

SALOONMEN OF ALBINA EXPRESSING GREAT JOY

Transposition of Numbers by City Authorities Caused Dr. G. L. Tufts to Make Mistake With Regard to Precincts 40, 55, 56 and 57—Some Are Already Dry.

Albina saloonmen are joyful today but the opposite state of mind envelopes Dr. G. L. Tufts, who recently made the discovery that precincts 40, 55, 56 and 57 were wet when the people had voted them dry at the June election.

Deputy District Attorney Adams and Deputy City Auditor M. A. McEachern of the license department found yesterday afternoon that all precincts in the city which had voted dry in 1905 were now dry and that a transposition of the numbers by the city authorities since that time had caused Dr. Tufts to err. According to the discovery the precincts cited by Dr. Tufts had not voted dry, some had not even voted on the local option question and as a consequence all the excitement and agitation has come to naught.

No Record on Books.

Following the discovery made by Dr. Tufts some time ago the matter was taken up with the county court by him and an examination of the records revealed that while the election returns 1905 showed that precincts 40, 55, 56 and 57 had voted dry and the result of the vote had been transmitted by the city auditor to the county clerk no record had been made of the fact in the county books. It was therefore the belief of Dr. Tufts that owing to this fact the saloons were running contrary to law.

County Judge Webster looked into the matter at the request of Dr. Tufts and discovered that while the election returns called for prohibition in the four precincts there were certainly saloons now in operation there. The court therefore entered its order of prohibition to cover the four districts "nunc pro tunc" and the district attorney acted upon this order prepared to put the saloons out of business. Yesterday morning orders were written and ready for service by the district attorney's office giving all the saloons 10 days time in which to close up their business. Deputy Adams made a last trip to the city hall to check up the precinct boundaries because of the fact reported that what is now precinct 57 had at the time of the 1905 election extended into the present boundaries of precinct 58.

When the old precinct maps were brought out and an examination made it was discovered that precinct 40 in 1905 was the same territory now incorporated in precinct 39, the present precinct 55 was then precinct 50, precinct 56 now was then precinct 51, precinct 57 now was then precinct 52. An examination of the records showed that prohibition was now being enforced in all of these districts.

This discovery took the wind out of the district attorney, the county court and all parties concerned. Deputy Adams hastily recalled his notices prepared for service on the saloonmen and the excitement was at an end.

Judge Webster Muddled.

County Judge Webster says he has hardly recovered from the mental twisting yet. He had not remembered the vote of 1905 when Dr. Tufts paid him a visit and therefore followed the record entirely. The oversight of the clerk's office made things very indefinite as it left the record incomplete. In order to remedy the lapse in the record and forgetful of the recent change in the city's precinct numbers, Judge Webster entered his "nunc pro tunc" order, using the numbers of the precincts found on the ballots and applying them to the new numbers in the city books. This transferred the local option blanket from its two-year-old resting place in Woodlawn to Albina, which district wished it not.

Saloonmen in Albina are happy. Much excitement prevailed at the discovery made by Dr. Tufts and in the turmoil all parties forgot the change in the districts. The ballots seemed proof enough and all parties were prepared to bow to fate. Many saloonmen protested that the enforcement of the order within 10 days meant virtual condemnation of their property, as they had long leases and had made extensive improvements.
