With today's play the Oregon tennis championships will be completed in every event to the semi-final round, and some events to the final round. The four third-round matches in the men's singles are scheduled today, one for 11, two for 2 o'clock and one for 3 o'clock.

At 11 o'clock Wickersham meets the winner of the Lewis-McMillan match to decide who goes into the semi-finals. At 2 o'clock the Bethel-Rohr match fights it out with the winner of the Prince-Turner match, and at 3 Wildier and Corbett play.

Both semi-final matches in the men's doubles will be played at 5 o'clock. The drawings in this event were such that neither of these matches are likely to be at all close, but the finals, which may be scheduled for tomorrow should be first class.

Doubles Teams in Finals.
By defeating Bethel and Ewing in straight sets yesterday Case and Lewis went into the semis. Tyler and Armstrong put out Benham and Andrews in straight sets, also. Case and Lewis and Tyler and Armstrong will undoubtedly meet in the finals, and a great match should result. Tyler is a brilliant player, while Armstrong is very accurate. Lewis and Case are both playing fine doubles. Lewis showed very strong in his volley yesterday.

The semi-finals in the ladies' singles will both be played today, one at 2 o'clock and the other at 3 o'clock. Miss Fording meets the winner of the Joseph-Baldwin match, and judging by her form so far, she should win. At 2 o'clock Mrs. Cook meets the winner of the Rohr-Bethel match. This match should go to Mrs. Cook. The finals will be played tomorrow, and should develop into a lady tennis of the tournament so far. Saturday the winner will play Miss Heitsh in the final round.

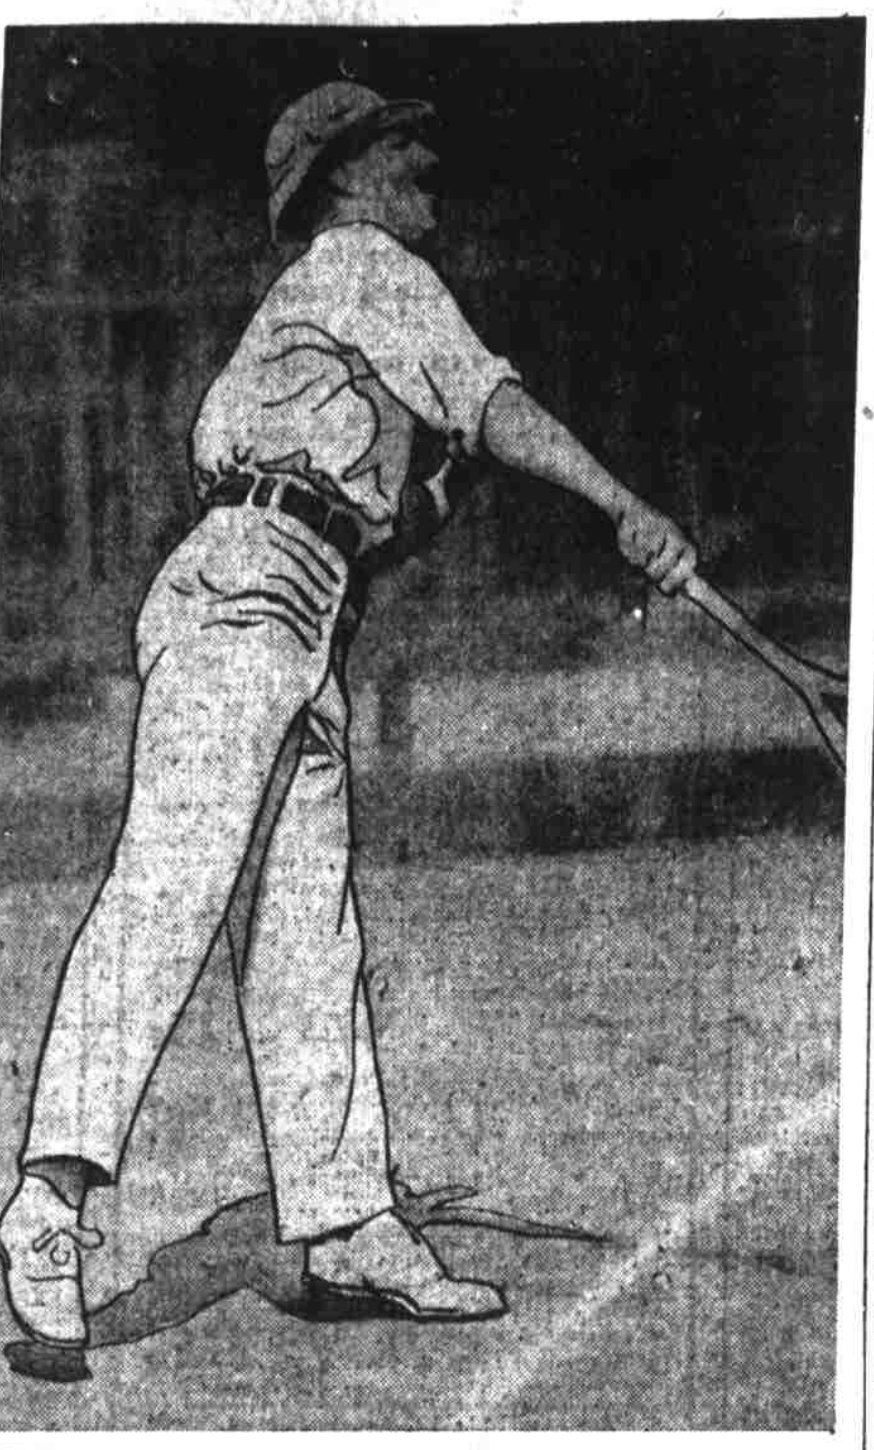

The ladies' doubles will only be completed to the semi-finals today, as there is no challenge match to be played. At 3 o'clock Mrs. Cook and Miss Fox will play Miss Bueb and Miss Frohman. The feature of the early afternoon will probably be the first round of the mixed doubles, the winners going to the semi-finals. At 2 o'clock one of the first-round matches will be played, and at 3 three others will be on at the same time.

Yesterday's Summary.

OLYMPIC ENTRIES TO BE CLOSELY EXAMINED

American entries to the Olympic games, to be held in London in the summer of 1908, will be investigated thoroughly before being accepted by a committee of the British Olympic association. The many events are only open to bona fide amateurs and competitors, and no matter how distant homes may be they must not have their traveling expenses paid for them. It is only fair to the United States athletes, however, to say that the standing of the candidates of all other countries will also be closely investigated by special committees. But England fears the American the most, and from what is heard the committee on the United States entries will conduct a remarkably strict inquiry. Lord Howard de Walden will be chairman of the committee, and will have the assistance of Secretary J. E. Sullivan of the American Amateur Athletic association.

The games next year promise to be the greatest world's sports carnival ever held. Should the Americans win a majority of the events they will be able to demand that the games of 1910 be held in the United States. The Franco-British exposition to be held at Shepherd's Bush, London, is defraying the cost of the games in construction of tracks and building equipment, attendance and advertising. Work was begun last week.

AQUATIC TOURNEY AT JAMESTOWN BEGINS

Norfolk, Va., July 25.—What promises to be the most notable tournament of aquatic events ever held in this country began at the Jamestown exposition today, and will continue through the remainder of the week. The program for the three days embraces the following events:

Busher Pernoll made his bow to the Portland fans yesterday. And the Portland fans liked him. They will be glad to see Busher Pernoll again at a very early date.

Busher Pernoll is a short, stout youth of 19, who learned to curve a ball somewhere near the pretty town of Grants Pass. He pitched some amateur games and got a big strikeout reputation which he struck out several neighborhoods. Some professional or another saw him work one day and said "Good stuff!"

Months afterwards, seeing Walter McCredie with a small box of pitchers, the professional thought himself of the stout boy of the mountains and mentioned him to McCredie.

McCredie was looking for good things that wouldn't cost much, and when he came north the last time he sent word to Pernoll to join the Beaver bunch on the way up. Pernoll joined and in years to come the records will show that the fat boy won his first game twirled in fast company.

Makes Auspicious Start.

Pernoll got on the good side of the fans right away by striking out Mr. Bernard and Mr. Carlisle, two star batters of the league's leaders, if you please. After that he struck out another every now and then. Pernoll's broad-winning arm is his left and his jerky fielding drop looked so bad to Bernard that he tried to punt. Carlisle tried to punt, too, and so did Dillon, but none of them got to first.

"A bonanza? Pshaw! I'll sell him for a cool $2,000 inside of three months," thought McCredie, or something to that effect.

More innings rolled around. When five were gone the Angels were still blanked and but three hits had been scored, two by Cravath and a double by Burns. In the sixth the youth let down and the visitors hit him three times, putting one man across the plate. McCredie was wise. He put Pernoll out and the kid was retired with honor, not with disgrace.

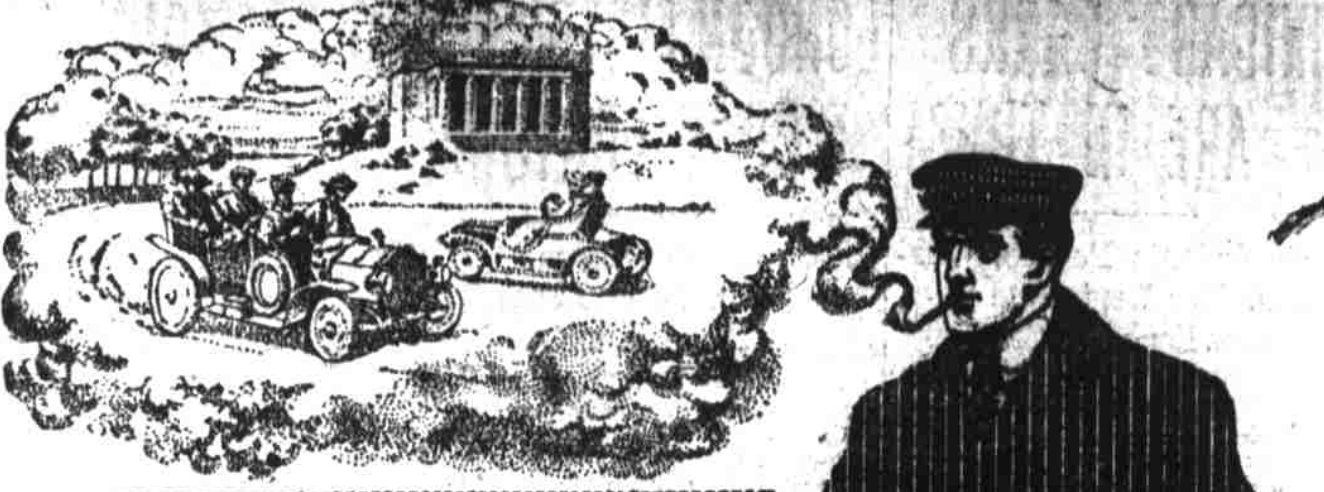

Pernoll Feature of Game.

Pernoll was easily the feature of yesterday's game. Otherwise it was a batting match in which the locals came out of the scramble on top. Oh, yes, there was another—a secondary feature. It was Keith, the umpire. My, what an eye! The Angels howled and sometimes the fans howled, though most of the kicking was done by the visitors. When Keith called Smith out at third when the latter tried to make a double-stealer out of his right field hit, the big third baseman advanced upon Keith with clenched fist and threatening eye.

Keith looked fierce, too, but Smith went so far in his wrath as to grab Keith and shake him. That's where Keith showed himself easy. He ought to have put Smith out of the game and plastered a big, thick fine on the player. But he didn't. He just let him play on—after he had persuaded Smith and his teammates to go back to their places and let the game go on.

Buns Bunched in Third.

The Beavers made all their runs in the third inning. Lovett, Mott and Casey all got hits one after another and filled the bases. Atherton hit one which Delmas muffed and Lovett and Mott scored. McCredie followed with a grounder to Brushbear, and Casey scored. That was all.

Portland might have done something in the first, but poor base running knocked the chances. Lovett and Mott were on the first two bags when Casey bunted. He thought it was a foul and refused to run. Lovett and Mott were both slow about running and the Angels came very near scoring a triple play. As it was, Lovett and Casey were put out. The official score:

FOOTBALL STAR NOT TO RETURN TO EUGENE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
University of Oregon, Eugene, July 25.—Frank Tompelson, a former university football star, while visiting here stated that he would not enter college next fall and play football. Last winter it was reported that he intended to return to college and finish his course, but now it appears Oregon will not have the veteran halfback to fill the gaps in last year's team.

Tompelson is one of the famous Tompelson brothers, who have played such prominent parts in student affairs at the university.

DURING the year ending April, 1907, Three Hundred and Nine Thousand, Eight Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars were paid in premiums to outside companies for liability, indemnity and accident insurance. Oregon residents should have Oregon insurance, keeping the wealth of their state within itself for the benefit of its own people. Policies issued by the Union Guarantee Association of Portland, Oregon, parallel in every advantageous feature those of the oldest and strongest outside companies. There is a paid-up cash capital of One Hundred Thousand Dollars. It has the backing of twenty-two well known, successful Portland business men.
