AT THE THEATRES

Nance O'Neil at the Marquam.

This evaning Nane O'Neil will begin her engagement at the Marquam, appearing in "The Soroeress." Interest in this widely-heralded event is general, for this eminent tragedienne is not only a great favorite in Portland, but is regarded as one of America's foremost actresses. Her engagement will continue four weeks.

"Utah" a Western Play.

Commencing this evening the stock company at the Star theatre will present "Utah." a new melodrama, which will continue all week with the usual matinees. This drama has never been seen before on the Pacific coast, al-though it experienced a season of pros-perity on the other side of the Rockies.

Mystery at the Grand.

Last week the Grand had a great raudeville program. This week the bill is even better. Charles Carter, the mystic, has a magical entertainment surpassing anything in this line that local theatre-goers have seen. The special added attraction is Abagail Price whose performance seems almost super-natural.

Morton Wants to Wager.

Morton, the wonderful glass-eater at the Oaks, wants to prove that he not only eats glass but actually digests it. There has been considerable discussion between professional men as to Morton's claims and a committee of physicians investigated. Morton is willing to demonstrate by means of an X-ray examination.

"Man From the West" at Lyric. Tonight will occur the first performince here of the frontier drama, "The Man From the West," by the Allen stock company at the Lyric. The company will be seen at its best and the costumes, scenery and mechanical effects are the most elaborate.

Aged Woman Inmate of Patton Home Expired in TALKS ENTHUSED Agony From Burns Received Through Clothing Catching Fire.

At the Patton Home for the aged, 975 Michigan avenue, yesterday morning the clothing of Mrs. Lorens Mckinster, an old pioneer, was accidentally ignited and the woman received injuries from which she died three hours later. Her clothing caught fire from a match with which she had lighted er pipe.

Mrs. McKinister had been an inmate of the home for four years. She enjoyed smoking whenever she was able and sat on the front porch and found comfort in the fumes from her pipe. Yesterday morning she was assisted by Mrs. Luella Lambert to put on a white summer dress of filmsy material and wheeled in an invalid's chair out upon the porch,

There she was left alone and she proceeded to light her pipe. Her hands trembled but she finally succeeded in lighting it. She accidentally dropped the match into her lap, where is ignited the filmsy dress she wore. The aged woman lay back in her chair, smoking and thoroughly unconscious of her danger.

Soon another inmats of the place was attracted by the odor of something burning and sounded the cry of "fire." The matron with the sid of several others tried heroically to extinguish the flames in the clothing of Mrs. Mc-Kinster and finally succeeded. But it was not until she had received fatal injuries.

was not until she had received fatal injuries.

Dr. D. H. Rand was summoned but on his arrival he found the victim almost beyond help. Her pain was intense and, aside from alleviating her suffering, little could be done for the patient. After lingering for three hours she died at 2 o'clook in the afternoon. Coroner Finley was notified and an official investigation was made. Death was found to have been purely accidental.

The death of Mrs. McKinster ends a long and eventful career in Oregon. She was the last of her family, there being no relatives, so far as is known, with the exception of Mrs. Martha Butts, a niece, whose whereabouts are unknown.

Mrs. McKinster, it is said, crossed the plains with her husband years ago and settled in Oregon. She worked with him upon the farm and several children were born to them. They died, however, and the husband finally passed away. For years she has been alone and has lived at the Patton Home for the past four years.

Yesterday at His Home After Lingering Illness.

John Burke, one of the old time residents of the city and pioneers of the state, died at his home, $34 Salmon at street Sunday morning. He was 53 years of age at the time of his death and for the past two years had been suffering from nervous complaints and locomotor ataxia.

Mr. Burke was born in St. Louis in 1854 and was brought to Oregon with his parents the same year. The family settled in Portland upon their arrival in the state and John Burke had resided here continuously since.

Mr. Burke was identified with many of the city building projects of the past 50 years. He was by trade a plumber but was the promoter of the Jefferson street ferry and the East Portland waterworks. He was one of the organizers and most faithful members of the old Portland volunteer fire department.

Mr. Burke was a member of the Oregon Pioneer association and attended every annual meeting. His hobby in life was the cultivation of roses. Funeral services will be held at the cathedral tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at St. Mary's cemetery. Mr. Burke was never married and in the large area of the west, Every and in the large area of the west, Every church in the state except Calvary has been organized and supported by home missions. Addresses Made by Two Distinguished Visitors at First Church.

LARGE AUDIENCE

Rev. William Hiram Foulkes Presided and Speakers of Evening Were Von Ogden Vogt of New York and Editor Best of Chicago.

A rally of all Presbyterian churches of the city was held last night at the First Presbyterian church, when addresses were made by two distinguished visitors to the city, representing the east and the middle west, and by Rev. W. S. Holt, D. D., the synodical missionary of this part of the country.

Rev. William Hiram Foulkes introduced Von Ogden Vogt of New York, saying that sectionalism is passing away and that the time is coming when the Presbyterian church will represent an organic union.

Mr. Vogt spoke of the Presbyterian brotherhood inaugurated in Chicago and which has been found efficacious in drawing the men of the church together for active work, commending a similar organisation in this city.

Would Correct Wrong Idea, This bureau has for its object finding how the church stands in relation to the working man and in finding out how the laboring man regards the church. It is endeavoring to correct a somewhat widespread impression that the church relations of the church widespread impression that the church relations of the church widespread impression that the church relations of the church relations of the church relationship to the church relation re moleoger cares what sort of environment the mass of mankind have. It is the function of that modern department of the church with its heritage of intelligence and power to represent it in the more public or social aspects of life.
Mr. Vogt cited three instances which show what modern problems the church show what modern problems the church is facing and the need for this union of men in helping to solve the problems. One incident occurred in Mexico when, after two addresses of 45 minutes each, a few remarks were made on this sub-ject, a man arose and asked, "Couldn't you tell us a little more about that?" Being told that if a few wished to re-main the subject would be presented more fully the whole congregation re-mained another 45 minutes.

more fully the whole congregation remained another 45 minutes.

The second incident occurred in the Big Horn when an old prospector said, "You haven't always sent us the good kind of men that you are sending us now," and criticised one who had been a self-appointed preacher, saying that "if God Almighty had set him to killing preachers he would never have wasted a cap on him."

The third point which Mr. Vogt presented was the case of an Indian woman who in filling out an application blank for a position as teacher came to the question of "What denomination were your parents," which she answered thus: "Father and mother were dead before the missionary came." Among the Navalos, he said, there are 6,000 children who have no school of any kind. The church is trying to face these modern conditions.

Stirring Address.

Stirring Address.

The Portland public baths which were to have been opened last Saturday will be ready for use Wednesday. The installing of the new tank delayed the opening. There have been many inquiries concerning the baths and because of the hot weather there will doubtless be a large crowd awaiting the opening Wednesday. Two hours in the Stirring Address.

Rev. B. E. S. Ely Jr. introduced Nolan Rice Best of Chicago, editor of the Interior, who delivered a stirring and forceful address on the large duties which the men of today owe their church and their country, and the way in which the Presbyterian brotherhood has stirred men who previously had had a small sense of their responsibilities and small measure of identification with their church to make this aggressive forward advance in the name of Jesus Christ. This visit to the coast, he said, had been a turning point in
