

SKINSH IS LIVELY IN BATTLE OF BALLOTS

Hilda Brant Passes Alice E. Price and Again Takes the Lead—Peter Seltice Gains a Higher Position—Others Make Good Records.

The twelfth count of ballots in The Journal's educational contest is given here and the contestants are arranged in geographical districts in their relative order of standing. The total number of contest votes for the credit of every contestant is set down opposite to the name and address.

Contest district No. 2 comprises the Willamette valley except Multnomah county (which forms a district by itself) as far south as Eugene. Contestants in this district compete with one another and at the same time with all contestants in all parts of Oregon.

Table listing contestants for District Number 2, including names like Alice D. Grant, Earl Heckart, and William Russell, with their respective scores.

Contest district No. 3 includes all that part of Oregon south of Eugene and the counties of Oregon bordering on the Pacific ocean. Contestants in this district compete against one another and at the same time against contestants in all other parts of the northwest.

Table listing contestants for District Number 3, including names like Hilda Brant, Alice E. Price, and William Russell, with their respective scores.

Contest district No. 4 comprises all of eastern Oregon and eastern Washington. Contestants in this district compete with one another and also against all other contestants.

Table listing contestants for District Number 4, including names like Opal Callison, Adam Murray, and Mattie Penley, with their respective scores.

The twelfth count of ballots in The Journal's subscription contest is presented in the above score list. This includes all subscriptions received at The Journal office and entered in the books.

Miss Grant could secure seven new yearly subscriptions and would go ahead of Miss Grant and place Multnomah county in the lead. Then she would be in the position for the first cash award of $200, for which she is striving.

Subscriptions in Plenty. Subscriptions are pouring in such numbers that they cannot be measured up in votes to the very day of publication. A careful and accurate record is made of every subscription so that at the end of the contest every contestant may be satisfied that his own record, as well as the record of rivals, is correct.

This makes the fourth time that Hilda Brant has carried the position of first honor in her district. The entire contest, as well as District No. 2, is still presided over by Alice D. Grant.

Fads and Fashions.

NEW YORK—Embroidered white hand bags to match the white belt are being carried. The handle is a stitched band, and the flap, which is heavily embroidered, is finished on the edge with scalloped.

A dainty and fashionable slipper for evening wear was made of pompadour taffeta ribbon in a rose pattern and trimmed with a green velvet button in the center of a tiny rosette of shell pink.

A charming evening frock of creamy chiffon had large woven satin dots, and a deep border of great pink and yellow roses in pale shades. This was worn with a white tulle supply taffeta slip which was velled by the same shade of chiffon.

The motor hats are prettier than ever, and are vastly becoming. They fit closely to the head and have a soft chip hat which can be bent down as just as serviceable and prettier than the motor hat.

A dress of pale blue silk, made with a black and white pattern of a kerchief lawn and valenciennes has a girde of deep rose pink liberty satin. The hat is worn with brown tulle, and trimmed in front with two deep pink roses.

There are two novelties in the English hat-making. One, instead of toning, is clasped over from side to side on stitched bands, which are shaped to the wrist. Another is the elbow glove, turned up the elbow and showing a contrasting shade. This color must match the gown worn. These are not cuffs, but look as if the glove were just turned back.

Home Beverages. Noyeau—in a large granite vessel put one pound and a half of granulated sugar and mix with it one dram each of essence of lemon, essence of ginger, and essence of cayenne.

up high among the bags of gold and the scholarships. Winona Ogden of Forest Grove has been in trouble for a few days. She ordered a new subscription book sent to her, which indicates that she found a field for gathering contest votes at Troutdale.

Troutdale already has been canvassed by Alta M. Wilcox. And, in addition to this, J. Arthur Menzies of The Behrke-Walker Business college, has canvassed Troutdale in behalf of Ray Moore and secured 12,420 votes for Moore. So far Moore has not made much showing for himself and other contestants are taking subscriptions all around him.

Bertha Rinehart of Elgin, serves as selector, withdrawing from the contest. Her letter of withdrawal contains two short subscriptions, which is proof that she does not quit the contest because she falls behind.

Marie Brunn, of District No. 1, works hard for every vote she gets. She has been in Portland very long and she is now getting subscriptions from total strangers mostly. She is anxious to win a scholarship in one of the Portland business colleges so that she can qualify herself for office work.

bags made of two or more thicknesses of cheese cloth and let drip. Put the clear juice aside and discard it. The then discard it. The squeezed juice should be made up separately. It is then ready to use. Exchange the bag back for a new and stronger one. Follow the example of this Portland citizen.

From The Circle. Cold-Water Process of Canning—Wash the fruit thoroughly and in case of rhubarb cut into small pieces, as for pie. Pack into glass jars that have been sterilized, then fill the jars to overflowing with freshly drawn water. Put on the covers, and let them stand overnight. By the next morning you will find that the fruit has taken up more or less of the water and that the water is full of sugar.

Electric Hair Dressing. It is a mistake to think that a mass of hair necessarily constitutes a becoming coiffure, or that a becoming coiffure invariably requires a great amount of hair, says a writer in Dress.

Novel Glove Mending. Mending the finger tips of long gloves with court plaster is the trick one young woman makes use of to lengthen the life of this dressy accessory which is such a luxury.

Picnic Suggestions. Among the articles necessary for comfort, once the picnicking ground is reached, there should be included wooden plates, tin cups, paper napkins and cloths, knives, forks and spoons; salt and pepper, alcohol stove, alcohol and matches, coffee pot, cork screw, soap and towel, with court plaster and arnica for emergencies.

Ringling Brothers' Menagerie Is Just Genuine Course in Natural History. Of all the strange animals that ever have been exhibited in America, none is so rare as the rhinoceros. Everybody has heard of the rhinoceros, but few have seen one.

found only in central Africa in the sparse forest belt that hugs the equator, about five degrees north and south. Antelope trappers have driven them farther and farther into the impenetrable thickets, so that only now and then one is found, and even then, being such a delicately constituted animal, it seldom survives transporting.

A peculiar African moss must be fed to the giraffe, and so it may be seen that even after he is captured and safely carried away, the matter of feeding him is a difficult problem. The giraffe has no vocal organs, and so can utter no sound. He seldom drinks water, depending on the moisture he draws from fresh grasses and vegetables.

There are two enormous hippopotami in Ringling Brothers' garden of zoology that are also attracting great attention. They are the only ones to be seen in this country. Other rare beasts in this great menagerie are horned horses, tigers, vial vaarks, Philippine cat, a blemish, chimpanzees, ibexes, llamas, yaks, nyghaus, zebras, grus, water buffalo, sacred oxen, laughing hyenas, bears from all climates, black leopards, and kangaroos, all forms of the cat family, many kinds of deer, camels, dromedaries, zebras, and nine herds of elephants. A visit to Ringling Brothers' animal department is an education in itself, and in many cities public schools and seminaries avail themselves of the rare opportunity to study animal life by dismissing circus day and attending the show in a body. There are, besides the many pens which contain the hay-fed animals, 108 cages of dogs, each with an attendant to answer all questions.

DON'T BE BLUE and lose all interest when help is within reach. Herbine will make that liver perform its duties properly. J. B.
