

TREMENDOUS IMPETUS SHOWN IN CROOK COUNTY

Such Is Governor Chamberlain's Opinion of Irrigated Section, Notwithstanding Fact That There Is Crying Need for Transportation Facilities Everywhere.

Development of Crook county's irrigated section, handicapped as it is through the crying need of transportation facilities, has nevertheless shown a tremendous impetus during the past year, and the whole of that region is undergoing a rapid, remarkable and pleasing transformation.

This in substance is the conclusion reached by Governor Chamberlain, who returned last night from an extended tour of inspection through the district in company a part of the time with United States District Attorney Bristol, T. B. Neuhansen, John T. Whistler of the reclamation service, and F. S. Standley, secretary of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company, which is engaged in irrigating 100,000 acres of Crook county's semi-arid plains.

Governor Chamberlain's first visit to Crook county since he first left last year on an inspection trip. Since that time the amount of the lien which the company holds against the land which is being reclaimed under state supervision has been raised and it was for the purpose of thoroughly investigating conditions to determine whether the present lien is too great that the tour was made last week. This was also the purpose of the visit of the governor's official train.

Governor Chamberlain came back to Portland thoroughly satisfied with conditions as he found them. The greatest harmony exists between the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company and the settlers under their canal, and instead of being disgruntled are pleased with the increase in the amount of the lien against the land.

"The company has spent a tremendous amount of money in building its irrigation works," said the governor last night, "and so far as I found they have complied with their state contract to the letter. I talked with dozens of settlers on the irrigated lands and found that they were pleased with the increase in the lien price. The company was doing its work there at a financial loss and the opinion was expressed by the settlers that they were glad if the lien price had been placed at such a figure as would represent the cost of the irrigation work."

Will Build Reservoir. "In addition to its canal work, the company has selected a site above Bend where it will construct a huge reservoir for the purpose of storing water during the winter in order to meet any emergency which may arise during the next season."

The whole country is developing rapidly. There has been a tremendous increase in the amount of wheat raised the section last year and the growth is steady and substantial. It is a wonderful country, full of unlimited possibilities, and irrigation companies has the hearty cooperation of the settlers in its undertaking.

Governor Chamberlain has spent nearly a week in the central part of the state. The party left Portland last Saturday morning and after leaving Shaniko rode through the agency plains to Madras, thence south to Redmond and Bend through the irrigated sections upon which the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company is at work. From Bend a trip was made across the Deschutes into the Grouse basin, where the Columbia Southern Irrigation company has been at work on a segregation of 80,000 acres of arid land.

The Columbia Southern company became involved with the state land board over a year ago relative to the terms of its contract and since that time has done practically no work. District Attorney Bristol and other government officials are at present making an investigation of the latter company's failure to comply with its agreement and action will probably result in favor of the settlers.

Governor Chamberlain spoke encouragingly of the wonderful crop of wheat which has been raised this year in the vicinity of Madras and through the Haystack country. It is the largest crop in the history of that country, but the great good which would naturally accrue to the farmers who have raised it is stunted materially by the lack of railroad facilities.

Transportation Needs. "They tell me that one small strip of country is going to produce 3,000,000 bushels of wheat this year," said the executive. "It is a shame that the country's wonderful possibilities should be lost to suffer from the lack of adequate means of transportation."

Mr. Bristol and T. B. Neuhansen remained in Crook county as did also Mr. Stanley. The two former will complete their investigation, which was delayed several days through their inability to leave Portland at the same time that Governor Chamberlain departed. It is expected, however, that they will return here within a few days.

The Deschutes Irrigation & Power company has completed practically 800 miles of main canal, which will furnish water for another area for which application for patent has been made.

Japanese Boat in Chicago.

From the Chicago Daily News. While peaceful citizens on both sides of the world are reading about the troubles between the United States and Japan, few of Chicago's 3,000,000 are aware that a Japanese boat is here. Yet nevertheless it is true. A Japanese vessel bearing the formidable name of Hoomaru is in the Jackson Park launching house and needs only a few guns, a new motor and a searchlight in order to take at least some part in any hostilities that might arise between the two countries. The Hoomaru, which is about twenty feet long, belongs to the Japanese government, and carried passengers on the lagoon during the World's Fair in connection with the Japanese exhibit. It has never been removed, but remains in drydock within a stone's throw of the wooded island. Hundreds of people have peered the curious craft daily and wonder what it is and why it is there.

RACE MEN MOURN BOB PINKERTON

Patron of the Sport and the Grim Guardian of the Track.

ITS CRIMINAL FRINGE HE KEPT SNIPPED OFF

Friend of All Who Were in the Sport for Sport's Sake, Whether Opulent or Impecunious—His Death a Surprise and a Shock.

(Special News by Longest Leased Wire.) New York, Aug. 17.—Robert Allan Pinkerton, head of the famous detective agency and one of the best known detectives in the world, died on Monday at sea, on the liner Bremen, which was on her way to Plymouth, Cherbourg and Bremen.

The news was flashed over the cable from Europe today when the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen from New York arrived off the Lizard on her way to Plymouth, Cherbourg and Bremen. The ship was nearing Europe when "Bob" passed away. He was bound upon a long tour of the continent. His health had been bad for several weeks and his physicians had told him—thought it was not generally known—that his only chance for life was to give up work and go abroad. He suffered from heart disease and was going to Carlsbad and other German resorts in the hope of recovering his physical well-being. It was his last trip across the ocean. He appeared to be in good spirits during the first few days after leaving port. News of his death came as a great shock to the thousands who knew him.

Friend of All at the Track.

Especially did the race track crowds mourn him, for he was their protector and friend. There was no more familiar figure about any of the great courses than "Bob" Pinkerton. He was the associate of millionaires and of "pickers" and was as fair and cordial to one as to the other. Mr. Pinkerton's chief business in the last few years had been to guard the race track against crooked dealing by trainers and jockeys and to secure safety and comfort for the crowds by barring pickpockets and other crooks from the stands and betting rings. But that work did not prevent him from acting, with his brother, William, as head of the agency that bears his name and keeping in touch with its many operations throughout the world. Robert Allan Pinkerton was the son of Allan Pinkerton, acknowledged to have been the greatest detective ever known. His mother was Jean Carraee, daughter of a refugee from the French revolution. He was born at Dundee, Illinois, in 1843.

THE A. B. CHASE is Sovereign among PLAYER PIANOS. It has surpassed other players, and gone far in advance of older and highly advertised inferior makes.

IT IS DIFFERENT

THE A. B. CHASE is unlike other players. It is different. It is more easily operated and produces better results than other players. It is different in appearance. With the A. B. CHASE you sit in a restful position in an "easy" chair and enjoy the music. It is different in that the mechanism is all below the keyboard and the music roll is near the expression levers, enabling the operator to watch the roll and give perfect expression to the music. Don't pay a big price for an old-fashioned player that has not passed the A B C stage, when you can just as well own the best, the A. B. Chase. This remarkable player is now to be seen at

LIQUOR INTERESTS FORM NEW POLITICAL SOCIETY

Patriotic Brotherhood of Liberty Defenders Want to Revise Oregon Constitution and Repeal Initiative and Referendum Measures.

High sounding in name and revolutionary in the objects it seeks to accomplish, the Patriotic Brotherhood of Liberty Defenders was launched upon the political sea of Oregon yesterday when its trustees applied for articles of incorporation. Termed a political society, the members will endeavor to revise the constitution of Oregon, do away with the initiative and referendum and wipe off all the "prohibitive and oppressive" laws ever passed by the state legislature. The trustees who applied for incorporation are: Eugene H. Field, who presides over the Portland justice court; Adolph F. Prasil, who presides over the saloon owned by Ernest C. Gray, at 148 Fourth street, and Cecil G. Applegate, a son-in-law of Prasil. Not only do the society seek to do away with the blue laws and open the way for unrestrained selling of liquor, but they are anti-religious in its aims. Religion must have no place with the government, say the liberty defenders, although they failed to make clear just what particular part in the government religion at present plays. Patriotic, liberal and progressive government will result if the voters of Oregon take up the burden of the Patriotic Brotherhood of Liberty Defenders. "We will have 50,000 members by next spring," said Mr. Prasil last night. "The society will be a fraternal brotherhood and will carry sick and accident benefits. We will put an end to these blue laws and restore liberty to the people. There is nothing that will ever stop this movement once it is started. I have made a careful study of the question for five years and know that we have hit upon the right way of securing the changes we want. The people are tired of the blue laws and the initiative and referendum will be things of the past." "This is a political society," continued the liberty defender, "and we will wipe out all this foolish legislation that has been going on in this state. Our constitution is all wrong and the liberty defenders will set it right. There will be no more blue laws and the initiative and referendum will be things of the past." Then Mr. Prasil explained at length and several other ways what he thought of the manner in which legislation had been conducted in Oregon in the past. In the future whatever measure does not meet with the approval of the members will be repealed and the proposals will take the form of the French appeal to reason as set down by Mr. Prasil last night.

REVENUE CUTTER IS DAMAGED BY ROCKS

Manning Strikes Uncharted Reef and Goes to Sitka for Repairs.

(Special News by Longest Leased Wire.) Washington, Aug. 17.—Captain Ross of the revenue cutter service has received a telegram from Valdes, Alaska, saying that the revenue cutter Manning had struck an uncharted rock near Valdes and had been badly damaged. The vessel, it was stated, had gone to Sitka, Alaska, for repairs. The Manning has been watching the seal fisheries in the Arctic ocean. Most of the cases of poaching so far have been charged to the Japanese.

The Eastern Oklahoma Independent Cotton Ginners' association met recently and issued a protest against the proposed introduction of Japanese labor for chopping and picking cotton.

WOODMEN WORKERS FEAST AND TOAST

Representatives of Pacific Jurisdiction Meet at Complimentary Dinner.

The banquet rooms of the Boston Palace presented a perfect bower of flowers and ferns last night at the complimentary dinner given to the organization force of the Woodmen of the World now assembled in the city. Williams, who in a neat speech welcomed the guests. Peter B. Gilroy, general organizer of California, responded, paying a glowing tribute to the hospitality of the Woodmen of the World of the great northwest. Following were the toasts of the evening: "Impressions of the Northwest," Thomas J. Van Hooser of Utah; "Relation of the Fraternal Press to the Organization," J. G. Woodcock; "One of Our Youngsters," W. E. Burrows of Washington; "Those Who Dwell in Cliffs," James M. Kennedy of western Colorado; "California," W. E. Burrows of California; "Story Times," A. C.
