Realizes the Gravity of the Situation.

(Publishers' Press by Special Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, July 6.—There is worry at Washington over future relations between the United States and Japan. Otherwise, would Vice-President Fairbanks and three cabinet members, Oscar Straess, Victor H. Metcalf and James R. Garfield, and commerce of labor agents galore be spending the summer on the Pacific slope studying conditions at first hand. The presence of so many national dignitaries in this section where race antagonism is keenest is too significant to pass unobserved. The administration plainly expects the issue to be one of the most vital before the next congress. It wants facts and figures—not the haphazard, partial information on the strength of which such grave mistakes have been made recently as to threaten trouble of international import.

With the announcement that the three cabinet members will visit San Francisco came the explanation that an attempt would be made to establish industrial peace. The labor leaders declined to accept the visitors' mediation. In the effort to make peace between the anti-Japanese party and the mikado's subjects in San Francisco, the visitors are likely to find endless difficulty.

FIGHT FOR HONOR

President Says Good Name of Nation Will Be Cause of War.

(Publishers' Press by Special Leased Wire.)
Washington, July 6.—It is expected within a few days President Roosevelt will announce just what his preferences are in the carrying out of the plan of the war board for sending a monitor battleship fleet to the Pacific. The president talked very freely of the Japanese situation to his advisers and close friends before he left for Oyster Bay. He felt that he had accomplished much in his adjustment of the school question in the Golden Gate city and made it clear that he could not understand the anti-American feeling which had manifested itself in Japan and which appeared to be on the increase.

The number of diplomatic exchanges which had taken place between the two governments had almost got on the nerves of Secretary Root. It is known that he feared complications. He finally took the matter up with the president and the situation was carefully canvassed. It is said that the president told Root and his other cabinet advisers that he would not permit a Japanese to force this government to a position of irritation; that Japan had been pushed forward prominently among the governments of the world by the war with Russia so they felt their case, that he proposed to let the "gingoes" have their way until it was a question of national honor with the United States, that when that time came it would mean war.

W. W. TINKLE AT HOME AGAIN

Wife Welcomes a Wanderer Whose Sense of Identity Faded.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Woodburn, Or., July 6.—W. W. Tinkle, who disappeared from Woodburn four years ago, has returned to this city. He had wandered off while temporarily demented and when reason came back to him he found himself working on a farm near Modesto, California, and going by the name of Jones. Mr. Tinkle discovered his identity two and a half years ago but had no communication with anyone in Woodburn until recently, thinking he had already given the people of this city much trouble and being quite sure of the reception of the news by his wife, who is overjoyed at his return. He does not know in what manner he left Woodburn in 1903, and can recall no incident occurring on the day of his departure. He cannot as yet remember some of his old friends. He will reside in Woodburn under the watchful eyes of his loving wife.

PEMBROKE JONES SAVES CAPTAIN

Vanderbilt's Sailing Master Swept Overboard During Yacht Race.

(Heart News by Longest Leased Wire.)
New York, July 6.—The presence of mind of Pembroke Jones and the quick action of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt saved the life of Captain Chris Christensen, sailing master of the Vanderbilt racing yacht Aurora, on Long Island sound this afternoon. Jones, in gybing around the buoy off Parsonage Point, in the race for the Gloucester cup, against the New York Yacht club fleet, Captain Christensen was swept overboard by the Aurora's boom and nothing but prompt action prevented his drowning. The yacht was racing against the other new Herreshoff 77-foot sloops. He had crossed the starting line ahead of time and had to return and start again. The speed of the yacht was so great that Christensen was left far astern in a few moments, but Pembroke Jones threw a life preserver within 30 feet of him and he was able to support himself. Commodore Vanderbilt kept the yacht swinging around and he had to get the crew to get the boat on deck over the side. The boat was launched and manned in remarkably short time and Captain Christensen was pulled up.

SIoux LINE IS SEEKING ROUTE

Undecided, But May Dash Right Into Middle of Hill Territory.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Butte, Mont., July 6.—John M. Boardman, one of the prominent cattlemen of eastern Montana, states that the Sioux line has surveyors in northeastern Montana, and the rumor there is that this road will soon be running trains into Montana, and westward. One of the Sioux surveying parties is encamped on the south side of the Missouri river near Poplar and is traveling up the stream seeking a place to cross. The Sioux now has a line as far west as Portal, North Dakota, and it is said the road is now considering which of two plans to adopt, one to parallel the Great Northern between that line and the Canadian Pacific, and the other to enter Montana and make a fight for the traffic which now goes to the Northern Pacific and Great Northern.

TRAVELING MEN WENT ON PICNIC

Oregon Council of United Knights of the Grip Made Merry at Cazadero.

Two hundred members of the Oregon council of United Commercial Travelers engaged a special train and went to Cazadero yesterday for their first annual picnic. Athletic sports and dancing occupied attention during the day, the excursionists returning to Portland at 9:30 o'clock last night. Chief among the athletic contests was the baseball game between the "Fats," captained by Chet Whitmore, and the "Slims," led by O. C. Thornton. The score was 13 to 10 in favor of the "Slims," the elongated battery, Thornton and McAllister, doing some very effective work. Zilley and Kennedy were the transmitting and receiving ends of the big fellows. The sack race was won by E. W. Dingman, a silver matchbox being the prize. Mrs. Young was first in the bean-throwing contest, receiving a silver soup ladle, and Mrs. Newton was second, being awarded a silver meat fork. L. F. Buck's team of fat men won the tug of war, the prize being a box of cigars. Dancing rounded out the evening, Parson's hotel being the music. The committee in charge of the arrangements, all of whom are well-known commercial travelers, were Richard Becker, W. L. West and A. F. Buck.

SONS DISCOVER MISSING FATHER

Allen Ostro Found in Philadelphia After Twelve Years' Absence.

(Heart News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Chicago, July 6.—After having been mysteriously missing for 12 years, Allen Ostro, formerly a wealthy merchant of San Francisco, has been found in Philadelphia by his sons, Julian Ostro, a law clerk in the office of Judge Sydney A. Arme in Mount Vernon, and Leo Ostro. Allen Ostro years ago was one of the prosperous men in San Francisco and lived in a fine residence where he lavishly entertained his friends. He waded a large sum of money on Grover Cleveland in his second content. He met with other reverses, it is said, and disappeared. Leo Ostro was in Philadelphia on June 21, when he noticed an elderly man standing in front of the Bellevue Stratford hotel. An inspection satisfied him that the man was his father, and he followed him to his boarding house. There the young man made himself known and was welcomed by his father. Allen Ostro told his sons that he had been successful in business since his disappearance and explained that he had wished to establish himself on the same footing as he had formerly enjoyed before communicating with his family.

CHURCH OF NAZARENE IS GROWING FAST

Remodeled Building at Sellwood Will Be Dedicated Today—Organized a Year Ago.

The Church of the Nazarene, organized in Portland just one year ago, rented the former Swedish church at 428 Burnside street, where it holds its services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. every Sunday. When the Sellwood Methodists moved into their new church a few months ago Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew, members of the First Church of the Nazarene, bought the old building vacated by the Sellwood Methodists and a lot upon which to place it. A few weeks ago this property was turned over to the Nazarene church, and by the personal efforts of Rev. J. H. and Etta McIntire and Rev. A. O. Henricks, pastor of the First church, love and the engagement between him and the church has been entirely remedied and repainted and will be dedicated today at 3 p. m. All the labor of remodeling, seating and painting the building has been contributed by Revs. McIntire and Henricks. The congregation of the First church is now casting about for a location for their new church, and will build so soon as a lot can be secured. On October 11, in Chicago, will be ratified the action taken in Brookline, Mass., last year, in organizing all the pentecostal churches of America, so that soon the Nazarenes will have a chain of churches extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

NORTH POWDER SHEEP IN FINE CONDITION

Flocks Free of Taint Now Move to Reserve Pastures—The Clip and the Market.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
North Powder, Or., July 6.—The shearing and dipping of the 40,000 sheep of North Powder valley is about over, and while the hauling and weighing of wool are still under way it is safe to say not less than 30,000 pounds will be baled at North Powder's two shipping points, Baker City and Pendleton. For the season market. Estimating at the lowest figures for good and better grades of medium wools, $18, it is safe to say 500,000 in cash will come to the North Powder sheepmen for their wool product alone. The lamb crop was below the average, owing to long-continued cold rains. Lamb and mutton bring good prices, with steady demand. At this time North Powder sheep with a clear bill of health, sheared and dipped, are moving on the trail to the reserves in good condition.

The Play.

Miss Ethel Barrymore concluded her engagement in the city last night with the production of "Cousin Kate," a play in which she achieved great success in New York. With the fall of the curtain on the last act, by the way, the Hellig was closed for the season. There was a capacity house to witness the production, and it was perhaps as representative an audience as has been assembled at the Hellig and was as enthusiastic as the one which witnessed her first appearance in this city Friday night. Miss Barrymore received an ovation at her hands such as few actresses have ever received in this city. "Cousin Kate" is a play of little or no consequence, and in less capable hands has never attracted more than a passing notice. But, as interpreted by Miss Barrymore, it is a play of intense interest and held the huge audience completely until the drop of the curtain. It deals with a somewhat elderly couple of thoroughly content and happy family in a community suburb near the metropolis. With her arrival trouble begins, for the young man who
