

GLADSTONE PARK BACK TO FOREST PRIMEVAL

Lights Flew, Garlands Dead and All Chautauquans Departed.

NO SUCH SEASON IN ASSEMBLY'S HISTORY

Manager Fuller Earns Thanks—Association's Ledger Shows Balance on Right Side—Three Delightful Sessions Yesterday—Moving Day.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Oregon City, July 22.—Owing to the courtesy of General Manager Fuller of the O. W. P. company the Chautauque camp remained almost intact until this morning. Many had made preparations to leave yesterday afternoon, as the Chautauque managers announced that on Sunday evening the special cars running into the park would cease. The difficulty that people encountered when they arrived, in getting their camp outfit transported, again started them in the face and preparations for a general exodus were being made, when several indignant and disappointed women put their heads together in consultation, with the result that Manager Fuller was reached by telephone and when the matter was properly stated to him by the young woman in charge of the Young Woman's Christian Association headquarters he very graciously and promptly said the cars should run from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday.

This was immediately announced in the large auditorium and like wildfire it flew over the grounds and almost entirely put a stop to the preparation for hasty leave-takings.

Made Sunday a Real Sabbath. The sky overcast with clouds when the Chautauquans awoke Sunday morning was a welcome change after the intense heat of Saturday, and, but for the fact that the alternative was presented to them of packing up and going home that day, or suffering a long dusty walk and delayed baggage on Monday, everyone would have entered into the Sunday rest with a feeling of delight and pleasure at the prospect of a cool, comfortable day in the grove, hence the message that gave them the reprieve was doubly welcome and had the effect of making everybody happy and putting them into a Sunday frame of mind.

Three Happy Sessions. The whole day was delightfully informal and devoid of the exercises and music warmed the heart as the pleasant converse of friends rather than as the entertainment of an assembly.

No sooner had the clouds of the morning broken away, assuring pleasant weather, than the cars began coming in full of people, and when the Sunday school opened at 11 a. m. the auditorium was pretty well filled, and each session during the day showed an increased attendance.

The devotional exercises in the early morning were well attended and were conducted by Rev. Hiram Vrooman of Portland. The Sunday school at 11 a. m. was under the auspices of the State Sunday School association and was led by President R. K. Steele.

At the afternoon and evening services the Chautauque chorus appeared and delighted everyone. Dr. Heritage has been the recipient of many and hearty congratulations upon his work with this chorus, which is certainly in its execution a testimonial to his ability as a leader.

Both services Dr. Heritage and Miss Johnson sang solos, and it was with much regret the Chautauque audience bid adieu to these two prime favorites.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Grace Methodist church, and Right Reverend Charles Scadding, bishop of Oregon, preached in the afternoon and evening respectively. It is the first time this season that Portland ministers have occupied the platform, afternoon or evening services being given at other points, the strong, forceful sermons they preached, and the feeling was universal that Portland offered as good ministerial talent as any that could be brought from abroad.

Success Financially. For the first time in several years the Chautauque assembly closes its course with a balance on the right side of the ledger. When the old O. W. P. took its track up between the main line and Gladstone Park, something like five years ago, and the patrons of Chautauque had to go to the east side to take the Southern Pacific train, and then had the long dusty walk up from the railroad station, they began to dwindle and fewer each year went to the meeting, until last year it fell to a low point, and when the fact that the attendance was concerned and the deficit was increasing at such an alarming rate that for some months last year it was a serious problem whether or not another assembly would be held.

But the courage of those who had so long sustained it was indomitable and by effecting a reorganization, and beginning over again, as it were, this session just passed was made possible. Had the attendance been small and the expenses not met this year, unquestionably last night would have written "finis" to any further attempts to maintain the Willamette Valley Chautauque.

An Assembly Next Year. General discouragement prevailed the opening days of this assembly, but as the program and the excellent management of the weather clerk in handling out genuine Oregon summer weather, the attendance increased rapidly each day until Saturday, when it equaled any day, with one exception, in the 14 years' history of the Chautauque.

Breaking Camp This Morning. This morning at daybreak the whole camp was up and stirring. Tentpins were drawn, bedding was bunched into rolls and furniture was piled high. Women hurried hither and yon. The callous expressman was mixing up everybody's effects like a sausage machine. But by some kind of psychological influence everybody eventually got what was coming to them, and then, presto! the exodus, and by night the beautiful grove will be as silent as the forest primeval, and no sound save the tinkling of cattle will be heard until it awakens to the joyous music of another Chautauque a year hence.

WHAT TO DO WHEN ELEVATOR FALLS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Spokane, Wash., July 22.—Lewis Elvignon and a young woman, a stenographer, had a close call in the Rookery building yesterday. The two were descending from the seventh floor and had reached the fifth floor, when the elevator broke loose and fell five stories. Through the presence of mind of Elvignon, the operator, he jumped out of the car, and the girl in his arms was several inches from the floor. Thus both received a severe shock but were not seriously hurt. The mirrors were broken and the cage was generally demoralized. The breaking of a valve caused the accident.

STARVATION IN WAKE OF A HAILSTORM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Cottonwood, Idaho, July 22.—By the terrible hail storm that visited this locality about a month ago the crops were destroyed. The farmers here are compelled to dispose of their hogs and cattle for lack of feed. In many cases a large amount of money is being spent to ship in feed, and keep the stock from starving. Cottonwood is in the midst of a very rich and fertile country and never in the memory of the oldest settler did ever such a calamity befall this district before.

BABY SCALDED TO DEATH IN WASH TUB

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Spokane, Wash., July 22.—Mildred, the 2-year-old daughter of Fred Marshall, an irrigation engineer at Opportunity, fell into a tub of boiling water Saturday and was scalded to death. Mrs. Marshall was washing and had the baby sitting on a bench beside the tub. She went into the house a moment and returning found the little tot screaming and scrambling helplessly, and fatally scalded.

LIGHT PLANT BURNS AT COTTAGE GROVE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Willamette Valley Electric Light company's plant was burned to the ground at this place at 1 o'clock yesterday. Hard work by the firemen kept it out of the Brown Lumber company's yard and mill. The fire caught in the roof of the boiler house. It is not known where the spark came from.

DROP A DOLLAR EVERY 10 MINUTES

Eilers Piano House Adopts a Novel Plan for Quick Disposal of a Number of Used Instruments.

The Buyer Names His Own Figure, and Is Sure of a Bargain of Exceptional Nature in Every Case—Sale Will Be Continued Tuesday and Wednesday—See Windows.

In most business transactions the seller sets the price, but for once, this order of things has been changed, and at the special piano sale now in progress at Eilers Piano House the buyer names his own figure, starting this morning. Portland's busiest Piano House inaugurated a novel idea, designed to dispose quickly of a number of used instruments, which have been taken in exchange recently on Weber and Chickering Grand, Pianola Pianos and other popular makes in the Line of Highest Quality.

At 8 o'clock this morning the first three of the instruments to be sold were placed in their large corner window, and a sign posted to the effect that the pianos, every ten minutes a dollar was deducted from the price of each instrument, amounting to $4 the first hour, and a like amount each succeeding hour. At the time this was written there were a number of interested piano seekers, closely watching the drop of the figures, and the point to be reached which they had fixed as the price they would be willing to pay, and indications were for a quick turn to be accomplished by some of the watchers before many more dollars would be clipped off.

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the second three of these instruments will be placed in the window and a like plan adopted. For Tuesday's sale the following pianos are to be offered: A Ludwig, sold by other dealers at $350 will be started at $240. Another make, Sherwood & Son, the $350 style, will be started at $235. A Lester Grand, a beautiful piano of exquisite tone and splendid quality, concludes the Tuesday trio, this instrument being one that was used a limited time by one of Portland's leading musicians, who has left the city, and instead of the regular $750, this magnificent piano will be started at $410.

And just think of it! A dollar off the starting price on each piano every ten minutes. The starting prices represent liberal values in themselves, and those who secure these pianos at a less figure will certainly be getting a very unequalled in the history of piano selling in Portland. Each instrument may be critically examined in the window, and interested musicians invited to enter a bid at the price they will give, taking their chances on securing their choice if the price drops to their figure, or they may watch the price until they close a sale of the piano before some rival binner slips in ahead. In any event, purchasers are sure of decisive bargains, even if the piano is bought at starting figures, but with more or less reduction, as may be expected, the bargain nature of the purchase will certainly be unusual.

Three more instruments will be offered Wednesday, on the same plan, and if you are in the market for a piano, it will certainly be to your interest to watch this sale. Easy payments will be accepted on each piano, and a small payment down will place any one of the instruments in your home at once. Watch the window, watch the clock, watch the price and buy at your own figure. This is by all means the greatest chance ever offered to piano seekers in this city. It's a novel idea, fair to every one, and you pay just what you think the pianos are worth. Don't miss it. Remember, it's at Eilers Piano House, the House of Highest Quality, the wide-awake Park, 353 Washington street, corner of Park.

HEAVEN'S GIANT POWDER FROM MIDST OF FIRE

J. D. Adams of Hatton, Washington, Prevents Explosion That Would Have Scattered Death.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Spokane, Wash., July 22.—The presence of mind and nerve of J. D. Adams of Hatton, Washington, prevented Saturday what might have been a dreadful calamity. He and several others were loading powder into a wagon from a car. The wagon bed was lined with hay. A train passed after half a load was in, and a spark set the hay fire. The men were in the car and when the danger was discovered most of them fled, but Adams jumped into the wagon and threw the powder out. There was both black and giant powder in the load. The teamster came to his assistance. Then the horses ran away, scattering the dynamite along the track, but the fire having been put out by Adams with his bare hands, there remained no danger to the car or powder. Fifty persons were close enough to the powder car to have been killed had it exploded.

RUSH FOR SCOTT'S MILLS

Great Deal of Development Work Going on Quietly in This Section. Reports of experts who have lately visited Scott's Mills district, including there are immense deposits of a good quality of coal in this vicinity. The company actively engaged in developing this section is spending a great amount of money and there is little doubt regarding the announcement unofficially made that the coal will be delivered to consumers in Portland the coming winter.

A tract of land acquired by a Portland firm near where this company is operating has been looked over by the well known expert, Mr. Mitchell, and according to his opinion there are large crops of coal on the tract. Few have an adequate idea of the natural resources of this portion of the Willamette valley. The branch road of the Southern Pacific now being built from Mt. Angel to Scott's Mills, passes near a mountain of lime recently bought by Mr. Swift. It is said there are many opportunities for speculation in this vicinity which doubtless will become more active when the railroad is completed. In going to Scott's Mills on branches of at Woodburn and goes to Mt. Angel, which is one station north of the old town of Silverton. Scott's Mills is five miles east of Mt. Angel. Abundant crops of large and small fruits, wheat, hops, alfalfa, timothy, etc., are grown on the agricultural lands around Scott's Mills. At Mt. Angel the schools and industries have a coast-wide reputation.
