North Beach

this beach is much harder of access than those on the Oregon side and that the railroad is not at any pains to be accommodating, in spite of the fact that other resorts are advertised to afford more amusement, pleasure and diversion for the summer resident, North Beach still holds its own and always will be popular. Nowhere can be found such a perfect beach, such an atmosphere of freedom from city life, for unlike the other resorts there are no formal highways, streets or city lots-it is just one long open stretch of green, green grass, overlooking a smooth, white beach absolutely free from rocks or pebbles and with a wide expanse of ocean-30 miles of blue water and white seafoam.

On a sunny day there could be nothing more giorious than the Pacific, seen from the windows of the hotels and cottages, nearly all of which are located with an unobstructed view of the ocean and which are now well filled with people enjoying the pleasant weather and the exhilerating air of this resort. Cottages are already at a pre-mium and the hotels are taxed to their capacity. Evidences of the large population of the summer city are the hun-dreds of bonfires which dot the beach for miles each evening, each one sur-rounded by a throng of merrymakers, the countiess number of conveyances carrying sightseers and picnickers up and down the beach and the great and down the beach and the great crowds of enthusiastic bathers which blacken the surf from the rocks to

The week has been gay with enter-tainments of every kind and the spirit of merry-making seems to have taken possession of everyone.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbets was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomack, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing the Breakers on Saturday, staying until home to the public a parallel fact; that the somack is the most vulnerable organ the state of th out of the prixe ring as well as in it. We protect pur heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the tehrach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Plerce's Golien Medical Discovery, and you project vourself in your most vulner-able spot. Each evening finds the large parlor of the Hotel Breakers crowded with devotees of the fascinating game of bridge. The guests of the hotel have planned a series of games, the prize each evening to be a silver souvenir spoon. Among those who are playing are Mrs. Fred Rothchild, Mrs. Ed Ehrman, Mrs. L. Samuel. Mrs. Clarence Samuel, Mrs. Coarjes Rosenfeld, Mrs. Bert Irwin, Mrs. George Boschke, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Simon, of Portland, and Mrs. S. Rosenhaupt, Mrs. Weed, of Spokane, Mrs. E. J. organstern, Mrs. H. Preston and Mrs. M. Gottstein of Seattle. The prizes thus far have been wen by Mrs. Rosenhaupt, Mrs. M. A. Gotstein and twice by Mrs. L. Samuel. Never before in the history of this resort has so many horses been seen on the beach. Riding and driving is the favorite sport this year and those fortunate enough to have their own carriages are indeed the envy of every one, for with a smooth stretch of beach for miles and miles, there is nothing so exhilirating and no pleasure more enjoyable than driving behind a fast horse or riding full speed beside the ocean's edge.

Mrs. Louis Levinson, quartered at Seaview for the season, gave a luncheon, followed by bridge, on Saturday last. The house and table were artistically decorated in huckleberries, the green branches and red betries blending effectively with the color scheme of the cottage. Elaborate refreshments were served to the guests at the close of a very pleasant afternoon. Those present if were Misses Henrietta and Frances Harris, Mrs. S. Rosenhaupt, Mrs. Charles I Rosenfeld, Mrs. T. N. Lipman, Miss I Helen Rosenfeld and Mrs. Baruh.

The shell road resembles a Midway with its many booths and various other attractions. The latest amusement is the moving picture theatre tent which is situated near the bridge. Bowling and target shooting are always popular and the skating rink attracts the young people.

The best attended dance of the season was given at the Shell road pavilion last Saturday night. Wednesday night dances at both the Shell road and Octagon pavilion are also well attended.

The stricken billows leap away
With trampling thunders in the gale,
And staggering blindly to the fray
The strong ship starts each bolt and stay;
Her cordage shrieks, and with a wall
Sha plunges downward in the gloom She plunges downward in the gloom Of rearing gorges, hearse with doom, And none alive may tell the tale.

What thoughts there came of home and What prayers were said; what kisses thrown, thrown,
Were lost upon the wind, that lends
Its borrowed wrath no more, yet blends
A sigh of trouble with the moan
That sadly haunts the restless waves—
Forever rolling o'er the caves,
Where richer things than pearls are strewn.

They smiled one day, and came no morel
All else is wrapped in mystery;
The surges kneel upon the shore
And tell their sorrow o'er and o'er And still above the northern sea, A pensive spirit, pale and slow, The gray gull, wheeling to and fro, The gray gull, wheeling to and f Keeps watch and ward eternally.
