STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

Table showing the current standings of baseball clubs.

San Francisco won another game in the ninth inning after Portland had thrown away odds of chances to bring it home.

In many senses it was a repetition of Monday's defeat, only yesterday the locals lifted the leather in right hearty style. They outbatted their opponents by 69 per cent, to be exact, but they also outerrored the men from the city of ashes—by 156 per cent.

Lovett's Costly Misjudgment.

It was in the first inning with two out and the bases full, Kid Kinsella was just pulling himself out of a nasty hole when Williams hit an error, and center field, Lovett made his error and two Seals flip-flopped across the broad path.

Monday's Atherton started at bat Tuesday he started in the error line.

Joey's Brilliant Career.

Barney Joy, who essayed to pitch the visitors into victory, got into the box with a little ceremony as McCredie has failed to use all his energy to the hitting line.

Portland's Easy Chances.

There were numerous other times when Portland's chances looked very bright. In the sixth, with only one out, Schimpff hit a three-bagger, and the third, while Henley swung ineffectively.

THE BEAVERS.

That won't come off, appears on baby's face after the great worm medicine. Why not keep that smile on baby's face? If you keep this medicine on hand you will never see anything else, but smiles on his face. Mrs. E. Blackwell, Oklahoma, writes:

HERE'S ANOTHER BALL PLAYER WHO HAS THE FIGHTING BUG

HERE'S ANOTHER BALL PLAYER WHO HAS THE FIGHTING BUG

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.) Seattle, July 18.—Every ball player whose size makes him look as if he might qualify as a heavyweight prizefighter, at some period in his career has a proposition made to him to take up the fighting game. The big Indian catcher for Portland, listened to Tom Corbett and Johnny Reid in Seattle last year until he really thought he was the coming heavyweight champion of the world and he posed for pictures, stripped to the waist, with his fists doubled under his arms to bulge the muscles out. But Larry could not lick a postage stamp and Corbett and Reid were only kidding him.

The last one to fall for this kind of bunk is Jack Meyers, the big Indian catcher of the Butte team. Biddy Bishop, who used to promote prize fights, but who is now a sporting writer in Tacoma, has been talking to the big Indian, and the following is the result: Jack Meyers, the big, good-natured catcher for Butte, is to become a pugilist.

This conclusion was arrived at Thursday night, when, in conversation with Burt Murphy, the pugilistic manager, who has been in Tacoma the past week, the big fellow stated he was tired of baseball and that he wanted to get into some business where the money would roll in fast and often.

"I have you ever thought of going into the fighting business?" asked the little manager. "You're a big fellow and if you are in favor of such sport you ought to do good." "I have thought of it," said Jack.

"Meyers, after he had had an awful, thought it over and then came to the conclusion that he was satisfied to start. He agreed to sign a five-year contract to work under Murphy's management, which will be the first stroke toward putting the big fellow into the boxing business.

"Meyers is 34 years of age, stands 6 feet 1/4 inches tall, and in his present good condition he weighs 225 pounds. "He comes from southern California, around the same neighborhood where Jim Jeffries developed, and it is a coincidence that Meyers used to box with Hank Griffin, the big colored heavyweight, who was the first man that ever tackled Jeffries. Meyers says he could "hang it on Griffin any time he wanted the ring again."

"It would be a funny snap if Murphy made a champion out of Butte's catcher. If it is in the big fellow Murphy ought to be able to bring it out, for he understands the game.

IS OLD ENGLAND A BACK NUMBER?

British Writer Points to the Fact That Isle Is Losing Her Grip in Sports.

WAS ONCE CHAMPION OF ALL THE WORLD

Now Belgium and Australia Excel in Rowing, Russia in Wrestling, France in Golf and America in Boxing and Many Other Sports.

By Richard Dahlgren. (Journal Special Service.) London, July 18.—Is old England losing her grip on all forms of sport? Once she stood at the top, but now a decline seems to have set in. This sad fact is pointed out by a Yorkshireman who has returned to old England after absence of 15 years, for a most interesting letter to a London daily he says:

"When I left home 15 years ago English sportsmen were preeminent all the world over. Now there is scarcely a championship remaining to us. A Belgian crew holds the Grand Challenge cup at Henley, the professional sculling championship is in the possession of an Australian, the wrestling champion of the world is a Russian, all the great professional boxers of recent years are Americans, at running, teams from Harvard and Yale come over and beat the picked athletes of our universities, we have recently lost our title at court tennis to the son of an American millionaire, and the tennis championship going this year to either America or Australia.

Fast Glory Has Departed.

"Even in purely British games such as cricket, football and golf, glory has to a certain extent departed. Cricketers from Australia and South Africa now meet upon equal terms, instead of coming here to learn how to play the game correctly. The pupil has progressed beyond the master, and now are the learners, both in batting and bowling.

"A football our case appears to be hopeless. In successive years teams from New Zealand and South Africa have made the golf championship, the country, not only degrading but routing all the teams opposed to them.

"Beaten Even at Golf. "And now, to crown all, a Frenchman has won the golf championship, the Scotland shares with England the disgrace of being defeated by a stranger, and the nation's pride is hurt. It is still held our own at hockey, perhaps at bowls, but there our superiority ends. I can only put down our decadence to lack of enthusiasm and ultra-conservatism. We are content to jog on in the same old way, while other nations are improving their methods and implements with such succeeding year, and unless we follow their example we shall be speedily left behind in the race for honors."

FITZ IS BEATEN; SAYS HELL FIGHT NO MORE

(Journal Special Service.) Philadelphia, July 18.—Champion of the world "Bob" Fitzsimmons was knocked out in the second round here tonight by Jack Johnson, the colored aspirant for heavyweight honors. The old fighter did not have a look-in at any stage of the fight, and Johnson's blow gave him out in the first round had he desired. "Fitz displayed not a hit but an old-time speed or shiftness and demonstrated beyond a possibility of a doubt that he is a dead one. Johnson, the victor, remarked Fitz after the battle, "and I'll never go into the ring again."

"Heinie" Knocks Home Run.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, July 18. It took 11 innings for the Angels to put it over the Computers here yesterday, 5 to 4. Heinie's home run was the feature.
