you and your wife are after you get back to Clinton?"
"I don't know," he said. "I'm glad to get back, that's all."
Mrs. Magill was asked for a statement as she entered the Terminal hotel. "But really there is nothing I can say that would be of interest to the public," she said.
The party took an Illinois Central train for Clinton at 10 p. m.

RECEIVES PET'S LETTERS.
Much Talked of Information in Hands of Clinton Lawyer.
(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Springfield, Ill., July 27.—States Attorney Miller and two deputy sheriffs of the state and Attorney Richard Lemmon, representing the accused, will leave for Clinton at 12 tomorrow morning to meet the sheriff and his prisoners and accompany them back to Clinton.
A great sensation was created in Clinton today when Attorney Lemmon received a telegram and a registered package from San Diego, the latter containing the much talked of letters which Mrs. Magill is said to have left in which she explained the cause of her suicide, and instructing her husband to marry the girl charged with complicity in her murder.
The message was sent by Attorney Daney of San Diego and was as follows: "Guard the state and Attorney Richard Lemmon, particularly guard Marquette. Allow no reporters to see her."
From the wording of this message, the prosecution is confident that Marquette Magill is in Clinton and is being shielded at the home of Richard Lemmon, the attorney for the Magills. Representative for the states attorney's office are now guarding the residence and while every curtain is drawn, they declare they saw Miss Magill when one of the members of the family lowered a window.
Springfield, Ill., July 27.—Magill passed through Springfield on the Hammond special on the Illinois Central at 12 this (Sunday) morning, locked in his car.

LONG DISCUSSION
free, or condemn him to life imprisonment or a long term of years in a cell, with the same outward indifference characteristic of him since his trial began.
He listened to Judge Wood's instructions with an air of interest but not a trace of nervousness or sign of fear. He watched the jurors file out, their jaws hard set and faces steeled to hide their thoughts as calmly as the face of a stranger was at staves. He left the courtroom with a confident smile on his face. Tonight he chats with the guards at his cell door on indifferent topics in the calmest tone and not the twitch of a muscle to indicate that he realizes his life hinges in the balance.
Change is Long.
The reading of Judge Wood's charge took more than an hour. Then Sheriff "Shad" Hodgins lifted his finger, his six balliffs gathered about him and the jurors stood up.
"Gentlemen," suggested Judge Wood, "I would advise that you take your chairs cushions with you."
The jurors took the hint. They tramped briskly to their room, evidently glad that the long period of confinement is near an end, though a few hours' hard labor must precede their discharge.
The jury may report, under the Idaho law, the day or night or may also return its verdict in open court on Sunday. Its advice are: Murder in the first degree, with the death penalty; murder in the second degree, with penalty of 10 years in prison; involuntary manslaughter, one to 10 years; involuntary manslaughter, one to 10 years, and not guilty.
The jurors retired at 12:05, and Judge Wood remained about the courthouse until 4 p. m., saying he would not return until sent for. At that time the jury was absolutely deadlocked.
A few moments before his departure he read a written request from the jury for certain exhibits, which were at once sent in. A glimpse into the room showed the jurors lounging about in comfortable attitudes, apparently discussing the case with no great degree of excitement. It was learned later that the exhibits wanted included the telegram sent by Attorney Fred Miller at Spokane to Harry Orchard in Caldwell, the telegram sent by Jacob Simpkins to Haywood, saying it was impossible to get a lawyer to defend Orchard, the six drafts sent by Haywood to Simpkins in December, 1905, and the Pettibone letter to Orchard at Caldwell.

Prosecution's Exhibits.
The exhibits were all introduced by the prosecution to prove conspiracy.
When the 13 came out for lunch their faces were that of men who had reached an agreement was in sight.
The meal was a hurried one, and the jurors were back in their room in 15 minutes.
Mrs. Haywood, the prisoner's invalid wife, worn by weeks of worry and physical suffering, but still confident that her husband will be set free, sat in a chair on the courthouse lawn until late tonight. With her were Haywood's stepfather, his half-sister and two daughters.
Ever since the jury went out, frequent whispers have been in circulation to the effect that a verdict had been rendered, but each time the rumor has proven false. Although Judge Wood is not in the courtroom, there will be no formal recess until a verdict is reached or a disagreement reached.
No one is allowed in the courtroom except the attorneys and newspaper men.
Members of the panel talked a little, and their determined and short words indicated to the satisfaction of all who saw them that what will probably prove irreconcilable differences had arisen among them.
Judge Wood will keep the session open, and there will be no recess until a final report is made. Only a few people are on the lawn about the courthouse.

CHILD IS ALMOST DEAD WHEN FOUND
Five Hundred Men Search New Mexico's Hills for Missing Babe.
(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Albuquerque, N. M., July 27.—Five hundred men with bloodhounds today continued searching the mountains in the vicinity of the Madrid Coal company's camp and the town of Cerrillos in the hope of finding the little child of Joseph Gulleni, an Italian miner, who has been lost since Tuesday.
It is believed now that the Gulleni child is the victim of the Italian Mafia, and that the babe was kidnapped. A reward has been offered by the father, and the child's mother is frantic from the shock and may not survive.
The loss of the child has caused a tie-up of the mines employing 800 men. Every man, woman and child capable of climbing the mountains has enlisted in the search.
A later report says that the boy was found lying face down in the road three miles from his home, barely alive, after wandering alone in the mountains for four days and nights. He was almost dead from hunger and exposure, but it is believed he will recover. He is thought to have wandered nearly 28 miles through the hills.

MAGILLS RETURN HOME FOR TRIAL

In Charge of Sheriff, Both Are in the Best of Spirits.

HUSBAND GLAD TO GET BACK, HE SAYS

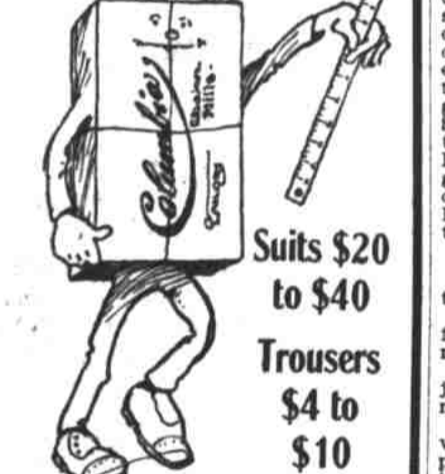

Declares He Desires to Set Himself Right With People of Clinton—Both Refuse to Be Interviewed Regarding Impending Hearing.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—Fred Magill and Fay Graham Magill, his pretty young wife, spent two hours in St. Louis at the Union station tonight on their way back to Clinton, Illinois, where they must face trial on a charge of killing Mrs. Pet Magill, the first wife. They were in the custody of Sheriff Harvey A. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, and on their trip acted no different than any couple might on their honeymoon trip.
While admitting they were married in Denver on their way west, a point that had not been heretofore settled, they said nothing bearing directly on the death of Pet Magill except that they would have returned to Clinton had the sheriff abandoned them entirely. They are anxious to set themselves right with their friends.

Magill Pleasant and Smiling.
Magill is short and stout until roundness. He is smooth-shaven and always smiling, the kind of man whose open palm is ever extended for a handshake. There is no trace of nervousness about him and nothing in his manner to indicate unhappiness. He wore a blue serge coat of stylish cut and neat fitting trousers.
The negligee shirt he wore was probably been donned for train comfort. His pleased smile did not leave him from the time he stepped alertly off the train until he reached a room at the Terminal hotel. When addressed he was courteous in his declaration to deeply discuss his case.
"You are Mr. Magill, are you not?" asked a representative of the Hearst news service, when he swung from the train.
"That is my name," said he.
Refused to Be Interviewed.
When the reporter made an effort to get an interview from him, Mr. Magill said:
"Acting on the advice of my attorney I must refuse to make any statement until I have seen Richard A. Lemmon, who is waiting for me in the Terminal hotel."
"Are you glad to get back?" he was asked.
"Indeed I am. Yes, I am glad to get back to my home."
"What do you think the prospects of
