WAITING UPON HENEY

Time for Resuming Trial of Oregon Land Fraud Cases Will Be Decided at Conference in San Francisco Participated in by Garfield.

The time for the resumption of the Oregon land fraud cases is now up to Francis J. Heney and Secretary of the Interior Garfield and a decision is expected at any time. Mr. Heney and the secretary are conferring over the question in San Francisco and when the result of their conference is made public with it will undoubtedly come the announcement of the date upon which the trial in Portland will be resumed.

The question at issue between the two men is whether or not it will be possible for Mr. Heney to return to Portland and take active charge of the future trials in which he is interested. If he can come, then the date of his coming will be decided upon and the work here will be shaped according to that date. If he cannot come, or if his coming will be too long delayed, then it is very probable that he will withdraw from further connection with the cases and District Attorney Bristol will assume their entire direction.

Word from San Francisco is expected at any time now giving the result of the conference between Secretary Garfield and Mr. Heney, and it is almost certain that some definite announcement of future plans will be made early in the coming week.

An arrangement has been made between the general land office and the district attorney's office here, according to report, by which the old close connection between Special Inspector T. B. Neuhausen and his assistants and the office of the district attorney will be resumed. Commissioner Ballinger and H. H. Schwartz, chief of the department of lands and railroads, held a long session with the district attorney yesterday and after Mr. Ballinger left the city during the afternoon Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Bristol were closeted together until late at night.

At that meeting it is understood that final arrangements were made for the cooperation of Mr. Neuhausen and Mr. Bristol and the transfer of all papers, documents and evidence concerning land cases, which have been collected, either relating to those cases in which indictments have been returned or in those which have been prepared for submission to the federal grand jury.

It is certain therefore that all arrangements have been made for the resumption of the land trials immediately upon the settlement of Mr. Heney's future course of action. In view of the great amount of work piled up before him in San Francisco it is believed probable that he will not be able to come to Portland in the near future, in which event Mr. Bristol will reopen the casess.

Owing to the congested condition of the docket, it is probable that the cases will not be opened before first Monday in October, the time set by Judge Wolverton for calling a trial jur- for ...e consideration of all criminal cases other than the land fraud cases.

chard there can be no conviction. It is not necessary, however, to have corroborative evidence that itself should be sufficient to show the commission of the crime or connect the defendant with it. It is sufficient if it tends to connect the defendant with it. It is sufficient if it tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime charged."

The judge concluded as follows: "You are instructed that under the indictment in this case the defendant may, if the evidence warrants, be convicted of murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree or manslaughter, or you may find him not guilty."

Haywood was surrounded by his entire family this morning and looked decidedly perturbed and nervous. The courtroom was crowded during the reading of the instructions.

GOOD NEWS

Many Portland Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Portland are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. A. Canavan of 330 Lincoln street, Portland, Or., says: "I was led to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills three years ago from the great relief I had found in a case of kidney complaint which had annoyed me for a long time. I tried other remedies previously, but Doan's Kidney Pills were the only remedy that helped me. My trouble had lasted for three y-ars during which time I suffered from irregular action of the kidneys and backache. At times I was in such misery with the aching and weakness that I could not rest in any position. I suffered from headaches and dizziness and could hardly attend to the simplest of household duties. Doan's Kidney Pills freed me from this miserable existence and I never have lost an opportunity to recommend the remedy. In fact, I gave a public testimony in 1903, which I am glad to repeat and confirm."

WHISKERS HAD TIME TO GROW

Hence Plaintiff Walton Lost in His Action for Assault.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Hood River, Or., July 27.—A case that has caused widespread interest at Hood River came up for trial before Judge Henderson yesterday and occupied the attention of the court and 12 good men and true selected from among the city's most prominent business men, when P. S. Fouts, one of Hood River's best known citizens and proprietor of the Hotel Waucoma, was charged by S. M. Walton, proprietor of a lodging-house here, with setting fire to the latter's whiskers. The case is an outcome of Hood River's big Fourth of July celebration and has been hanging fire since in an attempt to produce witnesses of the conflagration. It was also delayed by the fact that the prosecuting attorney could not at first determine just what charge to proceed under. Mr. Walton's first complaint contained the charge of arson, but as the state's attorney could not discover any procedure in the statutes that covered arson of the whiskers the complaint was finally to assault and battery.

At the trial the complainant stated that the defendant deliberately struck a match and touched it to his long, flowing hirsuteness with malice aforethought and damaged it considerably. He further alleged that had he not quickly quenched the smoking alfalfa it would have injured him severely or possibly caused his death from inhaling the flames.

What the Defendant Said.

The story of the defendant was to the effect that the ignition was caused by accident, that plaintiff had been drinking heavily in his excess of joy at being able to celebrate the glorious Fourth as becomes every free American citizen and that the conflagration was due either to spontaneous combustion or a lighted cigar stump that unknown to the plaintiff alighted in his luxuriant beard.

For two hours, judge, counsel and jury, surrounded by an audience that filled the city hall and extended out into the street, perspired in an effort to discover just how Mr. Walton's whiskers were set on fire, whether or not the defendant did it purposely and how much damage plaintiff had sustained, if any. The whiskers were placed in evidence and although not handled by the jury, the damage seemed to them so slight that they rendered a verdict of not guilty after a few minutes' deliberation.

It is stated by the friends of the plaintiff that his failure to get redress is due to the fact that too much time was allowed to elapse between the alleged conflagration and the trial, giving Mr. Walton's whiskers an opportunity to assume their normal appearance.

SAD HOMECOMING OF FLOYD KING

Well Known Real Estate Dealer Finds His Wife's Body in River.

Returning to his snug little houseboat, moored on the Willamette near Fulton, upon the conclusion of his day's labors at 7 o'clock last evening, only to find his pretty 19-year-old wife lying dead in the river and his little 7-months-old child crying bitterly for its mother, was the bitter experience of Floyd King, a well-known real estate dealer.

Surprised upon coming home that his loved one was not waiting to greet him as was customary, King made an investigation, but was unable to find anyone in the house but the child. Inquiries among the neighbors as to the whereabouts of Mrs. King proved unavailing.

Noting that the gate to the railing surrounding the houseboat was floating in the river nearby, the truth suddenly dawned on King that his wife had been drowned. The body was located in the river after a few minutes' search and brought to the surface with a boat hook.

A telephone message to Dr. Alva Walker brought the physician to the scene post-haste, but upon examination it was found that the unfortunate woman had been dead at least an hour.

As no one saw the accident, it is supposed that Mrs. King, while waiting on the porch of the boat for her husband, leaned against the gate and upon the frail support giving way, fell into the river.

Coroner Finley was notified and the remains were removed to the morgue. It was the intention of Mrs. King to have visited her mother in a few days for a vacation.

Salem, Or., July 27.—J. P. O'Brien, general manager of the Southern Pacific, writes the railway commission that a mixed service will be established on the Eugene-Wendling branch, daily except Sunday, as soon as time cards can be issued. Passenger service will be approximately as follows: Leave Eugene 7 a. m.; arrive Wendling 9:45 a. m.; leave Wendling 10:45 a. m., arrive Eugene noon; leave Eugene 1 p. m., arrive Wend..ng 2:45 p. m.; leave Wendling 3:45 p. m., arrive Eugene 5:45 p. m.

Eugene, Or., July 27.—To show their appreciation of the new passenger train service to be established by the Southern Pacific between Eugene and Wendling on August 1, the merchants of this city are getting up an excursion to go from here to Wendling and return on the first train of the new service. The first train will leave at 7 o'clock in the morning and reach Wendling at 8:50. An hour will be spent there and the train will return to Eugent at 11:40 a. m. It is thought that a hundred or more business men, besides citizens at large, will go on the excursion. The people of Eugene are very well pleased with the action of the company inaugurating this service. They have been petitioning for it ever since the cut-off branch between Henderson and Springfield was finished.

PREPARING FOR BIG STREET FAIR

Tillamook Citizens Expect to Entertain Lavishly Next Month—Interested in Auto Road.

Tillamook citizens are making preparations to entertain a large number of visitors on the occasion of the Tillamook street fair August 22 to 24. Special invitations have been extended by the Portland chamber of commerce and the Portland Automobile club. The people of Tillamook county feel a deep interest in the talked-of automobile road between Portland and Tillamook bay. They have declared their readiness to subscribe money and assist with work in the building of the road, but are waiting for the Portland organizations to take the initiative.

In this city it is believed that a first-class wagon road from Portland to the seacoast would be well worth building. The conditions under which such a project might be carried out have not been formally discussed. It is not determined whether the road should be a toll road or free to everyone.

Should the counties through which it would go join with the movers of the undertaking, and assist with appropriations of money the road would of course be made a free public highway, to be maintained in the ordinary manner by public taxation.

PROLIFIC GROWTH OF BING CHERRIES IN UNION COUNTY

A cluster of 84 cherries on a steam seven inches long is one of the record cases of Oregon cherry production, shown in the accompanying picture. These are Bing cherries, full-sized, perfectly formed and all ripened at the same time. They were grown by C. M. Stacklin, at Cove, Union county.

HELPLESS FROM PARALYSIS, AGED MAN SEEKS PENSION

Suffering from paralysis, which renders him almost helpless, A. Castle Sanford, aged 83 years, has petitioned congress for a pension for his services during the civil war, and has also applied to the county for aid. Unable through physical disability to join the volunteers who went to the front, Sanford devoted all his energies throughout the war to securing hospital supplies and other necessities for the troops on the firing line.

News that the battle of Shiloh was raging reached Racine, Wisconsin, where Mr. Sanford then lived, on Sunday morning. With his fellow-workers, Sanford went to the churches, where services were being held, interrupted ...e sermons to read the telegram from the front, asked the people to meet that afternoon, sent express wagons to collect the sewing machines of the town, had the merchants open their stores and by 2 o'clock that afternoon 80 sewing machines were running. The next morning the committee, under Sanford's direction, sent to the front 40 large boxes filled with hospital supplies for the wounded.

Sanford at that time was editor of the Racine Advocate, and devoted a large portion of his columns to the needs of the hospital relief work. In addition to this he gave his personal services in securing the supplies. His petition to congress is strongly indorsed by many prominent Portland citizens, a number of whom have written Senator Bourne to interest himself in the aged man.

Sanford was attacked by paralysis three years ago, when he learned that a Canadian mining company, in which he held stock valued at $18,000, was fraudulent and his stock worthless.

COAL PASSERS ROW LEADS TO STABBING IN RAILROAD YARDS

As the result of an altercation in the Northern Pacific terminal yards last night between several Italian coal passers, Francis Afono received two knife wounds at the hands of Joseph Akalose, who was armed with a stiletto. Akalose stabbed Afono in the abdomen and alongside the right ear, but the wounds are not believed to be serious.

After the row all of those concerned took to their heels, leaving their wounded countryman on the ground. Detectives Baty and Price, who were detailed on the case, succeeded in apprehending Akalose in a lodging-house at Sixth and Clay streets and booked him at the city prison on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. The case will come up before Judge Cameron Monday morning.

The trouble is understood to have been caused by jealousy on the part of Akalose and a number of his fellow-workers. Alfono was the only one of the crowd who can speak English and by his actions in translating the orders of the superintendent of the roundhouse led the others to believe that he was currying favor with the boss by informing him that they were not doing their work.

MEAT OR CEREALS

A Question of Interest to All Careful Persons.

Arguments on food are interesting. Many persons adopt a vegetarian diet on the ground that they do not like to feel that life has been taken to feed them, nor do they fancy the thought of eating dead meat.

On the other hand, too great consumption of partly cooked, starchy oats and wheat or white bread, pastry, etc., produces serious bowel troubles, because the bowel digestive organs (where starch is digested), are overtaxed and the food ferments, producing gas, and microbes generate in the decayed food, frequently bringing on peritonitis and appendicitis.

Starchy food is absolutely essential to the human body. Its best form is shown in the food "Grape-Nuts," where the starch is changed into a form of sugar during the process of its manufacture. In this way the required food is presented to the system in a predigested form and is immediately made into blood and tissue, without taxing the digestive organs.

A remarkable result in nourishment is obtained; the person using Grape-Nuts gains quickly in physical and mental strength. Why in mental? Because the food contains delicate particles of Phosphate of Potash obtained from the grains and this unites with the albumen of all food and the combination is what nature uses to rebuild worn out cells in the brain. This is a scientific fact that can be easily proven by ten days' use of Grape-Nuts. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

DECIDE TO SELL PART OF ACREAGE

Evangelical Conference Will Clear Mortgage and Erect Tabernacle on Jennings Tract.

At the meeting of the Evangelical Conference association at Jennings Lodge yesterday, it was decided to sell three and one-half acres of the Jennings Lodge ground for $700 an acre, or $2,450. This price is double what the whole tract of 8½ acres cost three years ago. The part to be sold lies along the Willamette river. The sale is to be made for the purpose of satisfying a mortgage on the tract, and to improve the remaining five acres and erect a tabernacle.

After adopting resolutions commending District Attorney Manning for closing saloons on Sunday, the Young People's alliance elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Fisher, Milwaukie, Oregon; treasurer, Miss Minnie Falk, Portland; superintendent, junior department, Miss Mary Good, Monmouth, Oregon, chorister, T. R. Hornschuch, Seattle, Washington.

THE SMILE

That won't come off, appears on baby's face after one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, the great worm medicine. Why not keep that smile on baby's face. If you keep this medicine on hand, you will never see anything else but smiles on his face. Mrs. S—., Blackwell, Oklahoma, writes:

"My baby was peevish and fretful. Would not eat and I feared he would die. I used a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he has not had a sick day since." Sold by all druggists.

WANDERS AMID PARCHED HILLS

Woman and Baby Lost Near Walla Walla—Other Disappearances.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Walla Walla, Wash., July 27.—Three disappearances is the record made public yesterday. Friends of Charles Holt, until recently a druggist at Shelton's pharmacy, are worried over his continued absence. He left some time ago, ostensibly for a vacation at Spokane, but not a word has been heard from him. Mrs. Holt is worried and an effort is being made to locate him.

Late yesterday afternoon George Middleton, a Eureka Flat rancher, visited the sheriff's office and informed the officers that Mrs. Jack Sleeman, wife of a well-known Flat rancher, has disappeared from her home with her infant, and although a thorough search of the surrounding country has been made, no trace of the woman or child has been found. It is feared that the excessive heat has affected her mind and she has wandered into the Snake river hills, a lonely and isolated region used principally for sheep pasturage and almost totally uninhabited. A posse made up at Eureka last night left for the hills. As there is no water that Mrs. Sleeman can obtain it is feared she will perish before she can be rescued.

The police were requested yesterday afternoon to find John McKees, an aged farmer residing near Valley Chapel. McKees mowed several acres of hay three days ago and disappeared from his place. It was first thought he came to Walla Walla, but a diligent search by the police failed to locate him.

SOLID SUPPORT FOR ORDINANCE

Passage of Belding Anti-Trust Measure Advocated by Improvement Society.

Friends of the anti-trust ordinance introduced in the council by Councilman Belding at the last meeting are beginning to line up in solid form for the support of the measure. Last night at a meeting of the Northeastern Improvement association it was decided to prepare a written argument in favor of the passage of the ordinance, and submit the document to the council prior to the time the ordinance will come up for final consideration.

At the meeting last night the conditions in Portland were pretty thoroughly discussed and various speakers held to the contention that practically everything sold in the markets of the city is under the control of some sort of a combine created in order to regulate prices.

The association also appointed a committee, consisting of George B. Frank, H. F. Joslin and A. D. Cridge, on fire protection and gas. The committee will at once begin negotiations looking to the extension of the gas mains to Vernon and also will provide a more complete system of fire protection. The new fire company will be installed about August 10, and it is the intention of the association to celebrate the event. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for this event. It consisted of George B. Frank, William Brown, J. S. Joslyn, George S. Race, J. L. Meisenheimer and George E. Crump.

TUCKER SCANDAL

ated improper conduct in San Francisco and Portland on the part of Colonel Tucker with a Filipino woman and also with a woman who was a school teacher in the Philippines.

While the inspector-general has not completed his inquiry, enough has been developed to indicate that the charges cannot be substantiated and that Colonel Tucker stands in no danger of being called to account by the department.

No Desire to Be Party.

It is said the war department is not desirous of being a party toward assisting the wives of officers in procurement of divorces or becoming involved in family disagreements. It is further asserted that Mrs. Tucker did not make her complaint until after Colonel Tucker sought to administer the estate of her deceased son, who was left a large amount of property by the late George E. Lemon of this city.

Colonel Tucker is well known in Portland, having served in this city as paymaster from 1900 to 1904. He was appointed paymaster in the regular army in 1892 and has advanced rapidly in rank, largely through the help of his wife, it is said. He now holds the rank of lieutenant-colonel and is assistant paymaster-general.

Mrs. Tucker Was Jealous.

Mrs. Tucker is said to have been extremely jealous of Mrs. Pratt, the wife of an army officer, who died in the Philippines about one year ago. Upon the return of Colonel Tucker from the islands last spring, Mrs. Pratt accompanied him. Soon after the colonel and Mrs. Pratt arrived in San Francisco sensational charges concerning them were printed in a San Francisco newspaper. It is now believed that the charges preferred by Mrs. Tucker against the colonel were brought about by this San Francisco newspaper story. Mrs. Pratt is a woman 50 years of age.

Major Parker W. West spent several days at the Portland hotel, the latter part of June, pursuing his inquiries concerning the behavior of Colonel Tucker, and it is altogether probable that his report to the department at Washington largely influenced the officials to give out the information contained in the above telegram.

JURY POLLS

companies? Why, the man in charge. The man highest up. This company promised the supervisors $50,000 if they would refuse the franchise to the Home Telephone company and promised an additional $25,000 if those supervisors would continue friendly to the Pacific company for the next two years. Nobody but the general manager would attend to such important matters."

Mr. Delmas based the strength of his argument on the fact that no direct proof had been offered that Glass was connected in any way with the bribing of Boxton, except the latter's own testimony, and he, Delmas said, is a man who had openly confessed that he had sold himself over and over again. In the face of this and the lack of corroborating testimony, circumstantial evidence had been eliminated and there was no other evidence to connect Glass with the crime.

Judge Lawlor in his instructions to the jury charged them that it was not necessary that there should be direct evidence of expressed agreement of alleged conspiracy, but the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt the bribing of Boxton, the connection of the defendant with the giving of that bribe even if the bribing is proved beyond doubt. He charged further that if the prosecution failed to prove the connection of the defendant with that crime then the verdict should be not guilty.
