Walter Carlisle, the little fellow who plays left field for the Los Angeles Coast leaguers, broke up yesterday's game with a home run over the right field fence. It was the second ball to be knocked beyond the high boards this season. Carlisle hit the other one last May.

Previous to Carlisle's home run, the game was a fairly even one, the score being 2 to 0. "Shrimp" Schimpff, the willing little Dutchman, was on the mound for the locals and he was twirling in very good style, the runs scored off him having been no fault of his, but the result of a passed ball by Catcher Moore, who clearly had an off day, and a bad bungle by Pokorny, who played backwoods ball with a vengeance from the start.

Up to the fifth inning it was 1 to 0. Then Delmas landed for a two-bagger in left field. Basesy threw wild in an attempt to catch Delmas at second and the ball passed both Fay and Casey, who were lined up waiting for it. That wouldn't have mattered at all, but it bounced through Pokorny's legs and made a friendly visit to the right field bleachers. Delmas trotted around the diamond while the long-legged first baseman ran for the sphere.

Eager hit safe, Burns flew out. Bernard got to first on Pokorny's fumble and then up came Carlisle. The little fellow waited until the Shrimp put it just right, then he lifted it far toward Seattle. McCredie ran back and butted against the fence, but 'twas no use; the coveted sphere cleared the fence by at least 15 feet.

That made five runs and the Shrimp was put away for Kinsella. Kinsella held the enemy down until the ninth, when a base on balls and two hits put another Los Angeles over.

Farmer Burns was, as usual, quite too puzzling for the Beaver batters and the home team was shut out.

Pernell is scheduled to pitch for Portland today. Tonight the Angels will go south and Oakland and Portland will engage in a series. Derrick will travel south, too, and something of the Dillon-Derrick fist fight may be heard from the tardy president some time within the next few days. The score:

TRI-CITY SEASON
NEAR ITS CLOSE

Leading Teams Hiring Professionals to Help in Final Race for Pennant.

TODAY'S GAMES.
Brewers at Kelo.
Cubs at Woodburn.
Frakes at Astoria.
Trunkmakers at St. Johns.

President Whittemore has announced his schedule for August. As near as possible it arranges the games so that at the end of the month each team will have played four games with the others. After the August schedule is played out enough games will be arranged for September to make up the requisite number for such teams as are shy on the schedule.

Today the Cubs play their last game with Woodburn. They have also finished their number with Kelo. The Frakes have played the full number with Woodburn and will not meet them again unless a tie for championship honors makes it necessary. The schedule reads:
Sunday, August 11—Trunks at Kelo; Astoria at St. Johns; Brewers at Woodburn; Frakes and Cubs have a day off.
Sunday, August 18—Woodburn at Kelo; Frakes at St. Johns; Cubs at Astoria (last game); Trunkmakers and Brewers, no game.
Saturday, August 24—Woodburn vs. St. Johns at St. Johns.
Sunday, August 25—Frakes vs. Cubs at Vaughn street, winning team to play Trunkmakers 10 minutes after, making a three-cornered contest, or two games for one prize. These three teams are all an equal number of games behind with each other. Woodburn at Astoria, St. Johns at Kelo. As St. Johns has been on the Kelo grounds twice this season it may be arranged to have Kelo come to St. Johns.

The league umpires will work as follows today: Burnside at Kelo; Towler at Astoria; Rankin at St. Johns; Mangold at Woodburn; Cheyne and Marshall lay off.

Now that the season is more than half over the teams commence to seek their roosting places on the percentage ladder and the leaders are loosening the strings of the money bag and strengthening up with professionals from other minor leagues. St. Johns started the ball rolling by using Drennan, out of the northwest league. This team now has Charles Moore and Drennan from the professional ranks. Kelo followed suit by engaging Graham, Palmer, Hearn and Erickson out of the Northwest league. Now the Frakes have secured Lovett from the Portland team and are dicker for two more good men who are playing professional ball.

Johnson, Newell and Lovett at present represent the Frakes' professional strength. The teams in the second section are too far behind to warrant their spending money and are playing just as interesting ball as they can with local players in the lineup. In fact, for several games back the local enders have been putting up the best exhibition of the national game.

Manager Smith has cut his Cub team down to 12 men. Shea and Thomas are at the receiving end of the battery. Kottman, Street and Lerch will do the twirling. Kennedy is captain and first baseman, Barrell second, Duval shortstop, Kruger third and Magnus, Taucher and Lerch in the outer garden.

Manager Partlow of the Trunkmakers has released Shortstop Shockey and has signed up Shultz, the clever catcher on the Spanton team.

The attendance at St. Johns and Astoria has been gradually dropping off, and the managers are wondering when it will pick up again. At Astoria, the grounds are located too far away and are almost inaccessible. It is a bold and enthusiastic fan indeed that will climb the mountain through ankle-deep dust to witness a game. No conveyances are obtainable, so it's a long hike, straight up. It is no wonder that the attendance is poor.

Financially the league is on a good basis, and the stockholders will realize a second little dividend upon their investment.

EXCELLENT FORM

Win Two Races in Club Regatta—Closest Contest in Lap Streak Fours.

On a three-quarters-of-a-mile course from Ross Island to the Portland Rowing club's boathouses, the senior four that so easily carried off the honors at Seattle last spring, acquired new glory yesterday afternoon, by winning two hard races at the club's midsummer racing regatta.
A large crowd was present and cheered the oarsmen heartily as one boat or the other passed the flag at the finish and won a race. Among the crowd were many old-timers who had not sat in a racing shell for years, but they remembered the love of the sport, and all the phrases peculiar to rowing.
One man who rowed his last race in 1889 was in the launch with the referee. He watched with bated breath while the young athletes struggled with their oars for the supremacy. He nodded his head disapprovingly at one young oarsman and remarked:
"He catches too many crabs." When someone asked what he meant he explained that the young oarsman in his excitement dipped his oar so deep that he could not get it out of the water to take the next stroke on time.
In addition to Portland's senior four, there were other men present who had won fame in the racing shell. Conant and Fitting, both of whom won places in this year's famous Stanford eight, were in the races yesterday afternoon. The best race of the regatta was the second heat of the lapstreak fours, in which the boats were so close together that the crowd on the bank had to run to the flag before they could tell which was in the lead, and the nose of the winning boat showed itself across the line only six feet ahead of that of its rival.
This race was notable also for some of the prettiest rowing done in the afternoon. Throughout the three quarters of a mile the oars of both crews rose, flashed and dipped with a unity and precision that left little room for the spectators to pick a favorite.
The first two races, the novice singles and doubles, were rowed over a half-mile course. All others were three quarters.

Pfeander Wins Novice Singles.

Pfeander won the novice singles from Stringer by two lengths, both leaving Newell far behind. Newell received a handicap of three lengths at the start, and for a time maintained his lead well, but he seemed to tire soon. Stringer probably should have won the race had he had as much skill with his oars as his opponent had. Stringer was strong throughout the race, but wanted much energy by not handling his oars properly. A little more practice will make of Stringer a formidable single sculler. Pfeander earned his victory fairly by equal strength and superior skill with the oars.
Conant and Harley won the doubles by two lengths from Fitting and George Luders by rowing together. Fitting and Luders did not appear to be able to keep together on their strokes, and lost much space by it.

Team Work Wins Victory.

In the first heat of the lapstreak fours the ability to row together again won the victory. This time by a boat length. The boat manned by Reed, stroke; Luders, 3; Carlson, 2; and Pfeander, bow, won from Stringer, stroke; Wendling, 3; Orth, 2; and Stringer, bow.

Next came the race of the senior four with the scullers in the centipede.

which the senior four won by 24 lengths. In the senior four boat, Loom is pulled stroke; McKicken, 3; Dillaugh, 2; and Allen bow. The sculler in the centipede were: Lamberson, stroke; Conant, 3; Fitting, 2; and Luders, bow.

The second heat of the lapstreak fours brought the spectators to their feet in hearty applause of the pretties race of the afternoon. Fitting and Conant, team mates on the Stanford eight pulled stroke against each other in this heat, and Fitting's boat won by about six feet. The crew of the winning boat was: Fitting, stroke; Morris, 3; Moore, 2; and Harley, bow. The other boat's crew was: Conant, stroke; J. Gloss, 3; Cowell, 2; and Boost, bow.

Race of Senior Four.

Then the senior four, the crew that won the victory for Portland at Seattle, were handicapped by rowing in the training rig and carrying Trainer Murphy, but they beat the junior four in the new racing shell by three long boat lengths. In the launch, Hattie, declared, at stroke; Sterling, 3; Wetterberg, 2; and Boost bow.

In the last race, the final heat of the lapstreak fours, Reed, Luders, Carlson, and Pfeander beat Fitting, Morris, Moore, and Harley by four lengths. The three who rode with Referee S. M. Luders in the launch, Hattie, declared, as the launch took them into the club house, that he would have to get out again next year and pull at the oar himself.

The judges at the finish were E. Froman and Gunn.

OFF FOR HOME AFTER THOUSAND-MILE DRIVE

M. J. Alton and wife of Lake eastern Oregon, have just left Portland on their way home to complete an automobile trip covering 1,000 miles.

The couple left coming about July 1 in a Reo touring car. They came first to Portland, where they spent a few days, and from there went on to Seattle, and very little trouble on the tour.

Except in a few very bad stretches the roads were fairly good. Between Hot Lake and Duffin, however, traveling was difficult. Mr. Alton had to ford several streams where both axle and the muffler were under water. However, the machine came through these experiences very little the worse for them.

OAKLAND NOW HOLDS PLACE ABOVE 'FRISCO

(Journal Special Service.)
San Francisco, Aug. 3.—The combine twists and shoots of Oscar Jones, reckoned the star box man by some critics and Barney Joy, the Honolulu giant, were insufficient to stay the tide, and the Commuters grabbed off another battle from the long-suffering Beal. They got just eight hits off Oscar, a none off Joy. Three of these bingles they managed to assemble in one inning and that's the whole story. R. H. E.

OPEN TOURNAMENT AT IRVINGTON WILL BEGIN IN THREE WEEKS

The annual open handicap tournament of the Irvington Tennis club will begin this year August 24, three weeks from yesterday.

Eight events will be run off at the same time and the tournament will require at least two weeks for completion. There were 103 entries in last year's tourney and it is believed that there will be a larger number this year. The committee in charge will try an experiment in pulling off the men's singles. The discrepancies in the ability of the players are always greater in this event than in any other and to lessen the weight of the handicaps the tournament will be run in two sections and the players will be divided, according to their ability, into what will be known as class A and class B. The better players will be put into class A, the poorer ones into class B and two entirely separate tourneys will be held. The members of the club, however, will be the men's handicap doubles, the ladies' handicap singles, the ladies' handicap doubles, the mixed handicap doubles, the men's championship and ladies' championship. The last two events will be scratch and will be open only to members of the club. The other events will be open to all amateurs. All matches will be scheduled from the beginning to the end of the tournament. The women's matches will be scheduled in the morning and the men's matches will be scheduled after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.
