SENATOR MILLER TELLS OF OREGON'S RESOURCES This is a good idea, and one which we should take advantage of, for we have numerous reasons why we should invite outsiders to come to our state. "Mr. Richardson calls attention to the fact that rates beginning September 1, continuing to October 31, will be as follows: "$25 from all Missouri river points; Chicago, $33; New York city, $50.

Population Could Be Doubled.

"If the people throughout the eastern states could be made to realize what great opportunities are here in Oregon our population would double in a short time. All who feel a deep interest in Oregon should avail themselves of the opportunity to induce citizens to come here and settle. Tell them of the possibilities of the state, calling their attention to our splendid climate; point out the fact that we have no extreme hot or cold weather; no cyclones or blizzards. In the Willamette valley there has not been to exceed three snow storms, which stayed on the ground a week, for 25 years. Sunstroke and prostrations from heat are unknown. People work outside most of the year round. Citizens Are Meeded.

Citizens Are Needed.

"Population is the need of our state. Oregon is as large as the six New England states, with West Virginia thrown in. With a population that does not exceed 600,000, there are as good opportunities here as are to be had in any state in the union.

"Linn county is situated at the head of the great Willamette villey—"The Garden Spot of the West"—is larger than the state of Delaware and half the size of Connecteut; can furnish homes for 100,000 people and make them prosperous and happy.

"Lumber is the fourth in magnitude among our industries, being outclassed only by the steel and iron, the textile and the slaughtering and meat-packing businesses. In order to supply the enormous demand of the lumber industry for raw material, our forests are falling at the rate of 45 square miles for each day of the year. We are cutting down annually more than 100,000,000 trees, exceeding a foot in diameter.

"These figures point strongly to a great advance in the lumber industry. Fifty years ago the northwestern states supplied more than half of the total lumber of the country. Now, in New England, the timber is practically exhausted and they are now looking toward the Pacific coast for their future supply of lumber. It is claimed Oregon, Washington and California contain one third of the standing timber of the United States and is capable of supplying the demand for 25 years.

into the dairy interests here, both say that, in their opinion, the Willamette valley and Linn county is the most favorable dairy region in the world. They say cows can be kept here with less outlay for feed than in any section they know of. The land yields more feed to the acre than in other places. There is scarcely a month in the year when green feed cannot be had from a well-kept dairy farm.

"Oregon has as good school system as any state in the Union. She has a uniform course of study and the people are liberal with appropriations for school purposes.

"We have every reason to be proud of Oregon, and let every one of us do his duty toward inducing more people to come and live with us."

"Perhaps this is one of the many reasons why the great transportation companies are building into our state.

"Coal, iron, copper, gold and silver are to be found in our mountains. We have enough water power to run all the manufactures of New England. We raise fruits of all kinds in abundance.
