Housekeepers Responsibility To the Pure Food Law.

How do we know when we are getting pure or impure foods? asks one housekeeper, while another complains more bitterly that her grocer didn't send her what she ordered, and still another questions the efficiency of the pure food law because she got something she knew was colored, and the law never materialized for her. Did you ever buy material for a dress, pay for it and then relinquish all interest in it till some day you felt the need of it, and then found it was ready made, fitting to perfection, and a good and sufficient garment to meet your every need? No, after you have bought and paid for it you give explicit directions for its delivery, you carefully select your pattern and engage the best dressmaker and with infinite patience stand to have it fitted. You give every detail of the finishing your personal supervision, and only then do you feel you have a good and perfect garment.

ting pure food, the best answer is to put onto the subject just a small fraction of the thought you expend in selecting your dress patterns, your dressmaker and your finishing and give it just a small proportion of the time you devote to fitting. If you do this you will know the foods that are best suited to the needs of your family, you will detect any mixtures and can change, you will know the most reliable dealers and you can select from the best stock, because you will have studied the subject, just a little as you would study color and effect in a gown.

To the woman who complains that she didn't get what she ordered we would ask: Would you ever think of ordering a dress over the telephone? And yet you order your food supply that way and are quite willing to jeopardize the health of your family, while an unbecoming dress could never be tolerated. And if you risked buying a dress over the telephone and you didn't get what you wanted, would you wear it as you eat the wrong food? No, indeed, you would pack it back in a hurry. And this brings us to the point. The woman who complains of the law not being enforced. This woman may be the careful, intelligent every violation or suspected violation of the law as she would report the entrance of a burglar into her house.

In this respect housekeepers fall lamentably, not from any intentional wrong, but because they shrink from what they consider unpleasant notoriety. But not until they realize that any infringement of the pure food law is much an offense against law and order as stealing, and are willing to stand by it, will the pure food law reach its perfect usefulness. This matter is not to be taken lightly, and those for their alone use the products, and if goods come in improperly labeled, or are not what they profess to be, it is their bounden duty to report it and not carry it back to the dealer, as many do, to be sold again to some one who scrutinizes less closely.

aspire to." The secretary of the conference is Mahila Sahiti, 33 Upper Circular road, Calcutta. The conference is a wonderful evidence that women are beginning to think, and when they do in earnest, things will begin to move in India. All social progress has its root in a thinking motherhood, and all social arrest and decay grow out of women's ceasing to take the initiative and accepting a subordinate place in life.

Oregon to Hear Colorado's Snow Inspector.

Oregon club women have been peculiarly fortunate in securing the services of Enos Mills of Colorado for their state federation convention to be held at Salem, October 22-24. Circumstances arose that made his coming for awhile problematic, but a letter from Mr. Mills this week says: "I will be with you the dates previously arranged." This means that he will deliver a lecture on the snows of Colorado, October 23, and will be in Portland at the regular meeting of the Woman's club, October 25. Mr. Mills attracted most attention was Enos A. Mills, Mr. Mills has only essayed to lecture for a year or two, but he never fails to delight his audience and this great gathering was no exception. From 20 states came invitations to speak the moment he had finished, and it will be well for Oregon if the forum of the snows of the clubs of the country and gives much of his time to spreading the message of trees and mountains. For, while mountain is the subject of his appeal, he cannot fail to give a keen sense of the fascinations of mountain life, and of Colorado mountains in particular.

Flint Glass Workers Assisted by Label League.

The most important work the Union Label league has now in hand is in the cause of the American Flint Glass Workers' union, and the stand taken should excite the sympathy of everyone and make them ask for union brand goods.

The "Team Spirit" Growing in Women.

The women's conference of the Society of Ethical Culture in New York City was lately addressed by Dr. Luther H. Gulick, director of physical training in the public schools, on the training for girls and women. He said that only in recent years has there been general cooperation between women. Half of the race, he said, never developed the "team spirit," which men have carried to a high degree in the loyalty to the tribe, the nation, the group, the gang. The women, however, have interests to the individual home, husband and children. Now they were adding to that the consciousness of each other, of womanhood, and the sense of the growth of team spirit. The modern woman could not live merely in the home, and the character of mind of a girl should be so directed and disciplined that she should know not only how to use her own splendid powers, but how to use them in conjunction with and in subordination to the whole.

Force Taken Out of a Good Argument.

The celebration by Mt. Holyoke of its 70th anniversary calls attention afresh to the wonderful advance in women's education. Most of this change has come about in little over a half a century. It is just 60 years since Lucy Stone, the first woman in Massachusetts to take a collegiate degree, received her diploma at Oberlin; for Mt. Holyoke then was still but a seminary. When her father learned that she wanted to take a college course, he asked her mother in all seriousness, "Is the child crazy?" Now, according to the latest report of the national commissioner of education, out of the 27,921 boys and 47,555 girls who graduated in 1904 from the public high schools of the United States, 13,054 girls and only 12,747 boys were preparing to enter college. Owing to the growing tendency to take boys out of school early in order to put them into business, girls are doing a better education than boys.

Thinking Motherhood Root of Social Progress.

Seven hundred ladies of the Woman's club of Bombay, India, were present at a reception given by the club to her highness the Maharani of Baroda on her return from America and Europe. As the Indian Social Reformer says, if the disabilities imposed on Hindus going on sea voyages are to be removed it is of first importance that the women of the land are enlisted on the side of progress. Therefore the welcome accorded to her highness has great significance as showing that liberal views are taking the place of orthodox prejudices in Hindu houses. It would be interesting to learn what the maharani thought of the conditions of the country. Her husband, the Gaekwar of Baroda, has always been a progressive ruler, having established a system of compulsory education and other reforms among his people. Since his return he has officiated at the distribution of prizes to girls' schools. In doing so he said that the greatest help they required from their sisters was that they should be efficient, not only as wives and mothers and to be helpmates to them, but that they should also be efficient citizens, taking an interest not only in their own moral surroundings, but in the wider aspects of life; that they should take a broader view of their duties toward their neighbors and understand their responsibilities in life.

SOCIETY

A last wedding took place in Chehalis last Wednesday afternoon, when R. B. Belt and Miss Gertrude Baker, both of Portland, were married by Rev. R. Livingstone Wolf of the Methodist church. Mr. Belt is a business man of this city and Mrs. Belt has been connected with the telephone company here. Her mother is Mrs. Fred Bauerle of Centralia. At the home of L. Poppleton, 594 East Morrison street, August 4, Miss Henrietta Poppleton and Zachary T. Porter, of Paoli, 7, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jerome R. McGlade, D. D. of Misspah Presbyterian church. At the residence of the bride's mother Saturday afternoon, August 8, Robert B. Newton and Miss Nellie Hutton were

MINISTER SHINGLING ROOF WHEN COUPLE WISHED TO BE MARRIED

In reference to the wedding of two well-known Portland people a Centralia, Washington paper prints the following story: "R. B. Belt and Miss Gertrude Baker both of Portland, were married in Chehalis Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. R. Livingstone Wolf of the Methodist church. Mr. Belt is a business man of Portland and Miss Baker was for several years head operator at the telephone exchange in Centralia. Some time ago she went to Portland to accept a position with the telephone company there. She has several relatives in Centralia. Her mother is Mrs. Fred Bauerle. Mr. Belt and the bride to be were in Centralia on Wednesday and went to Chehalis together in an auto intending to be married on the spot. When they applied to the auditor's office for a marriage license they found they must have a witness. A gentleman from Centralia, who happened to be in the office who knew the young lady volunteered his services and necessary documents were procured. The wedding took place at the top of the roof; as soon as he could be made to understand that his services were in demand he climbed down and proceeded to tie the knot. During the ceremony the officials of the courthouse trimmed the auto which had been left standing at the corner, with old shoes and some flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Belt will make their home in Portland."

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal E. Kern announce the engagement of their daughter, Beas, to T. Irving Potter. The wedding will take place early in September.

PERSONAL

Mrs. John Knecht and her daughter, Christina, who reside at 910 Grand avenue, have returned home from Wenatchee, Washington, where they have been visiting Mrs. Knecht's daughter, Mrs. Rogers. Dr. Graham Lee was entertained last week by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Strong. Dr. Lee is a close friend of and com- munes with Dr. J. Hunter Walls, Mrs. Strong's brother in Korea. Dr. Lee left for California Monday night, on his return to his labors. Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Hill have gone to British Columbia for a few weeks. Miss Mary Couyers of this city is visiting relatives in Rockford, Illinois, but expects to return to Portland the latter part of the month. When she visited in Mendota, Illinois, she sang in the Presbyterian church and the Bulletin of that city commented favorably upon her singing. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. West, of Stockton, and Miss Herrin, daughter of W. F. Herrin, of San Francisco, chief counsel of the Southern Pacific R. R. company, were guests at the Portland this week. H. L. Mann of this city, visited Crescent City, California, last week. He is the grandson of Mr. Lewis, a civil engineer who platted Crescent City. Mrs. R. H. Tate and her children and Miss Karen Hansen left on Wednesday for Government Camp, where they will spend some weeks. Miss Eva Froome of Pendleton left on Friday on the steamer Elder for a visit to her father in California. Miss Mette Johnson of Coon Rapids, Iowa, spent Sunday with friends in St. Helena, on her way to Portland, where she goes to Good Samaritan hospital as a nurse. Dr. L. G. Ross of Good Samaritan hospital spent Sunday with his father, William Ross of St. Helena. Rev. F. A. Colony and wife of York, Nebraska, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hughes and daughter, Miss Lucie of David City, Nebraska, are staying in St. Helena for a couple of weeks. They are making a tour of the Pacific coast, going first to Los Angeles. Dr. Rollo A. Johnson has left for Victoria, British Columbia, and will extend his trip to cover leading eastern cities. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welch and son have returned from a two-week outing at McIntyre's on the White Salmon, and expect to make an extended visit on the sound. Mr. and Mrs. Jules Hielbrunner of Hood River, Oregon, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lavendon during the past week. Dr. and Mrs. Hubert F. Leonard arrived Thursday night, after a tour of the central states and Canada, and will make their future home in Portland. Dr. Leonard formerly lived here. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Redway and their daughter, Misses Annie and Helen of Caldwell, Idaho, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Morgan at their home on the east side. They left for the seaside yesterday to spend ten days, after which they will make a longer stay in Portland. Mr. Redway is a prominent merchant of Caldwell.

Another Rich Strike.

In running tunnel the mining crew of the Champion Group Mining company ran into another very rich ore chute last week. The indications are that they are coming into the sulphides in this tunnel. The report says that between walls at this point it is from 18 to 20 feet, which would indicate a very strong vein.

Astoria Irrigation Delegates.

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.) Astoria, Or., Aug. 10.—The county court has named the following delegates to the fifteenth national irrigation congress, which meets at Sacramento September 3 to 7: G. C. Flavel, Gust Holms, O. L. Peterson, Andrew Young and C. S. Brown.

EDUCATE YOUR DAUGHTER AT ST. MARY'S ACADEMY AND COLLEGE PORTLAND, OREGON Her future success as a cultured, true-hearted woman of the highest intelligence and usefulness depends on her education and environment during these early, impressionable years. St. Mary's Academy and College, now in its 49th year, offers every possible advantage; the very best mental, moral and physical development, ideal home life, refined associates, the highest grade training in music and art, a splendidly equipped gymnasium—basketball and tennis—a magnificent campus, and every opportunity for laudable enjoyment in the way of daily walks, excursions to nearby parks, and trips to the seashore; also, with the parents' consent, the best singers and musicians are heard, and libraries and art museums visited. In short, students receive, carefully chaperoned, every advantage of life in a metropolitan city. St. Mary's has a national reputation; its students come from many states, including Wisconsin, Montana, Nebraska, Idaho, Alaska and Oregon. There are the two distinct departments—academic and collegiate—each equipped for the most thorough work. Both day and resident students are received—440 having been enrolled the past year—chiefly young ladies. Term opens in September—write at once for booklet giving further information.

Dental Work That Lasts IS WHAT I GUARANTEE Especial care is also taken to make the work presentable and attractive. There are all kinds of dentists and, as usual in all professions, the bottom of the ladder is crowded. In Crown and Bridge Work, porcelain inlays and other operations requiring skill, be careful to whom you entrust the work. A bad job is difficult to remedy, so take no chances. My work has stood the test in Portland for the past 12 years and today I have the largest practice in the northwest. There must be a reason for it. Think. DR. B. E.
