Just one glimpse of our surroundings here and you forgive us for the noise, clatter and dust that are being made by the workmen who have our front nearly done. Soon they will start on the inside—the new balcony, the show cases and fitting rooms for our new ladies' ready to wear department. Then they will have to move, and move quickly, to make room for the big crowd of people who come for the convenience of the noise, etc., but I am making up for it by giving what I believe to be the biggest and best values ever offered in Portland. Goods are absolutely new, and must be sold at any cost to make room for workmen, new fall goods, etc. Every customer who has been in our store during the past week declares the values to be better than they ever saw. Come and be convinced. John Delair, First and Yamhill.

The August number of Western Life, Portland's newest magazine venture, and one of the best publications of its character on the Pacific coast, is out, filled with good reading matter—stories of travel, local matter and editorial comment. Among the stories of interest are "The Willows in the Far East," "Japan," and "A Trip Through Yellowstone Park," by Walter R. Taylor, the editor. An essay on Robert E. Lee, by C. H. McCrea, and the "Patriotism of Stephen A. Douglas," by Frank Brown, both of which make interesting reading. A good feature is the large number of excellent halftones with which the magazine is illustrated.

Police officer Field of the first relief reported to Captain Slover last night that an old man, aged 80, lives alone in the back of a little confectionery store at 142 Fourteenth street north, and that he is sick and without friends. The room is described as being very filthy. The neighbors have been giving the old man some attendance of late but they decline to do so any longer and yet he refuses to go to a hospital. Captain Slover will have Officer Field secure the old man's name and steps will then probably be taken to have him properly cared for. He is practically helpless and might starve to death if left unattended.

Preparations for a monster celebration of Labor day, September 2, are now being made by a joint committee from the Federated Trades and Building Trades council. Jean West, secretary of the committee, states that it is the intention to have a parade in the morning, field sports and addresses in the afternoon and a dance in the evening. Every effort is being made to secure speakers of national renown for the exercises. A movement is also on foot to secure the use of the city grounds, or the Washburn field for this latter feature of the celebration.

Mrs. Minnie Wagner filed suit for a divorce from Chris Wagner in the circuit court yesterday afternoon, charging nonsupport. They were married in Portland in 1892, says the wife, and though Wagner earns $15 a week as a blacksmith he contentedly does nothing to the support of his wife and children. Mrs. Wagner alleges that she has had to do housework and keep boarders in order to support herself. She asks the custody of the three children and $30 a month alimony.

Marquam Hill residents had a delightful social gathering last Wednesday evening on the eastern slope of the hill, a place peculiarly adapted to summer evening entertainments. The grounds were tastefully decorated with nasturtiums; Chinese lanterns were hung on the trees in the grove. Messrs. John and J. M. Colman furnished the music for the occasion. Ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. O'Neil presiding over the refreshment table.

Last Wednesday night, Kan says, upon ordering the young men from the place, they threatened to assault him and he thereupon retreated to the house and secured a shot gun. The accused youths deny that they were engaged in the theft. Upon deposit of $25 bail apiece the prisoners were given their liberty late last night.

Edward Keefe, from whom Mary A. Keefe secured a divorce and judgment for $15 a month alimony about three weeks ago, appeared before Judge Fraser in the circuit court yesterday to explain why he had not paid the alimony, which was for the maintenance of their child. He said he was in debt to his employer, but would make a payment on August 1.

AUTOIST'S SKILL WELL DISPLAYED

Driver Keats Did the Right Thing Instantly When Machine Jumped Track.

While Harry L. Keats' big Matheson machine was going at railroad speed down a steep hill in the automobile race yesterday the righthand front tire exploded and the machine with six men in it jumped the track, ploughed two feet into the grade, splintered a two-foot tree stump and smashed into another and larger one, where it stopped with a crash. But for the presence of mind and daring skill of Mr. Keats, who is one of the oldest drivers in Oregon, the six men in the car would have been seriously injured or possibly killed.

Riding with Mr. Keats in the race were Assistant District Attorney Gustavus C. Moser, E. D. Stoddard, Chauncey Thomas, J. W. Blane and H. W. Rothenstein. Only the fact that the stumps were old and rotten and acted as a cushion, the machine would have been reduced to scrap iron and the men killed. It was only by a sudden jerk of the steering wheel that Mr. Keats skinned a large rock by a fraction of an inch on one hand and a large uprooted tree on the other.

"It was a narrow escape," said Mr. Moser last night. "I thought it was done for sure, but there was nothing to do but to stay with the machine. It is the safest place in an accident, although none of us had time to do anything else. It was so sudden. We were coming along as smoothly as you please—when suddenly it was all over and there we were plastered up against that old tree stump with another pile of kindling wood that we made out of the first one we hit, under the front axle. If we had hit that stone or the tree—when?"

Mr. Keating treated the matter rather lightly, although he admitted that it was the worst accident he was ever in during his years of automobilizing experience.

"I have perhaps driven machines as long as any man in the state," he said last night. "and it was the closest squeeze I ever had. Nothing really happened, but then that was just our good luck. I didn't want to hit anything solid like that rock or tree, so I picked out a nice soft stump to sort of ease the effect, you know. Oh, yes, accidents will happen, but I got out of it all right, so what of it?"

The car that Mr. Keating was racing started from Portland first and was leading the other cars in the race because of the accident arrived in Salem next to last. But better times was made on the home trip, where it arrived sixth.

ONE HIGHWAYMAN HOLDS UP TWO

Unmasked Thug Secures Money at Point of Revolver From Pedestrians.

Charles Bowen and John Lyons were held up last night by an unmasked man on the Jefferson street railroad track near the foot of Mead street. The highwayman pointed a white-handled gun at them after having allayed suspicion by asking if a ferry crossed the river in the vicinity. Bowen lost $5.70 in small change and Lyons $10.00 as a result of the meeting. The police were immediately notified and detectives have been detailed to the scene.

"We are good friends, I and Lyons," said Bowen in relating his experience to Captain Slover, and have been in the habit of taking strolls along the railroad track evenings before retiring. It was about 10 o'clock last night when, sitting on the track, we were approached by a stoop shouldered man, aged about 30, who asked if a ferry crossed the river in that vicinity. We had hardly answered in the negative before he had us covered with a white-handled revolver.

"Shell up your money," he exclaimed coolly. "Dig up and be quick about it."

"I handed him $6.70 as he poked me in the stomach with the muzzle of his revolver and Lyons told him he had no money. He then ordered us to walk towards Oswego and we walked. When about 200 yards from the scene we turned back and the highwayman was gone. Lyons then told me that he had thrown his purse containing $20 on the ground where he was sitting. Reaching we found the empty purse; the highwayman had rifled it."

Bowen says the spot was very dark but he feels certain he would be able to identify the highwayman by his voice. The man was described as being five feet seven inches tall, thin build, dark complexioned, stoop shouldered, wearing a black soft hat, dark clothes and a dark muffler.

DEPOSED EMPEROR OF KOREA IS SQUELCHED

Marquis Ito Declares Court Must Be Reformed Without Further Delay.

(Heart News by Longest Lensed Wire.) Seoul, July 27.—Guards have been placed along the railways in the country today, and regular bodyguards of troops are patrolling all parts of Seoul. Korean troops and rioters in Kongeun have attacked the police, destroying seven Japanese dwellings, injuring six persons and driving the Japanese to their boats.

Two of Marquis Ito's new appointees, and warned that if this is not accomplished within three weeks their appointments will be revoked. This means putting a quietus on the activities of the former emperor, who as late as July 23, it is said, intrigued to send a commissioner to Germany.

GRAIN GROWERS TO HOLD FOR BIG PRICE

(Publishers' Press by Special Lensed Wire.) Indianapolis, Ind., July 27.—The board of directors of the graingrowers' department of the American Society of Equity today decided to hold or store wheat until there is a market price of $1.15 a bushel. It is reported that thousands of growers in the winter wheat sections have taken a pledge to follow the recommendations of the officers of this organization regarding the selling prices.
