When deputies from the sheriff's office arrived in St. Johns yesterday, where they had been sent to investigate the slot machines in use, they were unable to find but one machine in a St. Johns saloon. Previous knowledge of the impending visit had been conveyed to the owners of the machines. However, the deputies informed the saloonmen that the slot machines were taken out and kept out of prosecution would follow. The saloonmen will keep them out. The city of St. Johns also has an ordinance prohibiting slot machines, but has never been able to enforce it. Therefore the duty devolves upon Sheriff Stevens.

The Oregon state board of medical examiners held the annual examination yesterday, when about 85 applicants for medical licenses were examined. The results will not be known for about two weeks. Dr. E. T. Moore, an osteopathist of La Grande, was appointed on the board and heretofore all osteopathists will be obliged to pass an examination in order to practice in this state. Those already practicing will not be obliged to take examination. A determined fight will be waged against all physicians practicing unlawfully in the state. The certificate of Dr. E. T. Moore, who traveled with Fer-Don, was revoked for irregularity and unprofessional conduct.

Portland's photo-engravers will hold their second annual picnic, Sunday, July 14, at Sauvie's Island, where the Willamette and Columbia join their forces in their journey to the sea. The biggest and fastest launch that plies the harbor has been engaged for the trip and everything to eat and drink which could possibly be desired will be as free as the water in the two mighty rivers. There will be athletic games and other features. The launch leaves at 8 o'clock and returns at 6 o'clock in the evening.

A Catholic teachers' institute will be conducted in the city July 21 to 29, at which seven orders of nuns will be represented and which will be to all teachers of the state whether Catholic or Protestant. The institute will be conducted by Professor Haaren who has charge of 25 schools in the borough of Manhattan, New York.

Harry J. Mahour has filed suit for divorce from Belle Mahour in the circuit court, charging that Mrs. Mahour devoted too much of her time to the maintenance of other men, and when asked by her husband for an explanation of her whereabouts at night she became abusive. They were married at The Dalles in November, 1888.

A stream of water was thrown 50 feet into the air at the intersection of Hancock street and the Sunderland road yesterday afternoon by the blowing out of a tap placed to extend mains to Rosemead and Rose City Park. The damage was of no consequence and was soon repaired.

AT THE THEATRES

"Utah" at the Star. There will be a matinee performance of "Utah" at the Star tomorrow afternoon. This is a new state play which has never been seen on the Pacific coast before and is one of the most interesting stories unfolded on the stage of the Star. The company is doing excellent work.

Grand's Many Features. It is not often that a vaudeville program has so many features as are found on the list at the Grand this week. Abigail Price does the mind-reading feats of Anna Eva Fay and the public is invited to ask her any questions. Joe Thompson renders latest song hits.

Small Boy in His Element. The dog show which opens at the Oaks on Sunday, known as Don Carlo's educated dogs, is probably the greatest of its kind in attraction. The show will be a free attraction and is especially pleasing to children. Schlimsky's band continues to grow in popularity.

THE PLAY

With "Ingomar" at the Marquam last night Nance O'Neil's company scored another and possibly a more pronounced success than in "The Sorceress," the bill for the early week. The two plays which the leading woman, a chance to display her versatility as few other contrasting plays, for the woman's role in had delivered over the man for whom he had made the trip Day started back to Portland. His return was something of a triumphal tour, according to reports which came from the east. It being stated that no one on the steamer imagined that Thompson was a prisoner, and that he had impressed the crew of the ship with the generosity of his tips. Day when he left Portland did not purchase a round-trip ticket and his fare to New York is estimated to have cost him approximately $158, both going and coming. His return was $40 for the two trips, his steamer fare was $200, and his meals on the train would be about $5 a day, or $50 for the trip across the continent and back. Thompson's traveling expenses would include $100 for steamer fare, $80.50 for a railroad ticket from New York to Portland, $20 for a bath and $25 for meals. This would make a total direct traveling expense of $478.50 for both Day and Thompson from the time Day left Portland until his return to the city with his prisoner.

Homer Earl, 16 years old, employed by the Moyer Clothing company and residing with his parents at First and Mill streets, narrowly escaped being crushed to death last night by the freight elevator in the Sherlock building, Oak and Third streets. Despite repeated warning from his employers not to use the lift, Earl, about 8 o'clock, while riding in the cage was caught between the elevator and the fourth floor. He was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital for treatment and later removed to his home.

RESIDENCE PROPERTY DEALING FEATURE OF REALTY MARKET

Sales of residence property continue to be the feature of the local realty market. The activity in this class of realty is quite as marked as it has been at any time during the year. George H. Hartman Jr. recently purchased from Marion Nerstog a house and lot on East Eighteenth street, between Brasse and Thompson for $4,200. Mrs. Charlotte Green has sold to Graham Glass a 50-foot lot on Ford street, worth $5,000. The lot has an eastern frontage and begins 150 feet north of Park avenue. Ellis L. Hughes has deeded to the Baby Home the east half of block 65 of Waverly, consideration $2,000. Mrs. George Simon, who owns the quarter block at the southeast corner of East Third and East Burnside streets, is having plans prepared for the erection of a modern brick business house between Brasse and Thompson. The site is now occupied by some old structures that will be cleared off preparatory to beginning work on the new improvement.

FIRE WARDENS CAN BE NAMED

Offices Established in Canterbury Building by Secretary Sheldon.

MUST COMPLY WITH LEGISLATIVE ACT

Watchmen Must Be Paid by Property Owners or Counties Requesting Appointments—Fifty-Three Named While Hundreds Needed.

Secretary E. P. Sheldon of the Oregon state board of forestry has established offices in the Canterbury building, Third and Washington streets, where timber owners or others interested in protecting forests against the dreaded fires may secure the appointment of state fire wardens by complying with the provisions of an act of the legislature creating a state board of forestry.

This act repealed the former statute placing the appointment of forest wardens in the hands of the various county courts. The new law provides that the state board of forestry shall appoint any person as fire warden who shall be recommended for such appointment by timber land owners or county courts, and that the warden shall be paid by the property owner or county requesting the appointment. Up to date 53 fire wardens have been appointed throughout the entire state. The board is anxious to have timber owners make recommendations for the appointment of more wardens, as it is believed that at least 300 men ought to be patrolling the forest districts from now until the rains come in the fall. Under the law these fire wardens are peace officers, and have the right to arrest any person caught setting traps or fire without the proper permit from the state forestry board. The board has prepared a quantity of literature explaining the provisions and advantages of the new law, which it is anxious to get into the hands of persons interested in the enforcement of the law. A letter addressed to Secretary Sheldon in the Canterbury building will bring a prompt reply, giving all the information necessary to secure the appointment of fire wardens.

RETIREMENT TAKEN TO MEAN MERGER

Unexpected Move in Management of Corvallis & Eastern Surprise to Prominent Railroad Men.

The retirement of Guy W. Talbot from the management of the Corvallis & Eastern is taken to mean that the line has been merged with the Southern Pacific. General Manager O'Brien returned yesterday from a trip of inspection over the line. Its incorporation with the Southern Pacific system is a move unexpected among well-informed railroad men.

The purchase of the Corvallis road was made by Harriman in his own name and supposedly with his own money. In view of the threatened divorcement of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems by the federal government, and the compelling of the Union Pacific to dispose of its Southern Pacific stock, there is a strong probability that Mr. Harriman may lose legal control of the Southern Pacific system. In that event he would naturally prefer the Corvallis & Eastern or any other Pacific northwest roads he may require should remain the property of the O. R. & N. company.

NEW METHOD TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Terminal Managers Will Spot No More Cars Until Consignees Agree to Unload.

From this date the railroad terminal managers in Portland will not spot cars for switching to the team tracks until the consignee has agreed to unload the car immediately. The practice has heretofore been to switch cars to the team tracks and then notify the recipient that his car was ready for unloading. It is believed the latest experiment will prove effective in relieving the long-complained-of congestion in the terminal yards. The Northern Pacific and O. R. & N. companies usually have from 500 to 600 loaded cars waiting on sidetracks outside of the city and at stations along the line, for a chance to switch upon the Portland team tracks for unloading.

Hereafter a consignee will have to agree to unload the car the same day it is placed upon the team track. If the consignee fails to do so, the car will be switched back out of the city and its place given to another car.
