Packers of Fancy Stock Receive Premium for Their Supplies in Market.

FINE CANTS IN

Today's market features:
Fine "cants" from Hood River.
Toppenish "cants" only fair.
No demand for green beans.
Tomato market holding well.
Peach supplies rather scarce.
Ross Wood talks of hops crop.
Fancy eggs holding very firm.
Several cars Oregon meions arrive.
Fancy grapes hard to secure.
Crabs are very scarce.
Fresh salmon supplies nominal.

Oregon cantaloupe growers have much to learn regarding the marketing of this fruit, according to the wholesale trade. It is only on special occasions that the control of the second trade. It is only on special occasions that the control of the second trade. It is only on special occasions that the control of the second trade is the counted on the fingers of one hand. Therefore it is quite refreshing to see one grower who really does grade his supplies before sending them to market. Chief among these is C. N. Benson of Hood River. While Mr. Benson is practically a new man in the cantaloupe business here, his first supplies being sent last year, his "cants" already have a reputation for good quality and packing in the Portland trade that generally takes others years of hard isbor and expense to secure. The reason for this is that the number of cantaloupe growers who grade and properly pack their Fine "Cants" from Hood River. ers who grade and properly pack their supplies is so scarce that whenever a grower really does effective work it is noted at once.

Money in Packing Properly.

Money in Packing Properly.

It is not only the reputation that Mr. Benson has secured in properly packing his supplies but his stocks sell for more money than any other one in the market at this time. Today his "cants" were in eager demand along Front street at $2.25 a crate, while others were selling at lower figures.

There are some good-packed California cantaloupes in the market at the present time, but the California shipping season is ending fast. Local ones are taking their place. Some are coming from Washington points. Some came from Toppenish this morning, but were only in fair shape. Generally speaking, the fruit from that district comes in very good condition. The Portland trade is starting to eliminate these outside "cants" and as soon as a sufficient amount of local stock-is obtained there will be no demand for that from elsewhere. The trade contends that these outside districts buy nothing from Portland but are always willing to sell us something.

Ross Wood Talks of Mops.

Ross H. Wood, connected with the hop brokerage firm of Harry L. Hart, has returned from a vacation and observation trip through the Butteville hop district. Mr. Woods says: "I did not notice so many lice in the yards of late. It seems to me as if the lice now in the yards will scarcely be able to do much damage. I talked with a party from Newberg who said that honeydew was scattered throughout that section. I did not notice any yards affected with the dew at Rutteville."

Fancy Eggs Molding Pirm. Boss Wood Talks of Hops.

Pancy Eggs Holding Firm. For strictly fancy select local ranch eggs the local market is very firm. Receipts of fresh stock are not near so liberal as they were a week ago and the trade is willing to pay a fractional advance for stocks that are fully guaranteed.

Chicken supplies are slightly increased for the Saturday trade. Market holding at former values. Cheese prices are being openly cut on all sides. Some who are quoting out 17c for flats are said to be openly selling at 16c and the high point of the market today is 16%c.

Creamery butter market firmer. Values unchanged.

Brief Botes of the Trade.

Brief Motes of the Trade.

There is no demand at all for string beans at this time, according to Mark Levy. Trade is generally supplied by local gardeners direct to retail trade.

Peach market is in good shape, with supplies of fancy stock small.

Crabs are very scarce. Fresh salmon stock likewise.

Tomato market is in fine shape. Market from 75c to $1. Some that came from Walla Walls were rather rough but ripe. Sold at 85 and 90c.

DRY ROT SHIPPERS UP AGAINST THE LAW

"If I find any peaches or any other fruit with 'dry-rot' in the Portland markets the stocks will be condemned and confiscated at once, no matter who has them. There is a state as well as city law against the practice of sending unhealthy fruit to the mardes and shippers as well as dealers are liable to be prosecuted and subject to heavy fine. It will therefore pay shippers to keep this class of stock at home."-Interview of Sarah A. Evans, market inspector with The Journal.

Completing the Harvest.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Washtucna, Wash., Aug. 16 .- Spring Washtucna, Wash., Aug. 16.—Spring grain throughout this district is now being cut and fall grain will all be cut this week, but very little wheat is as yet being brought to market, although 1,000,000 bushels will be raised in this district and stored for shipment here this season. The late rains have done no damage to the crop, as the grain is too early to bleach, even if the rain had continued for a week longer. So far but little smutty wheat has been encountered.

FANCY EGGS BRING LOOKS LIKE A A SHARP BREAK DROP FOR HOGS BEFORE CLOSING

President Daughtrey Says New York Stock Market Eastern Shipments Will Soon Affect Price.

Portland Union Stockyards, Aug. 16.

Today's run of hogs was 299 head compared with 200 head last Friday, 100 head a year ago and none on this date two years ago. A year ago today the local hog market was firm but unchanged in value.

Sheep Holding at Price.

At the price quoted today by The Journal the sheep market is holding its own despite the very liberal arrivals in the yards during the 24 hours. The run during that period was 808 head, compared with none last Friday, 1,500 head a year ago and 260 head this day in 1905. A year ago today the sheep market was firm at unchanged values.

Liberal Cattle Bun. Run of cattle in the yards past 24 hours reached 275 head as compared with 150 head both a week and a year ago and a nominal number two years ago. Today's market reflected a slightly improved tone close to $4 for top steers. A year ago today cattle were firm at the advance of 25c made the previous day.

GETTING READY TO HANDLE THE GRAIN

(Journal Special Service.)

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 16 .- Warehousemen throughout the country are making great preparations to receive the fall sales of wheat, Krup grain buyers estimate that 1,000,000 bushels will be marmate that 1.000,000 bushels will be mar-keted at that town this fall. Around Trinidad the wheat is nearly all har-vested and some is threshed. The weather has been good, excepting a few days, when it rained. The grain is No. 1 mostly, the wet weather has done no serious damage.

serious damage.

Ritzville has just finished the largest warehouse in this part of the country, having a floor space of 26,000 square feet. The first wheat of the season was received at Kendrick, Idaho, today and stored. It weighed 61% pounds to the stored. It weighed 61½ pounds to the bushel and sold for 65 cents. Washtucna buyers expect about 375,000 sacks and in the north around Waterville and across the Colville the crop is estimated at 8,000,000 bushels, and prices are running from 69 to 70 cents.

With the return of sunshine the farmers for a radius of 80 miles around here have gained new hopes and are now optimistic. The first load of wheat to leave the country was from Ritsville, where Manager Dorgan of the Farmers' warehouse shipped one car.

CANT' GET BIG CROP.

Neglected Hop Yards Will Not Produce a Bumper Yield.

duce a Bumper Yield.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Aug. 16.—The hop market here is very quiet. The buyers report that very few are being offered at the price they are offering, which is from 5 to 5½ cents. What have been offered have been usually in small lots of a few hundred pounds. The buyers themselves are not very particular as to business now as they are imperfectly informed as to the state of the foreign markets on account of the telegraph operators' strike, Many hop growers think it is doubtful if they will pick their crop at present prices as the uncertainty of the market makes it doubtful if expenses would be paid. Those who have last year's crop on their hands find it very difficult to obtain funds to pick the new crop as money will not be advanced on the hops and they are unwilling to mortgage their farms. Estimates of the quantity of old hops left in the Willamette valley by local dealers vary from 15,000 to 18,000 bales. Reports from the country around Salem indicate that the 1907 crop will be little below or above the average.

New York, Aug. 16.—The London stock market was somewhat better and this helped the early market here. Early in the day there were gains of from 3 to 3 points in the leading issues, but professional selling induced general liquidation and this forced a sharp decline in values just previous to the closing. There was a report that the Allis-Chalmers company was in difficulty and that a receiver was appointed. This that a receiver was appointed. This was later denied by company officials

Late Hop News.

Gervals, Or., Aug. 16.-There have been several sales of hops in this sec-tion at about 5 cents per pound the past few days. The crop outlook is not so good as usual either, for quantity, few days. The crop outlook is not so good as usual either, for quantity, quality or price and as a result many have neglected their yards so much that it will be impossible to get the quantity or quality. The non-cultivation of the yards has had the effect of causing an early maturing of the crop and many will be picking before the month passes. George Kneutson, on North Howell, says his early 'Fuggles would be ready to pick by the 22 of August. He will pick them and then go into his later varieties. Varion Palmer & Son have a large yard of earlies, near Mount Angel, and Intend starting on them about the 23d. There are only a few yards of the early varieties in this section, but more are going to be planted, as it helps not to have so much acreage all at one time.

San Francisco Grain Market. San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Close: Wheat—December $1.48. Barley—May $1.35%, December $1.32 per cental. HIGHEST PRICE IS

Following the sharp advance in the wholesale price of creamery butter to 35 cents a pound the other day, the Demascus Creamery company today announced an advance in its quotations to 37% cents a pound or 75 cents a square. This is the highest price ever reached by the price of butter at this time of year. So far as known this was the only creamery to make the advance. The new values would place the retail price of butter at 85 cents a roll.

The volume of grain business in this district is growing rapidly. Millers are very liberal buyers of wheat for their own use and are taking all offerings at the present values. Exporters are not in the market at this time, local values being above a basis for export business. There is considerable business reported in the export flour market during the past 48 hours at $3.79. While these prices are considered rather a steep one by flour buyers, on the other side they are nevertheless progressing.

steep one by flour buyers, on the other side they are nevertheless progressing quite freely for delivery.

Oats—Sales are quite fair at a lower range of values than old crop.

Chicago Losses Advance.

The Chicago wheat market started in very strong and made a good gain. The higher Liverpool cables were a good help but after a short advance the market lost its gain and closed %c down for September and December. May was %c up at the end of the session.

Oats Crop Is Short.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Brownsville, Or., Aug. 16.—Harvest machines are again at work this morn-ing. The recent rain delayed work for some time, but the grain was not dam-aged. Fall wheat and barley are turnaged. Fall wheat and barley are turn-ing out well, but the spring oat crop was rather short. Very nearly all the oats are cut, those that are later are not o good as the earlier growth.

Parents are afraid to let their children go into the streets, and, unless an escort is available, they are timorous even of sending them to school.

This monster began his work on Friday by murdering one little girl and making flendish attacks on two others, and yesterday he made another attempt to take the life of a child.

He went to the staircase of a tenament house not far from the center of the city today, and seized Helene Arendt, a girl of 12 years, who was coming down the stairs.

He clutched her by the throat to prevent her crying out, and was in the act of drawing his knife, when the occupants of one of the tenements appeared on the stairs.

Enterprising Irishman Sets Nations Agog by Making Bogus Pictures.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) London, Aug. 16.—It is seldom indeed that the legislature of a nation brings up for discussion the doings of the newspapers of the land. Yet the present English Parliament will be noted for this very thing,

When the British house of comm debated on the doings of the Times, nothis very thing.

When the British house of commons debated on the doings of the Times, notably during the Crimean war, again during the American civil war just after the bitle of Bull Run and again during the Parnell-Pigott affair, history was woven. But this year parliament has tackled more than one paper. There was first of all a little Irish sheet down Wexford way, then the London Standard came into the limelight, closely followed by the Daily Mail and now the Daily Graphic has had a turn.

Unquestionably the Daily Graphic case was the most interesting and caused the greatest stir. And the trapble was all about some pictures which England's only penny daily illustrated paper published the end of last month, on July 20, to be accurate.

There have been a good many cases of cattle-driving and moonlighting of late in some of the remoter districts of Ireland. On the date mentioned the Graphic came out with a set of haifpage cuts of moonlighting scenes. The paper calmly announced that the light had been very bad when the alleged outrages occurred and that the enterprising correspondent had waited for better light later and specially rosed the actual perpetrators in the very act which they had committed and had then photographed them.

The British public, despite the recent huge influx of Americans and American ideas into this country, still takes matters seriously, and it is not recorded that any of the Daily Graphic readers smiled as they viewed the pictures. In some quarters, perhaps, the "enterprise" of the papers for the following days by Irish members and the attorney-general for Ireland, Mr. Cherry, put in an appearance to answer them. But he gave little satisfaction and still more questions appeared 80 Mr. Cherry, put in an appearance to answer them. Augry at Correspondent.

Many of the Irish members wanted the correspondent imprisoned and proceedings taken against the paper. John Redmond, the Irish leader, wanted a law passed prohibiting papers from publishing such pictures or in fact any picture of any Irish "outrages."

Arnold Herbert declared the correspondent ought to be arrested as an accessory after the fact. Swift McNeill was anxious for the correspondent to be prosecuted for libeling a whole people as was Pettier by Bonaparte when first consul. The member for Cork, Mr. Flynn, was sure the events never took place. He told of other pictures supposed to depict affairs in the County Cork, which he swore never occured. The government was quick to see an opening. The attorney-general agreed instantly with Mr. Flynn and so did every one else. So it was decided that the events never occurred, the Irish members were once more happy and the incident closed.

But parliament's declaration practically brands the Graphic pictures as glaring fakes. The paper may now have an inning or it may forget the whole affair. I saw Mr. Hammond Hall, the ed-ing fakes. The paper may now have an inning or it may forget the whole affair. I saw Mr. Hammond Hall, the editor-in-chief of the Daily Graphic, about the matter. Mr. Hall was one of the half dozen men invited to represent England at the opening of the Carnegie institute this summer at Pittsburg.
