For the People

Let us argue together. Suppose you spend $10 a week for groceries, meats, etc. That is $520 per year. We say to you: Think, for as fine quality goods as you are now satisfied with, delivered at your home, we will save you $1.50 per week. In one year you will have saved $78 cash and lived just as well—facts.

What the Beef Trust Has Done and What It Is Doing to Injure the Standard of U. S. Government Inspection.

CHAPTER II.
 This Loveberry Ordinance was written up by the unscrupulous agent under the direct command of the two packing concerns who had U. S. government inspection of meats. The agent acknowledged it, the packers acknowledged it. The ordinance provided that the output of these two packing concerns—including the meats stamped by the fishermen—should be exempted of hand above suspicion. But the inspector was to keep a strict supervision over all other slaughtering in the city, and any farmer who shipped a veal, a porker, or a beef to the city must send it to one of the packers' plants to be inspected, and where the packers could deal it out to one of their pet markets. The unscrupulous agent said he knew he could control the office of City Inspector, and shades of David Harum! he wanted a horse and buggy to help him. There was to be no recourse from his position and he could "throw down" the products of the small independent packers and make them lose heavily.

People who took notice a year ago saw a sight that you won't see today—it was the spectacle of a paid U. S. government meat agent running hither and yon before the city council, the Health Board, the Mayor—any physician who would listen to him—and pleading for this ordinance which he himself had written, written for the benefit of these two packing plants. The opposition party was established and a fund put up to fight the ordinance. Farmers, county butchers, country merchants, stockmen, Portland's commission men and independent butchers all joined. Suit was brought under the name of the Frank L. Smith Meat company to annul the ordinance.

insurance. In a few weeks the building was struck by lightning and almost totally consumed by fire. Another one was erected. Mr. Sipes contributing the greater portion of the funds as before. This time the demand was almost unanimous that it be insured, but Mr. Sipes again, objected on the same ground.

"If it burns down again, brethren," he said, "I'll agree to rebuild it myself." Again he carried his point. In less than a month the new church was struck by lightning again, and although strenuous efforts were made to save it the loss was almost total.

"There must be some reason for this, brethren," said Brother Sipes. "I am going to find out what it is."

Thereupon he employed a force of men to sink a shaft on the site of the

A Howard of Faith.
 From the Youth's Companion.
 A congregation in a hilly district in Ohio bought a small tract of land and erected a church building upon it. Then the question of insurance came up. Mr.

Sipes, the wealthiest member, who had contributed more than half the money needed for the new structure, declared that he did not believe in insurance. "This is the Lord's building," he'll take care of it," he said.

His view prevailed and there was no twice destroyed church. Within a few days a rich vein of iron ore was found and the church property was sold for many times the amount needed to buy land in another locality and build again.

"I tell you, brethren," said Brother Sipes, "it pays to trust the lord. He's a great deal better business manager than anybody in this congregation."

His Deaf Friend's Mistake.
 "I always hate to tell a story," said a well-known actor at a banquet, "because my listeners may have heard it before. What boredom that is for them, what agony for me! It is like the case of a friend of mine. He is deaf, but up his hand as a sign that he wanted to conceal his deafness. One night at a dinner the host told a story at which everybody roared, and my deaf friend joined in and outcried the whole table, though in truth he hadn't heard a word.

"At the end of the laughter he held up his hand as a sign that he wanted to

"That story," he began, "reminds me of another—"

"And then the poor fellow went on and told the very same yarn the host had repeated only a minute before."
