

DELUGED WITH SUBSCRIPTIONS

Contest Department of the Journal Unable to Keep Up With Count.

NEXT SCORE IS DUE PROBABLY TOMORROW

Several Contestants Make Remarkable Gains in Educational Contest—Four New Candidates Entered in the Race.

During the last two days the contest department of the Journal has been deluged with new subscriptions. Contest votes have been issued for these as every subscriber expressed a choice as to who should benefit from individual subscriptions.

Several contestants have made remarkable gains. So far there are four new candidates for scholarship awards. There is still room for others desirous of securing for themselves higher education.

The contest department has been unable to clear away the subscriptions and count all votes so the score cannot be published today. An effort will be made to print it tomorrow.

"Shookum Papers" These.

Peter Sellice, the Chemawa candidate in the Journal's educational contest, visited The Journal office yesterday. He has been attending Chautauqua as a guest of the Chemawa Indian brass band. For several years the Chemawa band has been one of the musical features of Chautauqua and the boys camp on the grounds.

Peter Sellice is a full-blooded Coeur d'Alene Indian. He is 21 years old and will graduate from the United States Indian school this month. He entered the Journal contest in order to take studies which he cannot get at the Indian school. Peter wants a business education and is striving for the scholarship in the Capital Business college, Salem.

W. I. Staley, principal of the Capital Business college, has written a letter or "shookum paper" for Peter to show to people when he asks for subscriptions. The letter follows:

"Salem, Or. June 12.—To Whom It May Concern: The bearer, Mr. Peter J. Sellice, has been a student of the Chemawa Indian training school for some time, having finished his course there this year. He desires to attend a business college next year, and has entered the Journal contest. In the hope of being able to win the scholarship offered by the Capital Business college, I have made inquiry and find that Mr. Sellice is a worthy young man. Any favors shown him in the way of subscriptions will be well placed, without doubt. Respectfully,

"W. I. STALEY,"

He Talks Well.

Peter uses good English. He has a better command of the English language than many white boys of his own age. He is earnest and is highly spoken of by Mr. Campbell, the assistant superintendent of the training school at Chemawa. A letter from Mr. Campbell strongly recommends this young man, as follows:

"U. S. Indian Training School, Agency, Chemawa, Or. June 21.—To Whom It May Concern: The bearer of this letter, Mr. Peter J. Sellice, is a member of this year's graduating class of Chemawa and one of our most deserving and upright young men. He informs me that he desires to enter The Journal contest in order to obtain a scholarship to some institution so that he may go on with his studies and I wish to commend him to you and to say that any assistance that you may give him to attain this end will be greatly appreciated by his many friends. Very respectfully,

"W. P. Campbell,"

Needs More Schooling.

When Peter was 16 years old his father died and as he expresses it himself, he was thrown on his own resources. He did all sorts of work on farms in the vicinity of Tokoa, Washington, his home town. But about a year ago he lost his right arm in an accident and he saw that he must learn to do something besides farm work. So he sought and obtained entrance to the Chemawa training school, which is one of the two great Indian schools of the United States.

Now that he has a common school education he wants to specialize so he can go into business. He is anxious to leave through the school and to get making money so he can do something for his widowed mother.

Peter intends to walk from Oregon City to Salem and canvass for subscriptions on route. He hopes that the wealthy farmers along the way will turn a deaf ear to his solicitations. He has been doing very well in the vicinity of Chemawa where he is known and he feels encouraged to believe that a tramp up the Willamette valley will yield him a lot of contest votes.

"The Gibson Girl."

Miss Alice E. Price of Lenta, entered The Journal's educational contest yesterday. She will gather subscriptions in the district between Mount Tabor and Mount Scott.

Yesterday was a birthday anniversary for Miss Price and she made a birthday resolution to do something for her self-improvement. She has a fine voice and her friends who are musical sing and speak in public and has a thorough high school education as a foundation to build on for public work. She has an excellent and prepossessing appearance and would please an audience. She is the Gibson type and may be called "the Gibson girl" of the contest.

Miss Price was in The Dalles on a visit when the educational contest was announced and she decided to go into it there. She has many friends at The Dalles who will be glad to help her win the contest. She has a letter from her intention to compete for one of The Journal's awards.

Miss Price has taken lessons in singing from the pupils of Mrs. Walter Reed. She was much benefited and has long had a desire to study under Mrs. Reed herself. She desires in the Journal contest and she has started out for contest votes with the determination to gratify the instructor from that splendid teacher and popular singer.

Will Canvass Everybody.

Miss Price is a very tactful talker. She will not depend solely upon her friends but intends to make a general canvass for subscriptions. She says that she likes to go to the Journal's contest because she merits win and she wants to feel that she is doing something. She is a practical girl and she expects to meet discouragement and to get footweary but she believes it will be good for her to go through such experiences.

Misfortune has befallen her father, Eugene C. Price. For several months his lungs have been affected, an affliction brought on by pneumonia. Mr. Price is now living in a tent at The Dalles in the hope that the dry climate of The Dalles may benefit him. Alice keep the home at Lenta and urge the father to worry not over them but to be concerned only about his daughter.

Miss Price has a brother who last year was a bugler at the Hill Military academy. He might be a help to her in gathering subscriptions but she feels that he is spending the summer in the Cascade mountains as one of the members of a government surveying party.

Before he became sick Mr. Price was foreman for Nicolai, Neppach & Co., in their lumber mill. The members of the firm and old employes at the mill will be glad to assist Miss Price to get ahead in the contest.

She Is Native Oregonian.

Both the father and the mother of Alice Price are native Oregonians and the families on both sides are well-known pioneer stock. Mrs. Price was a daughter of Nell McFarland of The Dalles, and her mother, the mother was a Crandall, were well-known in the vicinity of Eugene.

Miss Price is proud of her Oregon ancestry and proud of the fact that she too, is a native daughter. She hopes that the friends of her father and mother will take an interest in her ambitions to win a scholarship which will give her instruction in singing.

Will Work North Beach.

Contestant Herbert Muenzer of Montavilla, is about to go on a camping trip. He will carry a subscription receipt book with him and he will canvass among the farmers for contest votes.

During his absence from Montavilla, his mother, who is interested with him in his ambitions for a scholarship, will keep up his canvassing at home. Then too, Herbert has a champion abroad.

Miss Peckl Weaver, who lives at Herbert Muenzer is at Sea View, Washington, and she will go over the beaches north of Ilwaco in the interest of her favorite sport. This is money on the part of Herbert Muenzer and Miss Weaver. People while at the sea coast are in a proper mood to hear the statement of the contest. There are other beaches and mountain resorts that can be canvassed with good results.

Daughter of Pioneers.

Olyvia Reeder of Sauvie Island, has entered The Journal's educational contest to win a scholarship in one of the business colleges of Portland. She has been delayed in canvassing her neighbors because of the very high water which covers the roads of the island.

Olyvia is the daughter of J. I. Reeder, who came to Oregon in 1853 and settled on Sauvie Island. He has resided there ever since on a part of his father's donation land claim. There are Reeder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Peck, were early settlers in the Nehalem valley and have many friends there. The Pecks now live in Catlin, Washington, and Olyvia Reeder will canvass Catlin and Kelso for The Journal.

Olyvia has friends at Ridgefield, Washington, and she will call upon them for assistance along the line of her ambitions.

The young lady has finished the eighth grade of the public schools of her island home and she now looks to The Journal contest to finish her education. She is of the stock that "works and keeps" on working until success is achieved.

Today Olyvia goes to Scappoose to canvass for subscriptions. She has friends there, who will assist her and who will assist her to gather subscriptions.

GRAPHOPHONES IN RATE CASE

Evidence in Olympia Wheat Hearing Passed on to Copyists.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., July 17.—In the offices of the railroad commission, under orders by the commission, Acting Secretary Lyons is hurrying along the transcript of the testimony in the joint wheat rate case, which was concluded a few days ago. The commission found that a satisfactory order could not be made in the case until all of the members of the commission had a further opportunity to examine the testimony.

The stenographers who took the words to be transcribed. In the ordinary course this would require six weeks. Time is a great essential in this case, however, for if a joint rate order is to be promulgated, it is important that it should be done as soon as possible. The commission directed the installation of graphophones. Three of them have been set up, the latest thing in that line and run by electricity. The two stenographers who took the testimony began last night dictating it into the graphophones, and a force of typewriter operators is transcribing it. Every effort will be made to have the complete transcript within 10 days.

As a time-saver the set of graphophones installed in the railroad commission office will easily pay for themselves in the hearings set for this summer. They will also be of great value in the work of ordinary dictation, general correspondence and the like. The railroad commission has the only set of graphophones in the state capital building, and their work is being investigated by several of the other state officials.

TWO AT PENDLETON ALLEGE DESERTION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., July 17.—Mrs. Eva L. McQueen, formerly Miss Eva Lillian Wood of Weston, who was married to Robert McQueen, April 5, 1906, while she was a teacher in the Pendleton public schools, has brought suit for divorce on the grounds of desertion, alleging that McQueen left her on July 9 of the same year. She asks that she be allowed to resume her maiden name.

Another divorce suit in which desertion is alleged is that of Ethel Mohler versus Frank E. Mohler. The parties were married in this city in January, 1905, and lived together but one month. Portland attorneys have filed a suit in this city for Mrs. Mary E. Hawn of Portland, who alleges that her husband, who is a cook in a Portland restaurant, is guilty of divers practices, which render him unfit to be her husband.

I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon school entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured."

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from female trouble is told that an operation is necessary, it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital, the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation has been decided upon as the only cure. The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who by taking made from native roots and herbs, have escaped serious operations, as evidenced by Miss Rose Moore's case, of 207 W. 24th St., N. Y. She writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

HORSEMEN ENGAGE IN A SHOOTING AFFRAY

H. Remus of Baker City Takes Three Shots at Jack Brannan at Butte —Brannan Hit Twice.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Butte, Mont., July 17.—H. Remus, a well-known horseman, hailing from Baker City, Oregon, attempted to kill Jack Brannan, a California fellow-horseman, yesterday afternoon at the Daly track. Remus walked up to Brannan and without a word of warning began blazing away at him. One bullet went wild, the second lodged in Brannan's hip and another grazed his thigh. Before Remus could fire again bystanders seized and disarmed him.

The two men had a row Monday over the entries and Remus declares Brannan beat him up. Remus secured a gun that night and as Brannan was talking to a track official yesterday afternoon, Remus, it is said, approached from behind and began firing.

Brannan will recover.

At a meeting of the stewards last night Remus was ruled off the track for life.
