Telegraphers Adopt Resolutions Against the Printing of Non-Union Copy—Little Change in the Local Situation.

The Portland local of the Commercial Telegraphers at their meeting this morning passed the following resolution which will be presented to Multnomah Typographical union.

"Whereas, The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, now being on a general strike against all commercial telegraph and press corporations, except those having a union contract, to bring about better conditions of the telegraph operators and to obtain justice from their employers, and whereas, The Typographical Union of America, being affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the Commercial Telegraphers' union is also affiliated, and whose support the telegraphers have a right to expect, be it

Resolved, That the Multnomah local of the International Typographical union be and is hereby requested to take some action as regards the handling of nonunion copy.

"C. E. BRANIN,
Chairman.
"E. D. MORGAN, Committee."

The actions followed the receipt of a communication from San Francisco stating that resolutions had been passed requesting the San Francisco local of the typographical union to take up the matter of handling nonunion copy, especially that of the Associated Press.

These resolutions were forwarded to the national convention of the typographical union, now in session at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Locally there is no change in the battle lines between the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, the Associated Press and the operators. There have been no defections from the union ranks and with the exception that Assistant Superintendent Blake at the Postal operator has been put to work at the Oregon hotel no additions to the number of keys in operation.

The tribe demands the immediate surrender of the town and threatens that a general attack by the Arabs will follow a refusal to comply. General Druode received the communication this morning, but has not replied to it as yet.

NEW BRICK HOTEL FOR FRONT STREET

John Mathiesen Will Erect Hostelry at Corner of Harrison to Cost $50,000.

John Mathiesen, the well-known front-street boniface, has taken out a permit for the erection of a four-story brick hotel to cover the quarter block at the southwest corner of Front and Harrison streets. The new hostelry will cost $50,000 and will contain 120 guest chambers.

The walls of the basement and first story are to be of reinforced concrete, and the remaining stories will be of brick construction with concrete trimmings. The plan is originally drawn provided for a five-story building, but on account of some expensive changes demanded by the building inspector's department, Mr. Mathiesen decided to limit the height of the structure by one story.

Mr. Mathiesen is a firm believer in front-street property, having bought and sold holdings on that street within the past year to the value of nearly $350,000.

TIME MONEY CANNOT BE FOUND IN STOCK MARKET

Thorough Demoralization Results From Failure of Large Manufacturing Concerns and Complete Tie-Up of News by the Telegraphers.

(Journal Special Service.)

New York, Aug. 17.—With the monetary situation most thoroughly demoralized owing to various conditions, the stock market values are still on the downgrade, with no indications of a let-up in the losses.

It has just developed that time money cannot be secured at any price or upon any security in the local market. This announcement came as a thunderbolt into the stock market. The trade had somewhat of an idea that money was tight and scarce but it never realized until today that the situation was as bad as this.

The fact that several large manufacturing concerns recently went to the wall because they could not secure sufficient funds to operate until more favorable collections could be made, was the keynote of the bear clique in the stock market today.

The momentary advance at the start of the session was due to a slightly better exhibit by the statement of the associated banks than had been expected. This led to a further fractional rise early but all this was lost later when the full import of the bank statement had been digested by the trade. The latter came to the conclusion that, although conditions were slightly better than expected, the statement fully confirmed the tightness of the money market. This letter was used as a club by the bears to depress the entire list; the few issues making a gain in value for the day doing so for brief moments.

The strike of the telegraphers, is worse instead of better for although the larger brokers are supplied with wires to the more important centers, it is exceedingly hard to get news and without news the traders are as scared as a small boy in a darkened room.

The foreign situation is far from encouraging to American stock concerns. While there has been no panic on the other side as yet, the buying of American shares is on a very small scale and then only at a lower range of values.

The recent advance in the Bank of England rate has demoralized the financial situation on the other side. Front financiers agree that the latter was due to the strained situation in the United States and the advance was made in the interest rate to stop money from going across the ocean except at figures that would be ruinous to stock market manipulators.

Advice received here from Boston indicates that copper stocks are being thrown overboard by the traders who cannot secure the money to carry their investments further. This, recently caused a bad break in values there.

GREATEST OF DETECTIVES DEAD UPON THE ATLANTIC

Robert A. Pinkerton Passes Away at Sea While En Route to Europe.

(Journal Special Service.)

New York, Aug. 17.—Robert A. Pinkerton, head of the Pinkerton detective agency, died August 12 on the steamer Bremen on the way to Europe for his health.

Robert A. Pinkerton, one of the greatest detectives the world has ever known, and at the time of his death at the head of the Pinkerton National Detective agency, was the second son of Allan Pinkerton, founder of the agency. He was born in Dundee, Illinois, 57 years ago.

He entered the service of his father at the age of 15 after finishing in the public schools and has since taken an active part in the service. When his father died in 1884 he and his brother, William Allan Pinkerton, succeeded to the business.

Robert Pinkerton has been identified with the greatest detective cases in the history of the country, the two principal of which were the arrest in Cuba of Austin Bidwell, the Bank of Robert Pinkerton also took an active part in running down the James boys and Younger brothers and was principal in the arrest of Evans and Sonntag.

At the time Bidwell, who forged checks on the Bank of England, was arrested, practically all of the stolen money was recovered. Bidwell served 15 years for the crime in which he was chief, afterward reformed, and went on the lecture stage. For years following he was a frequent visitor with Robert Pinkerton and at present is still living.

Robert Pinkerton had resided in New York city during the past 25 years, where he leaves an estate valued at $1,000,000. He leaves a widow, a son, Alan, and two daughters. Both the latter were in Portland while making a tour of the Pacific coast a couple of years ago.

PORTLAND ARCHITECTS OPTIMISTIC

Lumber Market Looks as If It Was on Eve of Tumble Which Would Undoubtedly Mean Great Building Movement Hereabouts.

Harriman Railroads Are Receiving Credit for Impending Fall in Prices Which Experts Hold Is Deserved Check.

An optimistic feeling has suddenly seized upon Portland architects and builders, and is already spreading to the heretofore dubious citizen who had been trying to figure cost prices low enough to warrant him in building a home at present prices of materials. It is said the lumber market is on the eve of a tumble, and that the result will be another great building movement in Portland this fall and winter.

The Harriman railroads, strangely enough, are getting credit for the impending fall in local lumber prices. Architects who have much to do with the building of homes in Portland say that the proposed increase of transcontinental freight rates is responsible.

Attorney-General Declares Wall Street Shall Not Change His Course.

(Journal Special Service.)

Washington, Aug. 17.—Attorney-General Bonaparte made answer to Wall Street's charge that he was treating the great financial and industrial enterprises of the country flippantly. He made it plain in a carefully dictated interview that he would not be swayed from his purpose of proceeding against illegal combinations. He said:

"I cannot understand how any sensible person could be affected in dealing with matters of business by any remarks real or apocryphal which have been attributed to me. I should say that business men ought to wish to have the laws strictly and impartially enforced. The department of justice proposes to do precisely this and nothing more. It is required by law to enforce certain penal statutes which make certain firms' action crimes against the United States. I propose to enforce the law against big and little alike without fear or favor."

HARRIMAN TO BE HERO SOME DAY

Railroad Magnate Declares He Will Be Understood After He Is Dead.

(Journal Special Service.)

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—E. H. Harriman, who arrived here yesterday morning in a special train of seven cars, proceeded on his way to Klamath lake, where he and his two boys, who are with him, will spend a brief holiday. Harriman does not seem the same aggressive Harriman who was here a year ago. The strain of the last few months has begun to show. He spoke mournfully of his work.

"The time will come when things that I have done will be understood and not misunderstood," he said. "There is a time for all things. The time may come when I am dead."

The railroad magnate paid his respects to Attorney-General Bonaparte and the Roosevelt administration with the statement: "Really, I am not interested in them."
