

Portland. Society folk who have not gone away for the summer weeks are resting at their homes with no social duties to attend to and an unbroken quiet prevails. At the beach and the springs there is gaiety enough and to spare. Horseback riding is becoming more and more a popular beach occupation and enthusiastic equestrians find their way from one beach to another and enjoy the beautiful rides. At Gearhart Park the pretty links keep many busy and the green is dotted constantly with devotees. Surf bathing, agate hunting, clam digging. benfires, exploring parties, boating, and canoeing share equal honors for the re-canceing share equal honors for the remaining hours, and those who spend much time indoors have taken with them their bridge scores and are building them up to a greater height.

September I will see a large number of the outers returning to town to prepare for the winter season. Many girls must be prepared for their return to college and those who go to California university are already packing up.

The coming winter promises to be a gay one in respect to theatricals and musical offerings. A complete schedule of the Heilig attractions has not been made up yet but the arrangements so far show more than the usual number of good things. The Steers-Coman music series has not been made public but they promise some excellent attractions and will soon be able to tell their patrons about them.

A number of the houseboats that have been moored on Ross Island and on the banks of the Willamette as far up as Oswego are beginning to return with their summer burdens, for even though the days continue warm and sunshiny the evenings are cool on the water.

Friday night was Commercial club night at the Rock Island club and there was an unusually large attend-The attraction of the evening the first public appearance in Portland of Mrs. Katherina Krieg Mc-Cord, soprano, whose splendid d unbounded enthusiasm. Mrs. McCord is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Leipsic and is a German by birth. She has a good eratic record behind her, though she has given up her operatic work since her marriage. She has toured the country with the Conreid and Pike Opera

It is a real pleasure to hear Mrs rd sing for she so thoroughly en joys her work. Her method is German esembling the style of Schumann-Heink and Gadski, with its fervor and ease combined with dignity. She sings without affectation and has a fine stage presence. Her program Friday was made up of light airs but they showed the volume, range and dramatic possibilities of her voice so that her hearers enthusiastically hoped for a second concert appearance before long in which she may do bigger work. She was ably accompanied by Dr. Emil Enna, the Danish pianist, who has recently come from Denver to open a studio.

The attendance was large and num-bered many prominent people and the evening was one or the social successes evening was one of the social successes of the club.
