

THE CLOSING CHAPTER OF THIS GREAT SALE

Just Two Weeks More of the Most Remarkable Values Ever Offered!

Now comes the closing chapter of one of the most memorable bargain events in our selling annals. Now, for a master stroke in phenomenal value-giving, for we have no alternative. We must dispose of all remaining stock regardless of any condition whatsoever. These closing days of the great sale offer even sharper, more alluring reductions than the astonishing values which attracted such throngs at the inception of this momentous sale. These additional sacrifices in prices are due to a further depletion of lines—more odds and ends—a natural sequence of the immense volume of business during the past month. We propose to make the climax of this event one to be long remembered as a period for savings of a most exceptional character. These prices speak most eloquently concerning this earnestness of purpose.

BRITISH MINERS BLACKLISTED

Mineowners in Transvaal Prefer Chinamen and Kaffirs to Whites.

(Journal Special Service.)

London, Aug. 8.—To understand the labor conflict on the Rand it is necessary to regard it, not as a strike, but as a "lock-out" and as a lock-out not from an industry only, but from a country. The alien mineowners declare that the British miners must go, as their labor is not required in the mines, and their presence is inimical to the interests of the country. Thousands of miners are stubbornly refusing to accept this notice to quit, and there the matter for the moment rests. Meanwhile skilled Chinese, with a few white overseers, are producing 40 per cent. of the output and on the other mines a superabundance of indentured Kaffirs substitutes the white man and the machine to be dispensed with.

The Rand papers that have consistently shrieked for "British supremacy" declare that by bringing Dutchmen to the mines to oversee skilled colored labor, the British miner can be dispensed with and that such a change will be the salvation of the Transvaal. Needless to say that behind this patriotic view is an estimated saving in working expenses.

But the Boer government is determined to thwart the treachery of the cosmopolitans, and will turn this last effort of the financiers to oust the white man against themselves. For the Chinese are to go, and go rapidly. The strike has made that doubly sure, for the thousands of Englishmen under notice to quit now hold by repatriation as their only hope of salvation, and the government has a backing which will enable them to make short work of the system. So the treacherous cunning of the cosmopolitans is going to work their own undoing. They counted on the Boers assisting them in ousting the British, but their advances have been spurned.

The government has behind it a force of thousands of British miners in rebellion against their alien masters. If that force be prematurely dissipated it will be nothing short of a calamity. And the labor army now behind the government is threatened with subjection through starvation. Already hundreds are living on two meals a day to continue the struggle to the utmost limit, and dependency is falling upon the men with wives and families. Already an exodus is taking place of those with sufficient means to leave the country.

Nobody denies today that the final hour in the struggle to the Chinese sever system has been reached. If aid be now forthcoming from the people of Great Britain to keep the army of British workers holding the Rand for the government against the forces of cosmopolitan finance a great and complete victory is assured and freedom will be achieved. If the miners are beaten, the control of cosmopolitan finance over the Rand will be assured and it will be impossible for the government to stand firm in the crisis that repatriation will provoke. Never again will an opportunity occur such as this for breaking the hateful monopoly control over the gold fields which has been the cause of so much misery.

Besides the cabinet of ministers a private cabinet may be summoned and consulted by the emperor, composed of a president and a vice-president of the ministers and of 17 councillors.
