SADDLE CAREER AS IT REALLY IS

Scores Remain Gallop Boys to Every One Who Becomes Successful Jockey.

BEST OF THEM ARE DOWN AND OUT EARLY

Top Notchers Sometimes Make a Million, but Life Is Fast and It Slips Away From Them—Some Famous Examples.

By J. E. MacDonald.
New York, July 19.—One of the foremost men of the turf said to me the other day: "Some rainy day when you are short a subject, just write a few words about the foolishness of parents and young boys imagining there is a golden fortune awaiting a career in the saddle. A lot of harm and trouble may be avoided through warning these deluded individuals."

It appears since the rise of Jockey "Marvelous" Miller, with all the newspaper talk of his enormous money-making capacity and regal life, a craze among parents to have their little boys schooled into jockeys has become rampant. Not a single big trainer on the metropolitan turf but has been pestered to distraction by would-be jockeys and their parental guardians who come around to the stables at Sheepshead Bay and Brighton Beach filled with the idea of their diminutive sons some day emulating little Miller.

Letters by the Thousand.

Letters by the thousand come in the mail from parents soliciting an engagement for their sons as apprentices. It has been always thus, but this season the fame of Miller has served to augment the output and to bring a big crop of cranks. As a matter of fact no fewer than seven parents, most of them straggling along with their boys by their side, visited the quarters of Trainer John Rodgers of the H. P. Whitney stable last Sunday.

Of this army not more than 10 will graduate into the saddle this summer. Then what is there to a jockey's career when one considers the future of middle age? The butterfly life of the star rider proves too great a temptation for even the strongest character. They spend their money and so train their bodies and minds that when the stern struggle comes after the heyday of the saddle they cannot take up the battle of life in other walks.

Few jockeys ever gain a life's competency. After a successful season and the earnings of thousands and thousands of dollars Arthur Redfern is round about the paddock just now, fat and dejected, wondering how he got into the life he is leading.

Millions Made but Spent.
"Tom" Sloan, "Snapper" Garrison, "Haghey" Penny, George Odom, Grover Fuller, Spencer, Hildebrand, Coburn and nearly all our race riders of prominence of the last 20 years are down on their luck right today, though they all should be rich and affluent.

Sloan and Garrison each made and spent $10,000 in the racing game. Sloan's training horses for H. McCarter Potter, while George Odom, only five years ago our premier rider and maker at least, is now a laborer, and is strong in the world's goods right now.

Fuller, perhaps the greatest rider of them all is down and out and crippled for life in the hospital. "Haghey" Penny used to demand $1,000 a month at Outenbergh. He is now galloping horses for $2 a week. Hildebrand has passed out of view, while the once great "Monk" Coburn is just a plain "hustler," Melbourne Thompson, who piloted Irish Red in his first winner's race, is a stable cook for John E. Madden. Hicks works for $1.25 a day as a laborer. Spencer would give his right eye to ride 4 to 5 favorite now. He is from pillar to post, too.

So the list goes. Isaac Murphy ("Marty" Bergen, "Fitz" Barnes, all dead in comparative obscurity. Lucien Lyna, one of the greatest riders, is now in England, a wanderer seeking mounts wherever he may find them. Considering the risks of human life and limb in race riding and the sour future, the name is scarcely worth the candle. Miller is well off today, so far as the public knows, but it will be interesting five years from now when his riding days shall have passed. Learn a few things from the lives of these jockeys. They are very rare.

How much will Miller have in hand when he is obliged to look to the 60 years still left in his life? Of course, there are exceptions. "Tommy" Burns, now in France, and "Willie" Shaw, in Germany, have been riding for over 15 years. Burns has safe investments in California, while "Willie" Shaw, in then Trainer "Jimmy" Rowe, of the Keene stable, was once a race rider. These are very rare.

As in every walk of life, the successes constitute a very small percentage of the workers in the rank and file. For instance, there are at least 2,000 gallop boys working every morning on the Long Island race tracks. They all hope to be jockeys some day.

Schimpff, Whose Fast Fielding at Short Has Won Him a Warm Place in the Hearts of the Portland Fans.

MIDSUMMER FIELD DAY IS ON PROGRAM OF MULTNOMAH CLUB

The outdoor committee of the Multnomah club, of which W. H. Kerrigan is chairman, has announced that an open handicap field day will be held on the Multnomah field on the afternoon of Saturday, August 10. It will be the first of a series of competitions for the purpose of developing local talent on the track and non-members will be as welcome to the races as members of the club. Winners of first, second and third prizes will be awarded with gold, silver and bronze medals, respectively. The events in the initial field day will number but six. There will be the 100-yard dash, the quarter mile run, the mile run, the high jump, the pole vault and a novice 100-yard dash. This last event will be open only to those who have never before competed in a track meet and indicates that the club is especially interested in encouraging young athletes to try themselves out on the track.

Rain interfered with the pulling off of the handicap meet in the spring, but a number of the club athletes have continued training ever since. While August is an early month for a field day, it is believed that enough athletes can be got together to make it worth while for a starter as it will be but a preliminary to larger meets which will be held in the future. The services of Jack King, the veteran trainer, are always at the disposal of members of the club seeking pointers in running or jumping.

LAST SHOOT AT THE IRVINGTON GROUNDS

Competition Will Be Open and Numerous Visitors Will Try for Money.

The last shoot of the Multnomah Rod and Gun club at its Irvington traps will be an open one and experts from many cities of Washington and Oregon will compete. The club is compelled to give up its Irvington grounds and Sunday's sport will be a fitting farewell to the scene of so many competitions.
Sunday's program will consist of 10 events, all of them individual scratch events, the number of birds in each case varying from 10 to 20, the entire number being 150. There will be cash money for first, second, third and fourth and, in addition, a gold medal will be given to the sportsman making the highest average on the day.
A special feature will be an exhibition of fancy rifle shooting by W. A. Hill, the well-known expert. The exhibition will take place at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The grounds will be open to the public. Take the Irvington car.

NATIONAL TOURNEY IN POLO AT CHICAGO

(Journal Special Service.)
Chicago, Ill., July 19.—Beginning today and continuing through the whole of next week, Chicago will be the center of interest for polo players throughout the country. The occasion is the national championship tournament, which opened auspiciously today on the grounds of the Onwentsia club. It is the first time in the history of the national organization that the championship, including the junior event, has been held in the west. Chicago and the Meadowbrook track have sent teams, though on the whole the east is doing so well represented numerically as had been hoped for. This is made up, however, by the larger representations of the middle west. Among the entrants are two polo teams from Fort Riley, Kansas, it being the first time in the history of polo in this country that the United States army has been represented in the national championship tournament. One army team is entered for the junior championship, and the other for the real championship. Itself, the winning club holding the William Waldorf Astor gold cup for the ensuing year.

Big Barney Joy, the imported Kanaka, took sweet revenge on the Portland ball tossers yesterday. Wednesday he was bombarded on the mountain in the third inning; Thursday his tearful request for another chance was granted and he let the locals down with one long run.

San Francisco's victory yesterday makes it three straight for the series and nine out of 10 for the past two series. Isn't it awful? Tuesday and Wednesday Portland had all kinds of chances to lug away the game. Yesterday they had "chances," but they were only ordinary. Indeed, the victory was an earned one, not one of Portland's four errors counting in the run-getting.

The Seals won by bunching hits and it was only the magnificent work of Schimpff, the little shortstop, that prevented the score from being a top-sided one.

Schimpff's Sensational Playing.
After three Seals had followed one another with safe bingles and two had passed across the plate in the fifth, a great play by Schimpff retired the side and cut off the run-getting.

In the sixth the Seals again got three hits in succession and filled the bases, but two fast plays by the little shortstop killed them there and a big, round turkey egg loomed high on the scoreboard.

But the greatest play of the day by far was a stunt by the Dutch lad in the third. Shaughnessy was walked and Mohler hit a high fly and there was only one out the outlook was a murky one. Up comes Wheeler and lands a terrific swing square on the snout of the pitcher. It travels in a lightning flash and hits the dirt just back of the base line. Schimpff makes a sidewise jump and lifts the sphere in a pretty scoop. Grip it tight, runs to second, hits the bag and whips to first, completing one of the prettiest double plays of the season and retiring the side.

Remarkable Day's Record.
The majority of Schimpff's chances were made ordinarily hard to get, but he gobbled up everything that came his way. Nine assists and four put-outs is the remarkable record and his only error was a low throw which allowed a first baseman would usually have held on the scoop. Without exaggeration, there is no faster infielder in the league than Schimpff. He is fast and overanxious and he makes errors, but if he did could just learn to bat a little better McCredie would never look for another chance.

Lib Joy kept Portland's hits scattered and her lone run was partially due to an error on the part of Wheeler. Wheeler did not score for the Seals and he started on Wheeler's fumble, advanced on Casey's sacrifice and came home on McCredie's slow hit. Lovett got the pitcher, retired the runner by that no never passed the far corner. Street's arm was working perfectly and his throw to second was a strong factor in the victory. Score:

TENNIS INCREASING IN POPULARITY IN EAST

Lawn tennis as a pastime has made giant strides in popularity in the metropolitan district during the past few years, until today no country club is complete without its courts, and the number of private clubs is rapidly increasing.

In Central park, located on what are known as the north and south meadows, there are about 145 tennis courts, all of them being of grass. The park department maintains the courts and keeps them marked out, the only requirement of those using the grounds being that they must furnish nets, rackets and balls.

In the borough of the Bronx the general public has access to 87 lawn tennis courts.

There are a total of 206 public tennis courts in the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, Prospect park, Brooklyn, having 206 of the number.

GOLD HILL WILL GET WHATEVER IS COMING

Chamber of Commerce to Promote Electric Roads and Encourage Factory Enterprises There.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Gold Hill, Or., July 19.—Gold Hill will shortly start a campaign of progress. This is a short notice of the new electric of a new body known as the Gold Hill chamber of commerce, which was organized this afternoon by the presence of a meeting of the natural resources of the Rogue River valley, in the very center of which Gold Hill is located. There is no other city to which all roads lead as they do to this place. Any map of southern Oregon will show that the old wagon road to Fort Klamath is out of Gold Hill, and the road passes Crater lake and the newly discovered coal fields, which are believed to be the most extensive in the state. The new electric railroad is planned to cover the same lines as the old wagon road, and it is at present to be extended to the coal fields and later to Fort Klamath.

The Gold Hill chamber of commerce has under consideration the setting apart of sites for factories, the establishing of a bathing beach on the river, which at this place has been provided by nature, and to encourage the erecting of a new hotel, which is demanded by the traveling public. The present hotel facilities are entirely inadequate to meet the present demand.
